BERLIN—Feb. 2.—Germany, although officially uninformed, sensed a crisis tonight which involves the incumbents of the highest places in its government and army.

Gen. Von Fritsch.

Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, and his secret marriage Jan. 12 to Erika Gruhn, a carpenter's daughter, are the center of the difficulties, which reports indicated are serious.

The war minister's romance—he and his bride are on a secluded honeymoon on the Isle of Capri near Naples, Italy—has given the crisis a cast similar to that in Great Britain when King Edward VIII., now the duke of Windsor, abdicated for the love of Mrs. Wallis Warfield, now his duchess.

Bride Falls to Measure Up.

Army officers objected strenuously to the marriage on the ground that Frau von Blomberg does not measure up to the social standards required under war department rules for officers' wives.

This dissatisfaction broke out in the high command of the army and served to bring to the fore the latent friction between the army and the Nazi party.

Reports persisted tonight that Von Blomberg resigned his post as minister of war last Friday and that Reichsfuehrer Hitler is seeking a successor for him and at the same time is reorganizing the military high command.

Hitler, as supreme commander of the German army, is considering the advisability of following the example of Premier Mussolini and taking over personally the war ministry, provided he decides to accept Von Blomberg's resignation.

Aids Confer with Hitler.

Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air; Heinrich Himmler, chief of all police, including the GSP [secret police] and Schutz Staffel [picked guards], and Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazi party, were closeted with Hitler almost continuously today.

Hitler is seeking to coördinate the desires of the Nazi party, which wants to "eliminate all reactionary tendencies from the army." The army never concealed its distaste of the more radical Nazi groups preaching racial hatred under the leadership of Julius Streicher, or mocking Christianity or seeking to introduce economic methods which, in the view of the conservative army circles, "smack of red state socialism."

The army leaders in conference with Hitler under the leadership of Col. Gen. Werner von Fritsch, chief of staf of the army, clearly formulated a military economic policy which they believe must be adhered to for the sake of Germany's safety from racial, economic, and military viewpoints.

Report Ultimatum to Hitler.

Usually well informed political circles in Berlin even went so far tonight as to assert that Col. Gen. Fritsch, who is commander-in-chief of the army, tendered his resignation to the Fuehrer, declaring he would resume duty only if the army's demands were given fullest consideration. Von Fritsch, who is one of the ablest men in the new German Carried from Court After 2d Collapse.

WRIGHT WITHERS UNDER QUIZZING BY PROSECUTION

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Paul A. Wright, former airport manager, was carried from the courtroom late today after he had collapsed for the second time under a bombardment of questions by the prosecution over the details of how he shot to death his wife and friend, John Kimmel.

In a hammering cross-examination, Chief Prosecutor S. E. Roll took Wright again and again over details of his story that he shot Mrs. Wright and Kimmel when he found them embracing at 4 a. m. on a piano bench in the Wright home.

Wright collapsed earlier in the afternoon and, unable to continue, had a bailif rub his pale hands. A special recess was called and he was assisted from the stand. Returning 15 minutes later, he wept and sobbed at several points. As the regular afternoon recess neared he collapsed again.

Seeks to Show Premeditation.

Roll attempted to get Wright to say just how far he had advanced into the living room when he saw his wife, Evelyn, and Kimmel on the piano bench.

"I don't know," Wright replied, sobbing, "but I saw what I saw."

The prosecution theory is that several seconds elapsed between Wright's first sight of the scene and the time he shot his victims—and that the slayings, therefore, were premeditated.

Roll confronted Wright with his statement to Glendale police saying, "I shot, shot, shot—everything that was in me." Wright said he did not recall making this declaration, and finally insisted: "I have no consciousness of the shooting at all."

Roll virtually completed his cross-examination. Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler will start re-direct examination tomorrow.

Denies Knowledge of Shot.

In discussing the actual shooting scene, Roll asked Wright whether the noise of the first shot he fired didn't bring him to his senses. Wright said he didn't know; that he had no knowledge of firing the first shot.

Q.—You don't know if you picked up any shells? A.—No.

Q.—After this happened, did you turn the lights on? A.—I remember trying to pull myself together. I went to the telephone and said: "Give me the police."

Roll showed Wright the statement he made to police which said: "They looked up and smiled and kissed again. All I could think of was to destroy that vision."

Q.—Did you think of destroying that vision? A.—I felt no emotion—everything went blank.

Q.—Well, was that statement about you attempting to destroy that vision true? A.—No, I don't know. I was trying to piece things together.

Dwells on Scene in Room.

As Roll hammered away on the scene in the living room as Wright had pictured it, the witness wept audibly, but Roll kept on, doggedly.

Q.—You say they were seated on the bench. A.—Yes.

Q.—How long did you stay there and look at them? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did Mrs. Wright put her arm around Kimmel's shoulder. A.—She was rising at the time I looked. She put her left arm around his shoulder.

Q.—Did Kimmel put his arm around her? A.—Yes; he put both arms around her.

Earlier Roll asked Wright whether he had made a statement that he had a sterilization operation because he did not wish to have any more children.

As he shouted, "No—that's absolutely untrue—I never made such a statement," a sudden display of hysteria gripped the witness.

Quizzed on Marital Life.

Wright said he did not recall that his wife asked him not to go out with other women because of danger to health. He admitted he had told his wife that he had been out with other women, but he said that these statements were merely for the purpose of retaliating for the stories of affairs his wife told and then denied.

He said he and his wife always questioned each other about where they had been and what they had done. He admitted he was suspicious, adding, "but in my heart I trusted her."

"You were on the verge of a separation many times, weren't you?" Roll asked.

"No, I don't think so," said Wright.

Dewey Moves for Quick Trial of Policy King

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey gave orders tonight to rush the extradition of J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, disbarred attorney and fugitive from an indictment charging him with directing New York City's 50 million dollar a year policy game racket.

A swift raid by Dewey's men on an apartment in Philadelphia early today resulted in the capture of Davis and his showgirl companion, Rose Rickert, and George Weinberg, notorious New York gangster. The two men were in cells in Philadelphia tonight with their bail set at $300,000 each, pending extradition. The girl was released after bondsmen furnished a $2,500 bail.

The arrests were regarded as the most important and far reaching since Dewey began his forays into the New York underworld three years ago as a special rackets prosecutor. Dewey said that as a result of capturing these two principal defendants, the trial of the numbers game racketeers would be started in a short time.

Takes Dead Gangster's Mantle.

Davis, who is 35 years old, leaped into notoriety during the last few years as attorney for the New York gang leader, Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer. When Schultz, as he was commonly known, died of gun wounds in a gang assassination two years ago, it was Davis who stepped in to direct his far flung underworld enterprises.

Disbarment did not halt the young attorney, who had become a fabulous character by the time he was indicted last summer. Then he fled from the Dewey prosecution, leaving his penthouse, skyscraper office suite and other evidences of his new found riches. Davis had boasted of his political connections, and Dewey, running for district attorney on the Republican ticket last fall, charged that Davis had become the intimate friend and associate of the most powerful district politician in New York. The name of the politician is expected to come out in the forthcoming trial.

Weinberg Is Gang's Old Gunner.

Running over the records of the prisoners in his office tonight, Dewey described Weinberg as the chief gunman for Schultz. It was recalled that Weinberg carried $50,000 in cash to Albany several years ago to furnish bail for Schultz in an income tax evasion case.

The Rickert woman, 26 years old, red haired and attractive, appeared in several Broadway revues under the name of Hope Dare.

FED UP WITH GIRLS AT 22; BRIDE WILL BE SPINSTER OF 70

Unionville, Conn., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Just plain fed up with young girls "that keep me up till 3 in the morning and get me all worn out." John Lorenick, 22 years old, announced today that he's going to marry Miss Henrietta W. Peiper, 70 years old, a spinster, within the next few days.

His fiancée, a practical nurse who owns considerable property in Connecticut and Florida, went with him to apply for a marriage license yesterday, and then the couple went to New Britain, where Miss Peiper bought an automobile.

"Why should I marry some young girl that would keep me out drinking and running around until I'd be all worn out the next morning?" Lorenick demanded.

"This way, I will have a wife who can help me be home early and take care of my health. She can also help me if I want to go into business. There's not many men who get a wife like that."

GETS A SAMPLE OF HOW RARE A BARGAIN CAN BE

Until yesterday assorted door knockers, including boys selling magazines to get through college, vacuum cleaner salesmen, and demonstrators of housewares got a ready audience from Mrs. Edna O'Neill of 319 South Bell avenue.

But, until then, she had never been visited by any linoleum salesmen.

They came, a pair, and produced samples that convinced her at once that she was about to buy a bargain. A fine, inlaid linoleum it was—and only $8 for a 9 by 12 rug. Mrs. O'Neill said quickly that she would take three. When could they be delivered?

"We carry our stock right with us," said one of the men.

He and his partner carried in the rugs. They were rolled up in burlap. The master salesman cut the cords and showed Mrs. O'Neill that what she was getting was the linoleum rugs for which she had bargained.

"But don't unroll 'em until they're warm," he said. "They might crack."

Then he collected $24 and went away. A little later Mrs. O'Neill discovered that the rugs, instead of being 9 by 12 were about 9 by 2. The rest of the roll was filled up with paper.

Find $12,000 When Renter Who Won't Pay Is Evicted

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies, who evicted Levi N. Perkins, 55 years old, colored, for ten years non-payment of ground rent, found $12,000 cash and some confederate money in his safes. "I'm just a handyman," Perkins said, explaining the money. He said he'd move to a house he owns.

Naval Planes Crash in Air; Ten Missing

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 3 [Thursday].—(AP)—Two San Diego-based navy flying boats operating with the fleet in maneuvers 70 miles southwest of Point Loma crashed about 8:37 o'clock [10:37 p. m. central standard time] last night.

Four of the fourteen aboard were rescued, the commander of aircraft of the scouting force announced early today. Names of the rescued and missing were not disclosed.

The survivors, the announcement stated, were picked up by the U. S. S. Tennessee and all available surface vessels were pressed immediately into the search for the others. Planes from the battleship will join the search at daylight.

The crash occurred in the vicinity of the line of battleships.

Each of the planes, which took off from here yesterday morning to join in the extensive maneuvers, carried seven men.

Only small bits of the wreckage were recovered, it was reported by a staf officer who declined use of his name.

LAST EVANSTON HARNESS SHOP GOING TO DOGS

Without conceding that the automobile will ever replace the horse, Peter Miller admitted last night that the harness shop he founded 42 years ago—the last one in Evanston—is going to be torn down. It is in the middle of a row of buildings from 1566 to 1574 Sherman avenue, overlooking Fountain square in downtown Evanston, that will be wrecked in March.

Mr. Miller sold the shop several years ago to Frank Chandler, but because of Mr. Chandler's illness the founder was in charge when plans for razing the buildings were announced. The shop still does a thriving business, he said, repairing suitcases and making harness—mostly dog harness.

PUT DEPRESSION BLAME AT DOOR OF ROOSEVELT

END HIGH TAXES; QUIT HARASSING, PRESIDENT TOLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The small business men who were here at the invitation of the White House to talk over the recession had definite opinions as to its causes and what the administration could do to help.

They condemned President Roosevelt and his administration for:

1. High taxes.
2. Riotous spending.
3. Unwaranted attacks on business.
4. Ill-advised regulation of business.
5. Failure to adopt a consistent policy toward business.
6. Engendering a lack of confidence on the part of business.
7. Heeding the advice of theorists.

Among the suggestions offered for meeting the depression were:

1. Establishment of a government agency for immediate financial relief of business.
2. Repeal of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.
3. Repeal of nuisance taxes.
4. Slashing waste in WPA and other federal expenditures.
5. Adoption of a specific policy and assurance that it will be followed.
6. Abandonment of the unsound propaganda that business can maintain high wages, pay high taxes, establish shorter hours and meet increased costs and at the same time cut prices.
7. Curtailment of all attacks on business.
8. Liberalization of credit policies.
9. Incorporation of labor unions to make them as responsible as business.
10. Abolition of tax exempt securities.
11. Abolition of exempting city, state, and federal employés from various income taxes.
12. Modification of unemployment taxes which work a hardship on small business men.

SECRETARIES OF LAWMAKERS ASK TRAVEL PAY, TOO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A movement among the secretaries of senators and representatives to obtain 10 cents a mile for traveling expenses between their homes and Washington has reached the accounts committee of the house. It was estimated that if a mileage resolution for secretaries were adopted it would cost about $275,000 a year.

Member of congress collected $225,000 travel pay for round trips from Washington to their homes for the Christmas holidays.

Because the regular session of congress was to begin early in January many members collected their checks but did not return home. The largest mileage check was $1,238. The smallest was $3.20.

Uproarious Session in Capital Turns on Sponsors.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A thousand representatives of small business assembled today in the department of commerce and literally shouted what was wrong with the country.

Administration leaders had expected a quiet assemblage which would be easily guided by hand picked chairmen into expressions of support for the government's campaign against big business. What the administration got was a resounding boomerang and roaring confusion that almost beggared description.

Fight for Position.

Delegates milled about the hall fighting for position. The loudspeaking system broke down. No one paid attention to Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper when he read President Roosevelt's greeting to the delegates.

Business men shouted they had come to make speeches not to listen to them. They tore up the printed programs and took the conduct of the meeting into their own hands. They fought for the microphone when the loudspeaker went on again. They fought for it like contestants trying to catch a greased pig.

Insists on Opening Prayer.

One business man insisted the meeting should open with prayer. He tried to run away with the microphone. It was pulled from his hands.

The speakers' platform was jammed. Hundreds shouted at once. Secretary Roper was driven to cover.

The delegates had been invited to Washington to propose means of ending the present depression. They responded with an astounding, roaring literalness, placing the blame for the business slump squarely on the policies of President Roosevelt and his administration.

Oppose a Third Term.

In the pandemonium they called on President Roosevelt to declare that he will not accept a third term. They demanded he get rid of his stumbling theorists. They voted to consider the problem of taxes, shouting down the attempts of commerce officials to sidetrack it. Department of commerce police were called to quell the disturbance.

Speakers were wildly cheered in their attacks on taxes and business regulation. Few rose to defend the President and received but little support.

For a time the whole conference threatened to die in a welter of parliamentary confusion. During the afternoon session order was restored in the department of commerce auditorium and the various subordinate sections formed to consider various aspects of the problem.

President Is Silent.

Reports of the progress of the gathering were carried to the White House, where the plan of the conference germinated. There was no comment from the President or his staf, though concern over the "revolt" of small business was evident.

It was the original intention of the White House to select a dozen or so small business men from among those who had written letters expressing support of the administration. Later, when requests for invitations poured in, the meeting was turned over to the department of commerce with the suggestion that it guide the course of the sessions by placing business men favorable to the administration in key positions.

Taxes Are Left Out.

At the time the White House made its announcement it was said that the business men were chiefly interested in taxes and loans. When the department of commerce announced its program of discussion on subjects in which business men displayed most interest taxes was left out.

At the afternoon session a group of determined business men led a fight for the creation of a separate tax session. Over the protest of the department selected chairman they established by a near unanimous vote a separate group for the consideration of taxes.

The group went into a meeting and named a committee to draw up a resolution for possible submission to the President. The twelve representatives of the group are to meet with Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow afternoon. The resolution would abolish the capital gains and surplus profits taxes and pledge the administration to ease the tax burden generally.

Considerable confusion prevailed throughout the day among many of the delegates to the conference, who had assumed that the government was to pay the costs of their visit to the capital. Some of these brought their wives and children on what they believed was a junket. Perspiring aids of Secretary Roper explained that the department of commerce, unlike the department of agriculture, does not pay the expenses of those it brings to consider mutual problems.

Scene of Confusion.

At the outset of the meeting the business men milled about the hall jockying for positions at the front of the auditorium where they could demand to be heard. On the stage delegates and officers were knotted in a seething tangle like worms in a can.

Breakdown of the loudspeaking system coupled with the roar of conversation brought confusion at once. Department of commerce officials shouted themselves hoarse in an attempt to get order and could be heard no further than the front row.

At length Secretary of Commerce Roper stepped to the microphone to quell the disorder by his presence. He began reading a message from President Roosevelt and a speech of welcome.

Though they could see his lips move the business men could not hear Roper. From throughout the room came the chant of "louder, louder, louder," which beat on the ears like a surging surf.

Roper's Voice Drowned Out.

Secretary Roper got redder and redder and redder. He moistened his lips with his tongue and took deep breaths and shouted, but he could not be heard even on the platform. His aids contributed to the disturbance by attempting to clear the platform and bellowing "quiet, please."

Roper struggled on. Suddenly the loud speaker system went on, but the confusion was so great it was impossible to catch his words. From the audience came a shrill voice which measured the humor of the delegates: "We came to make speeches, not to listen to them."

The President's unheard greeting, as read by Roper, was: "I welcome you to Washington. Your meeting, called by the secretary of commerce at my request, is intended to more intimately acquaint me with the problems of smaller business. I anticipate that the suggestions resulting from your conference will be very helpful to me. I am therefore looking forward to conferring with your committee at the White House tomorrow afternoon."

Debate Gains in Force.

Mr. Roosevelt's split infinitive was not the last to be cleaved during the day. As the confusion increased syntax was forgotten and debate gained in force what it lost in grammar.

Roper asked his audience, "Won't you please be seated?"

"No," came a thunderous roar from the room.

Photographers crowded around the secretary. Flashlight bulbs flickered like flashes of lightning. Roper spoke to the photographers, but kept his mouth to the microphone saying, "Why take pictures of me? Why don't you take pictures of this splendid group of American citizens?"

And his audience answered "louder."

"And funnier," a delegate shouted.

"This is your meeting and should be so conducted by you as to bring out concrete interpretations of conditions which a committee to be designated by this conference will in turn present in such form tomorrow at the conference table with the President," Roper said.

Jesse Jones Tries Hand.

Roper retired. RFC Chairman Jesse Jones stepped to the microphone. He was given a warm reception but the confusion continued. Jones retired after asserting he knew the problems of small business men because he is a small business man himself and promised sympathetic attention to the problems of small business men, particularly financing.

Pandemonium followed confusion when Fred Roth, president of the Whitney Roth Shoe company of Cleveland, who had been named temporary chairman of the convention by Assistant Commerce Secretary Ernest G. Draper, attempted to take over the meeting. Roth announced that discussions would be limited to five minutes and asked the delegates to "refrain from any remarks that might lead to debate and disrupt the conference."

Charles H. Schnor, Springdale, Pa., metal dealer, leaped to his feet to charge: "There is no doubt that the chairman is handpicked and I don't want him."

Clamor for Recognition.

Delegates clamored to speak. The room was full of waving hands seeking recognition. Some delegates pressed forward, surging on to the platform and the microphone.

That instrument became the scene of a battle. Would-be speakers tussled for the microphone like soldiers fighting over a battle flag. Hands grasped and tugged at the instrument. At times hands raced up its slender support in the manner small boys choose up sides with a baseball bat.

At length the microphone was surrendered to Roth. As he turned away to get encouragement from commerce officials, a wiry, bald headed delegate rushed to the microphone, gathered it in both hands, and shouted:

"The trouble with this country is Satan has ruined it. We ought to start this meeting with a prayer. This is God's country."

He attempted to run off with the microphone but it was pried from his hands. He was invited to go join Satan at the latter's dwelling place.

Delegates Quiz Roth.

The room was in a turmoil. Over the hubbub Draper roared for a vote on the motion to make Roth chairman. A delegate demanded Roth tell his business background. Roth said he was in the wholesale business. He was asked how many men he employed. He answered eighteen.

"You'll do," shouted some of the conferees. Another cheered.

Draper called for a standing vote. Most of the delegates were already standing. He announced that motion had been carried. Roth stepped to the microphone triumphantly. He was unable to obtain order.

Roper was summoned from out of the threshing platform crowd. He, too, was unable to obtain order. At length he moved that the meeting go into ten separate round table conferences with the auditorium itself the site of a conference on miscellaneous matters.

The proposal met with a chorus of noes. On a vote it was approved, however. Some of the delegates started for conferences in various sections of the Commerce building. The majority preferred to stay and pushed forward with demands for recognition.

Police Called to Platform.

With half the delegates out of the auditorium there was no lessening of the hubbub. Department of commerce police were called to clear the platform. At the foot of the platform delegates waving speeches clamored for recognition. It was suggested that the chair call on speakers by a roll call of states.

"Second the motion," a delegate shouted. "I'm from the Bronx."

Another delegate pressed through the crowd, seized the microphone, and announced he was Lawrence Nusbaum, chairman of the New York delegation and a Flushing merchant. He presented a fourteen point program adopted by the state delegation.

He called for a government lending agency for small business, incorporation of labor unions, repeal of nuisance taxes, abolition of tax exempt securities, and liberalization of credit. Almost no one heard him.

"He don't represent New York," several delegates chanted throughout the speech. They demanded an opportunity to reply to his program.

Chairman Calls on Women.

Roth sought to pass over the internal row in the New York delegation by calling upon three women in a row. One, Mrs. Susan J. Gill, beauty shop operator of Narberth, Pa., suggested the department of commerce outline a constructive program.

She was shouted down. Another delegate demanded to know whether the meeting was turning into a gathering of the Ladies' Aid society.

L. T. Orlay of Jamestown, N. D., obtained the floor and said the best thing that Mr. Roosevelt could do for business would be "to assert he will not run for a third term." He was cheered when he urged that the administration should cease "maligning business and business men for political expediency."

Roper and Jones Leave.

There was no letup in the confusion. Speakers could only be heard as far as the first row. Roper left the hall. Jones left the hall. After Orlay's attack on the President and the administration, Roth recognized Charles Courtney, a New York locksmith, who pleaded that the conferees "get behind our great President and our great secretary of commerce, because, after all, we are all Americans."

At length Roth gave up efforts to establish order and adjourned the convention for lunch. At the adjournment Delegate A. F. Schaefer, Philadelphia contractor, raced to the platform and began a speech. He spoke as the room cleared and kept on talking to an almost empty hall. Several times policemen attempted to shoo him from the platform. The loud speaking system was cut off, but he could not be halted until he had finished.

A tour of the section meetings revealed them to be, for the most part, smaller editions of the auditorium crowd. Delegates were hopelessly deadlocked in parliamentary tangles.

Sectional Meetings Lively.

From the door of the loan section came a voice: "Loans is loans and capital is capital, he's out of order." From the fair trade practices section came the cry: "Who's chairman here, you or me?"

Across the way a delegate told the instalment purchase section: "It's obvious that it is impossible for us to agree for presentation to the President on the size of down payments or the number of months over which payments should be distributed."

Through the doors of the unemployment section hearing came the voice of another speaker: "My mail man told me that half the people on relief are drawing their checks illegally. And that's true of the whole country. This extravagant spending must be stopped."

Chairman's Voice Weary.

At the housing section the chairman said wearily: "There are 22 people and 17 groups here; now we can't have 17 committees."

Confusion was the general characteristic of the other section meetings, except that of the section on development and location of industry which attracted only four persons, who sat against a background of flags in a department office. Each of the four eyed his fellows and wondered if he could persuade the others that he was the person to represent the section at the White House. All said sadly that no one appeared to be interested in the location or development of industry.

Italy Makes Delivery of War Planes to Afghans

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

SIMLA, India, Feb. 2.—A consignment of Italian military planes has been delivered to the Afghanistan air force at Kabul by road through Khyber pass. They were part of an order of twenty-one Italian planes placed by the commandant of the Afghan air force during his recent visit to Europe. A number of British planes were ordered during the same tour. They also have been delivered at Kabul.

Ex-Convict Seized as He Tries to Hold Up Store

John Green, 22 years old, was arrested last night while attempting to hold up a shoe store at 3937 North avenue. Policeman Frank Bartusek of the Austin station, walking past the store, saw Green inside with a gun. The policeman drew his revolver, rushed in and disarmed Green. Green said he is an ex-convict and said he lived at 3814 Sheffield avenue.

Church Gambling Censure Deleted from Report.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop George Craig Stewart condemned gambling at church functions yesterday before the convention of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, but asked the convention not to act on a resolution opposing the practice. The bishop said no instance of it had come to his attention. The resolution then was deleted from a committee report presented by the venerable Frederick G. Deis, archdeacon of Chicago.

Question Stirs No Debate.

There was no debate on the question at the convention session in the Church of the Epiphany, Ashland avenue and Adams street. The deleted section of the report read as follows:

"We recommend that the convention go on record as unalterably opposed to the sale of chances or other types of gambling to raise money for church purposes."

In spite of the bishop's assertion that no instances of church gambling had come to his attention, the original statement on this subject in the report was allowed to stand.

"We sell chances," it said, "we whirl wheels, we give prizes, we do a thousand and one things to get something for nothing."

In the corridor of the church after Bishop Stewart's address one rector declared "the church would lose about half its income if the bishop puts a taboo on games of chance." Another pastor told of parishioners who, on friendly terms with police, obtained a confiscated roulette wheel as parish house equipment.

Elected Rural Archdeacon.

The Rev. Norman B. Quigg, rector of Christ church, Streator, was elected rural archdeacon of the diocese to succeed the Rt. Rev. Dr. Winfred H. Ziegler, who resigned to become bishop of Wyoming last year. Archdeacon Quigg was dean of the southern deanery of the diocese. His successor to that post will be the Rev. Joseph S. Minnis of Christ church, Joliet.

POLICE BREAK UP NUMBERS GAME; NINE MEN SEIZED

Raiding an apartment at 5443 South Michigan avenue yesterday, police exposed a new numbers racket which they said is taking large sums from Chicagoans in bets ranging from 5 cents to $1. Samuel Williams, colored, one of the nine men arrested, admitted being the manager and told Capt. Martin Mullen and Sergts. William Burns and Edward Le Fevour how they operated.

Betters try to guess a three digit number determined by a complicated computation of parimutuel payoffs in horse races. Williams, the police said, asserted he has 300 agents taking bets. The winning number pays—if any one guesses it—$450 on a dollar bet.

CHICAGO PLAN TO STOP DEPRESSION GIVEN CONFERENCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Chicago presented a program for meeting the depression at the conference of small business men in the department of commerce today.

The Chicago plan was prepared last night by a group of seven Chicagoans who came to the conference aboard the Capitol Limited. The plan was indorsed by eight other business men from other cities who also were aboard the train, and was similar to the consensus as developed in Washington.

The group was headed by George F. McKiernan, president of the Graphic Arts federation. Co-authors were R. P. Hastey, president, Sternberg Sales & Service; Charles R. Cowley, president, Marbelite Arts Products company; J. A. Kanter, Kanter Concrete Form and Equipment company; C. A. Sievert, Sievert Electric company; W. C. West, Great Lakes Forge company; W. R. Vitz, real estate, and Joseph B. Kleckner, president of the Motiograph company.

ICE DYNAMITED TO SAVE BRIDGE IN MOLINE AREA

Moline, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Ice in the Rock river south of here was dynamited today in an attempt to dislodge jams that threatened further damage to a $500,000 bridge being constructed across the stream.

Two barges, one loaded with steel, were sunk and others were beached by pressure of an ice jam that broke above the bridge site.

The threat of more damage to the Moline area was heightened by rain that started falling this afternoon.

Dynamite also was used at Sycamore to break ice floes that threatened damage to a suspension bridge over the Kishwaukee river. After two blasts the ice moved down river several hundred feet and massed above a $20,000 bridge the state recently completed. It was said, however, that the state bridge was not in danger.

CONGRESS TIRES OF ROOSEVELT'S RULE BY THREAT

Members Get Enough of Press Parley Ukases.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—"Government by press conference" is getting on the nerves not only of business men but of members of congress.

For several weeks business has been experiencing fits of the jitters and the stock market has suffered successive jolts as President Roosevelt, in his semi-weekly conferences with the press, has thrown out hints of an intention to crack down on holding companies, to resort to inflation, to perpetuate the deficit with a new program of pump priming expenditures, and to do numerous other things increasing uncertainty of business prospects.

These press conference utterances by the President have created commotion in the business community and on the stock market because of the vast power Mr. Roosevelt, unlike his predecessors, is able to wield in carrying into effect the slightest whim.

Huge Funds Back His Threats.

With a colossal Democratic majority in both houses of congress and with billions of dollars to disburse to or withhold from the constituencies of senators and representatives, the presumption is strong that Mr. Roosevelt can carry out almost any threat he makes, even if further legislation should be necessary.

There have been rumblings in congress for some time of intense disapproval of the President's practice of initiating policies in pronouncements at his press conferences without previous consultation with Democratic leaders. The Democrats have been grumbling in secret while the Republicans have been giving vent to the opinions the Democrats do not dare to utter in public.

Record of Views Demanded.

Last Sunday Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house, proposed that the White House press conference interviews be made a public record, which could be consulted whenever disputes concerning the President's views and intentions should arise.

Today Representative Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] paid his respects in no uncertain manner to what he denominated "government by propaganda."

"We have reached," he said, "a very strange state of affairs in Washington, in which the leaders and the members of congress have to get their information regarding presidential policies, both foreign and domestic, from the newspapers and radio instead of from the President directly, or from government officials charged with the execution of these policies.

Aims to Stampede Congress.

"It is a common thing for Mr. Roosevelt to announce at his press conferences fundamental changes of policy without giving the leaders and members of congress the slightest advance information.

"So frequently has this occurred that there is a rising feeling that Mr. Roosevelt deliberately plans these announcements in order to arouse public sentiment before congress can know what is contemplated, and in that way stampede the legislative body into passing administration measures under pressure of a suddenly aroused public opinion before sober second thought can bring about a cooling of public sentiment."

Incidentally Mr. Shafer cited as another example of the new supergovernment the mission of Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, to Washington to get relief money for Michigan.

Should Right Own Wrongs.

"The coming of Martin," he said, "indicates that Gov. Frank Murphy has abdicated in favor of the Committee for Industrial Organization. If that is not the fact, then the C. I. O. is assuming the work of the constituted officials of the state of Michigan in demanding 130 millions for relief.

"Of course there may be some logic in Martin's assumption of the governor's job because he and his outfit engineered the sitdown strikes in Michigan which threw thousands out of work. As the man who brought about terrible conditions in Michigan, perhaps he feels that he should be the man attempting to rectify them."

Set up By Predecessors.

The White House press conference has become a recognized institution of government. After President Taft had experimented with the idea in an informal way, it was established formally under the Wilson administration. All Presidents since have used it as a sounding board for administration propaganda. And, inasmuch as the slightest thing a President says or does is news, the White House press conference furnishes the most efficacious and the cheapest machinery for dissemination of propaganda.

Mr. Roosevelt is adept in using the press conference for propaganda purposes and in parrying embarrassing questions.

WIDOW'S ACTION AGAINST BIDWILL IS DISMISSED

John Rosen, attorney for Mrs. Grace M. Forschner, wealthy widow of Palos township, appeared yesterday in the Superior court and dismissed her suit for an accounting against Charles W. Bidwill, Chicago sportsman.

The dismissal came as a surprise to Bidwill and his attorney, Howard Ellis. The attorneys said no settlement had been made.

Mrs. Forschner sued to collect on a $252,400 judgment awarded her against J. Donald Walker, alias Don Champagne, now serving a prison term for swindling Mrs. Forschner. She charged he invested the money she lent him in Bidwill's enterprises. Bidwill denied she had any claim, direct or indirect, against him.

MR. BLOOM TELLS HOW PATRIOTISM SPELLS 47 JOBS

Envious Colleagues Hear of $289,000—All Spent.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Congressman Sol Bloom of New York today was forced by a congressional committee to disclose the manner in which he has spent $289,000 on preparations to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the constitution of the United States.

As director general of the United States Constitution Sesquicentennial commission, Mr. Bloom has command of no less than 47 jobs, he related to his envious colleagues. His pay roll is approximately $6,000 a month.

The house appropriations committee recommended that Mr. Bloom be awarded an additional $50,000 to polish off the celebration in proper fashion. There was some discussion among members not on the committee concerning the possibility that Mr. Bloom had promised to parcel out a few jobs as a reward for this recommendation.

Added $50,000 to Be Opposed.

In any event, the $50,000 recommendation will be contested bitterly when it is brought up in the house tomorrow or Friday. Representative Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.], who some time ago termed Mr. Bloom's patriotic activities a "racket," will have some pertinent queries to put to the New York congressman, he said.

Tobey says he had been informed by congressional accountants that Mr. Bloom's various celebrations of historic events have cost the taxpayer $1,260,000 since 1932, when the New Yorker inaugurated the series with a bicentennial commemoration of George Washington's birthday.

Mr. Bloom has a trifle more than $10,000 left of the original $300,000 constitution celebration appropriation, he reported, but he has rolled up unpaid obligations totaling $87,000.

The report revealed that Mr. Bloom has expended $36,748 on copies of "The Story of the Constitution," written and copyrighted by Sol Bloom. The copyright was transferred recently to the government at the insistence of congress, although Mr. Bloom has asserted that he receives no profit from the sale of these books.

More Copies—Bill Unpaid.

Listed among the unpaid obligations is an item of $14,585 for more copies of "The Story of the Constitution," by Sol Bloom.

From June, 1936, to date, salaries of employés have totaled $163,000, Mr. Bloom informed the committee. Supplies and material cost $11,000; transportation expenses totaled $3,100; printing and binding, $29,000.

Among other expenses listed as necessary to the functioning of a commission to celebrate the constitution were the following:

Communication service, $1,917.

Delivery and express charges, $2,198.

Rent, booth space for exhibits at conventions, etc., $1,130.

Special and miscellaneous celebrations, $6,214.

Office equipment, $5,539.

Facsimiles of constitution, $1,525.

Boy Scouts postcards, $850.

Standard shrines, $10,029.

Replica shrines, $11,655.

Art Exhibited—Bill Unpaid.

An art exhibit at the Corcoran Gallery of Art cost $8,750, Mr. Bloom reported, noting that this is an unpaid obligation. Included in this total were the expenses of "maid service, guards, coat checks, velvet lining for cases holding pictures, picture frame, packing, hauling, and insurance charges."

But the exhibit which his fellow congressmen found of greatest interest was Mr. Bloom's pay roll. To properly prepare for a celebration of the constitution Mr. Bloom found it necessary to create forty-seven jobs, he reported. The pay roll follows:

The boy, born in Beverly Hills Tuesday night, weighed six pounds fourteen and one-half ounces. She has another son, Wesley Ruggles Jr., by her former husband, a director.

REVEALS NIGHTLY FIRES IN PLANT WHERE SIX DIED

Match Foreman Tells Lack of Safety Drills.

Testimony was given yesterday that no fire drills ever were ordered or held in the plant of the Superior Match company, 60 West Superior street, where a fire last Dec. 16 resulted in the deaths of six girl employés. Yet, a witness said, there were from three to five small fires in the place every night.

This witness, who took the stand at a coroner's inquest, was Howard Kaeding, 5541 Van Buren street, the night foreman, who also told the jury that he was engaged to marry one of the girls who died, Miss Jean Lasowski, 19 years old, 2143 North Austin avenue.

Tells of Machines Ablaze.

Kaeding said the machines at which the girls worked would catch fire at frequent intervals, but always before the night of Dec. 16 one of the four men employés or the seven girls would get the fires out before any damage was done.

It was also brought out at the inquest that the four men escaped from the place unhurt on the night of the fatal fire. Kaeding said his hair was singed. The seventh girl is still at Passavant hospital, where it was said yesterday her condition is improving.

The six girls who died were Miss Lasowski; Miss Jean Supello, 20, of 1520 Walton street; Miss Anne Monde, 21, of 733 West 17th place; Miss Catherine Terleski, 19, of 819 Cleveland avenue; Miss Olga Kodna, 22, of 1615 South Union avenue, and Miss Annabelle Murphy, 19 years old, of 5257 South Aberdeen street. Miss Murphy's father, Frank, kicked in the locked front door and pulled the girl out with her clothes ablaze.

This front door, giving entrance also to the Hamilton Printing company on the same floor as the match plant, was commonly locked to outsiders at 7 o'clock in the evening, but Kaeding said it could have been opened from the inside.

Denies Labor Troubles.

Assistant State's Attorney Ben Nelson then questioned Robert B. Meitus, owner of the printing company, about reports that the front door was kept locked to prevent union investigation of nonunion men among his employés. In denying this, Meitus said his company had been unionized, but admitted on the night of the fire he had only two pressmen working, both nonunion, who were drawing $18 a week instead of the $40 scale.

Meitus' brother, Harold, of 162 East Ontario street, owner of the match company, is expected to testify at the next session of the inquest on March 9. At that time laboratory reports will be available on the possibility that a mysterious gas resulting from materials used in making the matches may have caused the deaths, rather than burns.

Chicagoland Pays 3 Million U.S. Pension Tax in January

Collections of old age pension tax in January under the national social security act amounted to $3,027,232 in the First Illinois district, which includes Chicago, Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, announced yesterday. There were 15,301 returns filed.

THE WINTER HAS ITS UPS AND DOWNS, BUT COMES OUT JUST EVEN

It hasn't been a cold winter thus far, and it hasn't been a warm one. Now that it's two-thirds over, C. A. Donnel, the weather man, disclosed yesterday that the temperature for the months of December and January averaged just .2 of a degree below normal.

The December average was 26.6 degrees above zero, or 2.2 degrees colder than normal. The January average was 25.4, or 1.7 degrees warmer than normal. The average for the two months was 26 degrees.

Snowfall for December and January of this winter was 12.4 inches, 4.1 inches below normal.

The weather man said the groundhog had a chance to see his shadow at 9:45 a. m. yesterday when the sun was shining. According to legend, that should mean six weeks more cold weather, but Mr. Donnel said you can't believe a groundhog.

HUNT SLAYER OF 5 IN SOUTH SIDE HOLDUPS

Police disclosed yesterday that they are searching on the south side for two colored bandits, one of whom has shot and killed five colored persons in holdups since Dec. 10. Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad said ballistics tests showed the victims were all shot with the same gun.

Those slain were: James Desmuke, 47 years old, 4227 Indiana avenue, on Dec. 10; James Vessell, 41, 3902 Indiana avenue, Dec. 16; George House, 46, 4536 Prairie avenue, Dec. 26; Mrs. Anna Coffey, 30, 4736 Prairie avenue, Jan. 4, and Leon Watts, 40, 4002 Calumet avenue, Jan. 13.

FIND AIRLINER IN CRASH SHOOK SELF TO PIECES

Company Alters Model to Cure Defects.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A Northwest Airlines transport plane crashed near Bozeman, Mont., last Jan. 10 because the tail surfaces and rudders were literally shaken off the ship by tremendous vibration set up as it cruised at high speed through violent air currents. This was indicated yesterday in a diagnosis of the causes of the accident made public by the Lockheed Aircraft corporation, manufacturer of the airplane.

The loss of the vital rudder controls on the speedy ship—it cruised at 230 miles an hour, or nearly 50 miles an hour faster than any comparable airliner—left the pilot, Nick Mamer, helpless. Mamer, a veteran who was considered one of the best flyers in the air transport industry, could do nothing to prevent the ship from spinning into the ground and killing all ten persons aboard.

Fins and Rudders Missing.

Examination of the wreckage showed that the vertical fins which act as keel area for an airplane, and the rudders were missing. There was evidence to indicate that these surfaces had been whipped out of the plane while it was in the air, according to the company, and forces sufficiently great to cause this damage could only be set up by tail flutter.

The term "flutter," aeronautically speaking, means violent vibration which can cause heavy metal wings or other parts of airplanes to ripple and shake like a piece of cloth in a strong wind. When the fluttering of airplane parts is prolonged beyond a few seconds a major structural failure invariably occurs.

That was what happened to Northwest's Lockheed Zephyr, also known as a No. 14. The tail of the airliner began to shake, probably in tune with or at the same rate of vibration as some other part. The shaking rapidly increased and then, before the pilots could cut their speed, the fins and rudders were snapped off.

Change Plane Design.

In order to prevent such an accidnt in the future, it was stated by the manufacturer, the company has changed the tail design. The strength of the tail unit has been reënforced by adding heavier spars and heavier gage metal skin, and lead balances have been placed on the movable control surfaces of all 14s. These balances are widely used in the aircraft industry to prevent the vibrations which build up into destructive flutter.

"These precautions . . . have been completely tested by the army air corps and have been fully approved by the air commerce bureau for strength, vibration, and airworthiness," the corporation's announcement said.

The Lockheed 14 is a new type of airplane which received approval of the federal air commerce bureau last fall. All the 14s were grounded after the accident and the order is still in effect.

DOTTED LINES SHOW WHERE VERTICAL TAIL SURFACES WERE TORN OFF THE AIRPLANE

The Lockheed Aircraft corporation, manufacturers of the North-West Air Lines' plane which crashed near Boseman, Mont., on Jan. 10, yesterday announced that the vertical fins and the rudders of the airliner were missing when it fell. Tail flutter, or violent vibration, is said to have shaken them from the plane and caused the pilot to lose control. The company has changed the tail design of the planes.

STATE'S DIRECTOR OF CONSERVATION STARTS SHAKEUP

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Dismissal of one game warden was described today as the beginning of a general reorganization of the state conservation department by Thomas J. Lynch, acting director of the department.

Lynch's action follows complaints made against the department by men in the Peoria area and also follows an investigation made by the director concerning alleged favoritism to Ross Dixon, Peoria commercial fisherman.

It is charged that Dixon was given permission by the state conservation department to take carp and buffalo by placing seines under the ice, which is forbidden by the state fish and game code.

Lynch said today he found no evidence of illegal seining in the Illinois river. "The seining under ice was authorized," Lynch said, "upon recommendation of Francis D. Hunt, the department's fish culturist, when the water was low and the action was necessary to save game fish."

SYPHILIS FIGHT IS YOURS, YOUTH MEETING TOLD

Hygiene Day Speaker Urges Blood Tests.

Young people were urged last night to join the crusade against syphilis at a large mass meeting in Lewis institute, 1951 Madison street. The speaker was Maj. Bascomb Johnson of New York, director of investigations for the American Social Hygiene association.

Last night's meeting, sponsored by the American Youth congress, the Illinois Social Hygiene league, and the Chicago board of health, was part of Chicago's observance of national social hygiene day observed at more than 3,000 meetings throughout the country at which the nation-wide war against venereal diseases was described. Several million people took part in the programs, according to the estimates of Dr. Walter Clarke, executive director of the American Social Hygiene association, from his New York office.

Plan to Enroll 5,000.

The Lewis institute meeting was also the occasion for a drive for enrollment of an anti-syphilis youth committee of 5,000. Those enrolled pledge themselves to take blood tests for the detection of syphilis.

Introduced by Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, chairman of Mayor Kelly's anti-syphilis committee, Maj. Johnson told his audience of young people that not only would the eradication of venereal disease help solve the nation's health problem but that it would also aid in minimizing unemployment.

"If you fail to aid you are not meeting this challenge," he said, "for you cannot escape this responsibility; it is yours."

The young men and women were especially urged to submit to syphilis tests before marriage and again as soon as they know they are to become parents.

Fight Inherited Syphilis.

"This precaution would remove one great group of syphilis cases," Maj. Johnson said, "because at least 60,000 syphilitic babies are born each year in this country. Countless others are killed by the disease before birth. None of these need die if diagnostic tests are made early in pregnancy."

Maj. Johnson said that a bill now is pending before the New York legislature which would require every expectant mother to submit to syphilis tests. He also said that several states are considering laws for premarital examinations such as the Saltiel law in Illinois. Oregon has recently enacted one and New York, Virginia, and New Jersey have measures under consideration.

TWO LAWYERS NAMED BY COURT TO DEFEND KIDNAPER OF ROSS

When John Henry Seadlund, former Minnesota miner and woodsman, is placed on trial for the kidnaping of Charles S. Ross, he will be represented by Attorneys Floyd E. Thompson and Frederic Burnham.

Seadlund, taken from the county jail to the United States courthouse under guard of deputy marshals, was not allowed to enter a plea when he was arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who appointed the lawyers after the prisoner said he had no legal adviser.

After visiting his client in the afternoon, Attorney Thompson, who was formerly chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, said that he would go to court this morning and request a continuance until next Tuesday.

"Attorney Burnham is out of the city," he said, "and will not return until Monday. I want him to assist in deciding what the plea shall be. There will be no need to have Seadlund in court again this week."

WIVES 1 AND 2 SEND TOMBSTONE MAKER TO JAIL

Edward H. Troost, manufacturer of tombstones, spent last night in the county jail because two women, his first wife and his second wife, caught up with him. Today he will face them both before Judge John J. Lupe.

Troost was arrested by deputy sherifs in his office at 3957 Belden avenue. His second wife, the former Ella Mae Perry, one time cabaret entertainer, who has a separate maintenance decree, told the court she had been trying for months to collect back alimony.

Mrs. Mary Berkmeier Quinn, attorney for Mrs. Caroline Troost, wife No. 1, said she had sought Troost since 1935 to collect $1,600 in alimony. Wife No. 1, who is an invalid living in Elmhurst, was ordered to be present today.

AIRLINER MAKES RECORD FLIGHT ON REGULAR RUN

A United Air Lines Douglas DC-3 airliner yesterday made the longest nonstop trip on record for any regularly scheduled flight, when it took off at Salt Lake City and landed 6 hours 19 minutes later at Chicago airport. After the 1,300 miles the plane still had enough fuel to fly another three hours.

No passengers were aboard, the load consisting entirely of mail and express. The trip was the second section of the regular overnight San Francisco-Chicago run. Passengers were all on the first section, which made stops at Cheyenne and Omaha.

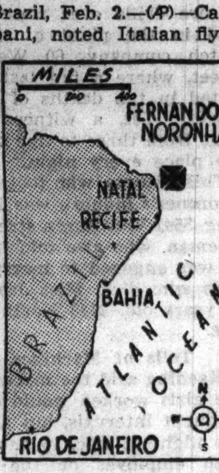
ITALIAN OCEAN PLANE BURNS; 4 OF CREW KILLED

Pilot Saved; Dumped Gas Catches Fire.

NATAL, Brazil, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Capt. Mario Stoppani, noted Italian flyer, was injured and the four members of his crew were killed today when the trans-Atlantic seaplane he was piloting fell into the sea and burned.



Cross locates place where plane burned.

Stoppani, claimant of the world distance record for seaplanes, was rescued by the German plane Samum of the Condor syndicate, which rushed to the scene, fifty miles off the coast, and found him clinging to a pontoon which was torn off the blazing wreckage.

Commander Blume of the seaplane Boreas returned here tonight after flying to the aid of the Samum, which had been unable to rise from the heavy seas near the scene of the tragedy.

Spilled Gasoline Burns.

"We saw Stoppani grasping one pontoon which was disjoined from the plane," Commander Blume said. "He was injured and is now aboard the Samum."

Mechanic Butz of the Boreas said: "We flew at an altitude of 10 to 20 yards above the plane, which was wrapped in enormous flames."

Aeronautical experts said the disaster was caused when gasoline dumped into the sea to lighten the plane for landing caught fire. Stoppani had turned back toward Natal when the plane, en route to Cadiz, Spain, developed engine trouble several hundred miles at sea.

[The disaster was similar to that which destroyed the Pan American Airways' Samoan Clipper near American Samoa in the South Pacific on Jan. 11. An official statement said the Clipper was destroyed by a fire and explosion incidental to the dumping of gasoline to lighten the load for landing. Unofficially the belief was expressed that the dump valves, under the plane's high wing, permitted the highly explosive fuel to vaporize sufficiently near the exhaust of the engines to cause combustion.]

Ethiopia Veterans Die.

Cutter No. 4 of the Air France line picked up an unidentified body near where Stoppani was found.

The cutter was standing by awaiting the arrival of the German catapult ship Schwabenland. The cutter then will return to Natal with Stoppani and the dead airman.

The four dead were Capt. Enrico Comani and Capt. Mario Viola, both veterans of the Italian campaign in Ethiopia; Sergt. Jaria, and Mechanic Pagliani.

The Italian seaplane was the one in which Stoppani flew 4,200 miles from Cadiz to Brazil in December and claimed a world's seaplane distance record.

On Dec. 2, 1936, Stoppani claimed an altitude record of 22,070 feet for a trimotored seaplane carrying 11,012 pounds of cargo.

OUSTED BROKER HELD ON CHARGE BY EX-PARTNER

Douglas E. Brown, who was expelled from the Chicago Stock exchange on Jan. 13, was arrested yesterday on a warant charging him with operation of a confidence game by Sergt. Harry Newman of the state's attorney's office. He was seized in a Milwaukee sanitarium, waived extradition and was locked up at the Chicago detective bureau for a hearing this morning in Felony court.

The warant was issued by Judge Oscar Caplan on complaint of Luke E. Williams, 70 East Walton street, also a broker. Williams charged he was defrauded of $5,000, although at the state's attorney's office it was said the amount was much larger.

Brown said his arrest was the result of a misunderstanding while he and Williams were partners. Brown, who is 32 years old and lives in Hinsdale, was a floor member of the exchange, doing business for brokers.

CREDITS ARMY WITH DEVELOPING STRATO-PLANE

Days of High Flying Here, Says Col. Johnson.

The day of the stratosphere airliner, flying at high speeds through thin air at heights above 20,000 feet and avoiding most storms and bad weather conditions which prevail at lower levels, has arrived, said Col. Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, last evening. He added that the army air corps has contributed a major share of the pioneering and experimental work which has made this possible.

Speaking at the Saddle and Sirloin club in the stockyards before 250 aviation leaders here for the International Air show, Col. Johnson reported that the air corps engineers have built a satisfactory substratosphere airliner. He said they now know how to regulate the temperature and atmospheric pressure inside the ship to make it comfortable for passengers even though the machines soar into the cold, lifeless air of great heights.

Just Like 12,000 Feet.

"While the substratosphere plane rises to heights of 25,000 feet the pressure inside the cabin corresponds to that of an altitude of 12,000 feet and neither passengers nor crew experience discomfort," he said.

"While the thermometer readings outside vary from 100 degrees above zero to 54 degrees below, those inside the pressure cabin enjoy a temperature of not less than 50 nor more than 70 degrees Fahrenheit."

Although the experiments in stratosphere flying will continue, Col. Johnson said, the army now is encouraged to believe that it is here to stay both for commercial and military airplanes.

Will Eliminate Hazards.

"With its arrival will depart many of the hazards of flying in bad weather," the colonel continued. "Greater speeds without the sacrifice of comfort will be attained. Our army, first to advance modern aircraft with its tremendous speeds, first to develop controlable pitch propellers, now offers you this stratosphere plane as a great and significant step forward in the harnessing of the stratosphere for the use of the human race."

RUMANIA WILL BE ANTI-JEWISH FOREVER: GOGA

Drive a Defense Measure, Premier Declares.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Octavian Goga, 57 year old poet and premier of Rumania, today said in a written statement that anti-Semitism and nationalism are enduring features of Rumanian policy. He asserted anti-Semitism would continue even if he were removed from the premiership.

"Jews say of themselves they are the salt of the earth," said Goga. "That may be true. But when the whole contents of a salt shaker fall into the soup the housewife is tempted to throw away the stew."

The premier, who has a poet's fondness for figures of speech, observed that too many Jews is exactly like too much salt.

Move Began Fifty Years Ago.

"We are not the founders of the anti-Semitic movement in Rumania," Goga wrote. "Exactly fifty years ago Alexander Cuza, the first president of our National Christian party, first called attention to the Jewish problem here.

"Throughout the years of my literary and political activity I have been guided by the postulates of our nationalistic ideas. They are the formula for defense against Magyarization of our country, as attempted by former Hungarian rulers, and now find their expression in the slogan, 'Rumania for the Rumanians.'

"Anti-Semitism is simply a measure of defense—which will vanish when its causes are eliminated."

Post War Immigrants.

Goga emphasized that the state was taking measures to protect itself against immigrants, largely Jews, who came after the world war.

"These immigrants have taken permanent residence here without the legal right to do so," he continued. "We do not know, because of their irregular methods of entry, what their number may be, but it is the common opinion that there are several hundred thousands.

"At present we are not so much interested in expelling them as in establishing the legal fact that they have no right to Rumanian citizenship.

"What will happen later? We have opened the question and the solution probably will be found after a thorough examination by an international forum.

"We know from history that this problem has been brought up before and met with severe measures. We recall the brutality with which England, Spain and, more recently, Germany and Russia freed themselves of a surplus of Semitic peoples."

FIRST U. S. LOAN TO BUY FARM IS TO FATHER OF 12

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—An Alabama cotton farmer, 58 years old and the father of twelve children, will receive the first government loan for the purchase of a farm under the Bankhead-Jones tenant aid act, the agriculture department announced today.

He is Wiley J. Langley of Walker county—the home county of Senator John Bankhead [D., Ala.], co-author with Representative Marvin Jones [D., Tex.] of the legislation authorizing government loans to deserving tenants and sharecroppers for purchase of homes.

Girl, 4, Killed by Train as She Runs to Father

From his filling station at Dunes highway and Gleason road in Gary, Rodney Willis saw his wife on her way to visit him last evening with their daughter, Donalee, 4 years old, and their son, Dudley, 2. Willis hurried over to help them across the South Shore electric line tracks. Seeing a train approaching, he told them to wait. But Donalee, who had not heard him, darted ahead into the path of the train and was killed.

Herse Wrecked

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Pipes projecting from the rear of this truck wrecked the front of the herse on route 49.

Two men were injured last evening when a herse collided with a truck two miles south of Monee in Will county. The injured, James Rogers, driver of the herse, and John Fay, his assistant, were taken to a hospital in Harvey. The herse is owned by the McCann undertakers, 103 Gale avenue, River Forest. The truck driver was William Jackson of Kankakee.

Three persons were injured slightly early today in a collision between two automobiles at Sacramento and Fullerton avenues. The injured are Vito De Frenk, 48 years old; his wife, Rosa, 40, and their granddaughter, Rosemary De Frenk, 4, all of 2322 Elston avenue. Four other people in the De Frenk car were unhurt. The driver of the other car, John Karski, 24, of 4930 Kentucky avenue, and his companion, Henry Hansen, 35, of 730 Melrose street, also were uninjured.

The body of an unidentified man, about 60 years old, was found last night at Archer and Paulina avenues, apparently the victim of a hit and run driver.

In the 24 hours that ended yesterday at 4 p. m. there were no automobile deaths reported in Chicago or Cook county. Up to 4 o'clock Tuesday 103 persons had been killed by autos in the county since the first of the year. Of that number 83 had been killed in Chicago. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 1,540 had been injured in Chicago accidents.

LEAPS TO DEATH AFTER HER LOVE AFFAIR IS ENDED

Distraught over the end of her love affair, a young woman leaped to her death last night from her apartment on the eleventh floor of the Cass hotel, 640 North Wabash avenue. The body struck a canopy in front of the hotel and fell through to the ground.

The woman, who was 30 years old, gave the name of Mrs. Florence Armstrong when she registered at the hotel a month ago. Her mother, Mrs. L. D. Tharp, 633 Deming place, to whom the young woman had written a farewell note, told police that she did not know her daughter was married.

Mrs. Armstrong's despondency over her terminated romance was learned from another note found in her room, which was addressed "My dearest" and closed with a "Good-by, Daddy."

Mrs. Tharp and another daughter, Frances, 21 years old, said that Florence ran away from home several years ago.

HOMER IS STUCK WITH HIS STORY OF 'JUST 1 BEER'

Pays Off in Court, but Has His Opinion of Lie Tests.

In spite of the police, the judge, and the Northwestern university lie detector, Homer Stanley, the "only one beer" man from Milwaukee, stuck to his story yesterday in Judge J. M. Braude's Safety court. And he insisted that the beer was not drunk as a chaser for something with more zing in it.

Stanley listened silently while Judge Braude reviewed the circumstances of his arrest while driving against trafic on a one-way thoroughfare, and Braude's offer to keep the fine at $25 and pay for the test himself if the lie detector showed Stanley was telling the truth about the one beer. Then the judge said:

"What do you think of the test?"

Has His Own Opinion.

"I have my own opinion," said Stanley, a staunch soul, "I still say I had only one beer."

The judge deprived him of his driving privileges in Illinois for three months, told him to pay up, and get out of town. Stanley handed the $100 and $8.50 costs to his attorney and marched out of the court.

Mrs. Patricia Rogers, a red-haired night club singer, 24 years old, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail by Judge Cecil Smith in the Jury court yesterday and prohibited from driving an automobile for one year for driving while intoxicated.

She had demanded a jury trial when she was arraigned in Safety court on Jan. 4, at which time she was brought into court on the arms of two policemen and went to sleep again immediately after her plea. Yesterday she waived the jury trial after all.

Woman Driver Gets 30 Days.

Mrs. Ruth Miller, 39 years old, of 6141 Greenwood avenue, was sentenced to thirty days in jail and her driving privileges suspended for six months by Judge Braude. Her car on the morning of Nov. 28 struck Conductor Edward P. Wirges of 714 West Marquette road as he changed the trolley of his street car at the end of the 63d street line. Wirges was crushed between the car and the auto, and died. Mrs. Miller was exonerated of manslaughter by the grand jury.

Others sentenced yesterday by Judge Braude were:

LOUIS NAGRABA, 28 years old, of 3930 North Claremont avenue, reckless driving; $45 fine, driving privilege suspended for thirty days.

SAMUEL J. MENDO, 41, of 1000 North Keystone avenue, reckless driving; $50 and costs and sixty days' suspension.

CHARLES WILSON, 43, of 7829 South Peoria street, reckless driving; six months' probation and three months' suspension.

LOUIS GARDNER, 29, of 711 North Latrobe avenue, reckless driving; five days in jail.

JOHN VLADICK, 23, of 5655 South Ada street, reckless driving; six months' probation and sixty days' suspension.

Arrested on speeding charges, twenty-eight youths visited the county morgue and the fracture wards of the county hospital yesterday on one of Judge John Gutknecht's "object lesson" tours to impress on them the hazards of unsafe driving. The youths then contributed $150 to the fund for needy patients in lieu of fines in Trafic court.

Eli Coplan, 32 years old, of 1240 Central avenue, Wilmette, was fined $100 and costs and his driving privileges were suspended for six months for drunken driving yesterday in Evanston court by Judge Harry H. Porter.

JUDGE CHARGES 'REIGN OF TERROR' IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A reign of terror exists in Kansas City, Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves declared today as he meted out sentences ranging up to four years in prison to seven of fifty persons convicted in the government purge of 1936 vote frauds.

"Twenty or more business men have mentioned to me that in Kansas City they do not dare take an attitude against conditions," the judge said. "They tell me there are secret influences that will militate against their businesses. They say there is a system of espionage and they dare not vote their sentiments.

"The espionage of Kansas City is such, if it were known they voted wrong, there would be a secret boycott against their businesses, their tax assessments would be raised and their businesses would be driven out of the city. Who carries on such a reign of terror?"

RULES THOMPSON MUST SURRENDER $72,794 TO CHARITY

The Illinois Appellate court ruled yesterday that W. H. Thompson, a former Republican mayor, must disgorge $72,794, the last money remaining in a charity fund, to which he has clung for ten years. He must pay the money to the American Red Cross.

Yesterday's decision was on the suit brought by Attorney General Otto Kerner in connection with $139,772 subscribed by Chicagoans for the benefit of victims of the 1927 Mississippi flood. Attempts to compel surrender of the entire sum, except $35,846, actually spent for flood relief, began in 1931.

ALDERMEN TOLD TRANSIT PLANS ARE DEADLOCKED

Unification a Long Way Off, Says Committee.

Faced by repeated charges of members of the city council local transportation committee that the public is tired of the delay in transit unification, officials of the Chicago Surface Lines and Chicago Rapid Transit company admitted yesterday their negotiations are deadlocked and they are still far from an agreement on any plan.

After meeting for two hours with the special committee selected last December in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court to study the city plan for traction consolidation, and report back to him next Monday, the aldermanic committee learned three things. The surface lines say the cause is not hopeless. The elevated lines blame the delay on the surface lines and both sides declare unification would be closer if the council would draft a franchise for a proposed consolidated organization.

Seek to Hear of Progress.

"We've understood for years the consolidation program was not hopeless, but we've been deadlocked for more than eight years," Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the transportation committee, told the group. "We called this meeting today to learn if the special committee is making any progress."

William J. Lynch, representing the elevated lines, told the aldermen: "We're willing to coöperate in every way to carry out the city's plans. The surface lines have been unwilling to consider plans suggested by us and have not submitted any alternatives."

Guy C. Richardson, president of the surface lines, told the committee that the elevated and surface lines may still agree. He suggested that a franchise ordinance be drafted so the companies would know what to expect in the event of consolidation.

Calls for Franchise Vote.

Most of the meeting between the two committees was devoted to declarations by the aldermen.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] said: "The people of Chicago are sick and tired of the whole thing. If some progress isn't made by Monday the council ought to reconsider its vote of last week extending the surface lines franchise another 90 days."

"It will take five years to reach an agreement if the companies are left to themselves," declared Ald. George Kells [28th]. "The council must step in and force the issue."

DEATH UNDER ICE CALLED ACCIDENT.

The death by drowning of John Keller, 22 years old, of 4443 Wentworth avenue, who fell through the ice while riding his bicycle on the Des Plaines river Saturday, was termed accidental by the coroner's jury investigating the case yesterday.

JAPANESE SMASH CHINESE LINE AT RIVER, RAIL TOWN

Take Pengpu After Week of Great Battles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 3 [Thursday.]—After more than a week of terrific battling Japanese troops today had occupied Pengpu, an important railroad and trading town in northern Anhwei province, the Japanese military command announced today.

For days the Chinese had stoutly defended the 30 mile section of the Tientsin-Pukow [Nanking] railroad which, in that sector, runs westward from Mingkwang to Pengpu and there turns northward again.

The Chinese resisted at Mingkwang, Linhwaikwan and Pengpu, but were defeated by a flanking movement of the Japanese. A Japanese force moving northward captured Tingyuan and Fengyuan and then closed in on Pengpu from the west.

The Japanese stormed Pengpu with heavy artillery fire and a bombardment from the air.

Chinese Destroy Bridge.

The Chinese destroyed the bridge over the Hwai river as they retreated northward from Pengpu, and today were trying to fortify new positions on the north bank of the river.

The battles were fought in bitterly cold weather with snow falling frequently. Japanese admitted that 600 of their troops were killed in a single engagement and Chinese casualties were believed to be high.

The Chinese had regarded Pengpu as a major point in their defense of the corridor to the sea which separates Japanese occupied territory in central China from the occupied area of North China.

Pengpu is ninety miles south of Suchow, the junction point of the Tientsin-Pukow railway and the Lunghai, the east to west "lifeline" railway. The Japanese northern column still is held up at Tsining and Tsowhsien, about eighty-five miles north of Suchow.

Missionaries in Battle Zone.

Japanese declared the Chinese defense south of the Hwai river has now collapsed and the Chinese were forced into a major retreat. The Chinese, however, declared fighting continued around Pengpu. Thousands of fresh troops were being sent southward from Suchow.

Eight miles north of Pengpu is the town of Hwaiyuan, where some missionaries of the northern Presbyterian church are stationed. Among them were believed to be Harriet Stroh of Wheaton, Ill.; Miriam Petchner, Bakersfield, Cal.; Miss H. E. Boughton, Plainfield, N. J.; Mabel Hall, Philadelphia; Dr. R. J. McCandliss, Santa Monica, Cal.; Elizabeth Turner, St. Albans, W. Va.; D. B. Van Dyck, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss H. R. MacCurdy, East Toronto, Canada.

Admits "State of War" Exists.

TOKIO, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota told the Japanese diet [parliament] today:

"There is no Chinese central government recognized by Japan. A state of war exists between the two countries."

[Thus far in the seven months of Chinese-Japanese hostilities, Japan has not declared war on China. On Jan. 16 the Japanese government announced withdrawal of recognition from the Chinese government headed by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.]

Hirota's statement was in answer to a question by Takejiro Nishioka, who declared that foreign powers, with Great Britain and Russia in the lead, had been supplying China with arms and military funds for which some sort of compensation or security must have been offered.

Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, naval minister, also was questioned by parliament members. On naval policy he replied:

"Japanese naval policy is independent, designed to meet Japan's own needs. Even if other naval powers build 'million ton warships' it does not necessarily follow that Japan must do the same."

HEBER L. HICKS.

Michigan City, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Heber L. Hicks, 40 years old, head and hands slayer of Harry Miller, retired Cincinnati fire captain, will die in Indiana state prison electric chair a few minutes after midnight tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hicks, Cincinnati, his parents, visited him today and planned to see him tomorrow afternoon.

Hicks' three companions in the murder, Frank Gore Williams, William Kuhlman and John Poholsky, were executed in the prison's first triple execution last June 10. Hicks, originally scheduled to die June 25, got a last minute reprieve from the State Supreme court pending disposition of an appeal.

U. S. PLAYS LONE HAND WITH NAVY, CONGRESS TOLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, informed congress today that the United States has not entered into a pact with Great Britain or any other nation involving a combination of navies.

The question was brought up by Representative Melvin J. Mass of Minnesota, ranking Republican member of the naval affairs committee before which Admiral Leahy has been testifying in support of President Roosevelt's 800 million dollar naval building program.

"This proposed program is designed to protect the United States from aggressive attack without aid from any other nation," Leahy said. "I think this proposed increase will promote peace—not war—because when this building is completed we will have again approached the 5-5-3 ratio [between Great Britain, the United States, and Japan] which was set up to prevent attack by any power."

BRIDES ADVISED TO CHANGE THEIR SECURITY CARDS

Brides of 1937-'38 who obtained social security account cards before they were married were requested yesterday by the social security board to send in their new names to prevent confusion in keeping of their wage accounts for federal old-age insurance. Cards for this purpose are now available at any one of the board's field offices, six of which are in Chicago.

H. L. McCarthy, regional director of the board, explained that wage accounts are kept in the names that the worker gives the employer, and individuals who change their legal status should correct the records to insure accurate recording of their wages and ultimate determination of benefits.

Social security account card holders, he said, may use the new application to correct misstatements as to age, address, or any other inaccurate declarations that have been made.

Nazis Bar Catholic Young Men's Groups in 2 Dioceses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—A decree forbidding Catholic Young Men's associations in the archdiocese of Cologne and the diocese of Aachen was issued today. It was based on an order signed by the late President Paul von Hindenburg in 1933 "for the protection of the people's state." Meanwhile Germany's Bible publishers reported a great increase in sales in 1936, total gains amounting to 162,000 copies.

FRANCE ACCEPTS BRITISH PROGRAM TO FIGHT PIRATES

Seeks Also to Halt Italy's Activities in Spain.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The French government agrees in principle with the plan of Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, for ending the new wave of piracy in the Mediterranean, THE TRIBUNE learned tonight from a semi-official source.

Furthermore, the French agree with the British that some way must be found not only to check sea attacks but also prevent, if possible, Italy from carrying out new plans for land activity in Spain.

Paris has information it believes thoroughly reliable that Premier Mussolini plans to send 50,000 men to Spain and that the embarkation is to begin immediately to carry out Il Duce's determination to win the war for Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader.

Fear War Materials.

The French, like the British, have not any great fear of the Italian soldiers, but are gravely disturbed by the new war material in the hands of Italians in Spain and headed for Spain, which is reported to be largely German. This equipment, together with terrific new German bombs, is believed to be capable literally of destroying Spanish cities in an attempt to undermine the loyalist courage by terrorizing the civilian populations.

The new bombs are understood here to be of extraordinary caliber and to be manufactured under a new method containing a hitherto unheard of quantity of explosive in a thin shell. They are said to be capable of destroying whole blocks instead of single houses.

The new bomb, it was said, will change the belief held heretofore that airplane grenades are incapable of destroying cities fast enough to be decisive instruments of warfare.

Eden's Plan Reported.

Capt. Eden's plan for stopping piracy on the Mediterranean was kept secret, but it was understood, via diplomatic channels, that it includes reënforcement of the British patrols in the British zone and a warning that all Mediterranean powers keep submarines in their own territorial waters to make easier the finding and punishing of guilty submersibles.

Capt. Eden also is said to be considering extending the zone of surveillance to the Spanish territorial waters, but this measure has not yet been decided upon.

U. S. Tanker to Be Released.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The state department announced today that Francisco Franco, Spanish insurgent general, has agreed to release the American tanker Nantucket Chief as a result of representations by the United States government.

The announcement said this government had been informed the vessel has left Palma, in the Baleric islands, where it had been detained by insurgent forces. It said that after the vessel discharges its cargo at a main land port it and its crew will be set at liberty.

The tanker, carrying petroleum from a Black sea port to loyalist controled Barcelona, was seized Jan. 17 by Franco's forces. It was under charter to the Spanish petroleum monopoly.

Spanish Forces Deadlocked.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], Feb. 2.—(AP)—Deadlocked on the Teruel front in eastern Spain and north of Cordoba in the south, Spanish government and insurgent armies today searched for openings in their enemy's lines.

The government announced the capture of the summit of Cullado Espina on the Somosierra front, the scene of little activity since the beginning of the civil war.

In the south, insurgent artillerymen attempted to open a hole in the government's defense works near the junction of Cordoba and Badajoz provinces.

EGYPT'S BOY KING SHUTS CHAMBER; CALLS ELECTIONS

Again Balks Majority Party's Demands.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 2.—The boy king of Egypt, Farouk I., today appeared for the third time within two months as an apprentice dictator when he dissolved his parliament and ordered new elections.

The decree of dissolution, published at 2 p. m. at the chamber of deputies, forestalled a session which was to open at 5 o'clock after a month's suspension and rule by Farouk's handpicked palace cabinet headed by Premier Mohammed Mahmoud Pasha.

The deputies dispersed without disorder and began preparations for a new election, which will be held on or about April 2, the decree of dissolution having convoked the new parliament for April 12.

Hoped for Wafd Support.

Until this morning Premier Mahmoud hoped that enough members of former Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha's Wafd [Nationalist] party would come over to the government side to enable the cabinet to face the chamber and get a vote of confidence. When it appeared, however, that Nahas was keeping his followers well in line Mahmoud produced the royal decree which he had in his pocket. Farouk had signed it yesterday.

Fearing a rigged vote of confidence while they were forcibly excluded from the chamber, Nahas and his followers instaled themselves in the building at noon, lunched there and left only after the decree was posted.

They drew up a petition requesting Farouk to form at once a neutral cabinet to conduct the elections.

Will Revise Districts.

The cabinet announced that the constituencies will be modified in accordance with the results of the 1937 census, which will mean, for one thing, increasing the number of deputies from 232 to 265.

The Wafdists see this as affording an excuse for gerrymandering the election districts so that Mahmoud's henchmen will obtain a majority in the new parliament.

The Wafd party, however, announced tonight it intends to fight to keep democratic institutions alive in Egypt. Its spokesmen said the party is sure of obtaining a majority again.

HITLER BATTLES CRISIS BETWEEN ARMY AND NAZIS

Military Demands End of Radical Policies.

army, has the backing of all the officers on the general staf and the bulk of officers of the high command.

Col. Gen. Goering, who wanted to supervise personally the instalment of the new minister of economics, Walter Funk, has been too busy in the conferences with the Fuehrer to attend to the preparatory work of Funk's assumption of power. But it is understood that Funk's nomination is definite, while best informed Nazi circles denied the appointment of Himmler or Robert Ley, chief of the Labor Front, as ministers in the cabinet.

[Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's resignation as minister of economics was announced Nov. 26. Funk was named as his successor, but until Funk took office it was arranged that Col. Gen. Goering would be acting economics minister. Goering, in addition to being air minister, is chief of the German four year plan for economic self-sufficiency.]

Secrecy Shrouds Crisis.

Government circles realize that if Hitler becomes war minister it will mean only a temporary solution, and that the Fuehrer must continue to seek a man to take over the burden of running the fighting forces who pleases the army as well as the party. The names of candidates for the high command of the army were being circulated in Berlin, but in view of the great secrecy shrouding the crisis they can be considered as mere conjectures.

Gen. Walter von Reichenau, commander of the Munich garrison, who played a prominent part in the political life of the German capital shortly after Hitler assumed power, came from his post to take part in the conferences with Hitler and the army chiefs.

Gen. Liebman, chief of the war academy, also is mentioned as one of the possible candidates for the job of running the German army with powers similar to those of Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the French army.

Others see in Col. Gen. Goering Hitler's ideal army chief, but the Nazis believe Goering is too busy with the four year plan to assume new and greater duties.

LEAGUE COUNCIL URGES POWERS TO AID CHINESE

GENEVA, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The council of the league of nations closed its 100th session today after adopting a resolution asking league powers to aid China. Two nations, Poland and Peru, abstained from the voting.

Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese delegate, warned that violence in the orient jeopardized the peace of Europe. Appealing for aid, he insisted it was the league's duty and "opportunity" to discourage Japanese aggression in China. He declared maltreatment of Americans and Europeans by Japanese soldiers in China had been an intentional step in a Japanese plan to drive occidentals out of the orient.

Dr. Koo declared the resolution was inadequate and reserved the right for China to ask the league later "to adopt positive measures."

Almanach de Gotha Ranks Windsor Among Nobility

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Almanach de Gotha, European handbook of royalty, nobility, and officialdom, ranked the duke of Windsor today among noble families as "his royal highness [personally]." The 1938 edition, just published, listed his marriage to "Bessie Wallis, divorced Spencer, afterward divorced Simpson, nee Warfield." It gave their address as "en voyage [traveling]."

LINE UP SENATE RACE WITH IGOE AS NEW FACTOR

Ready to Announce His Candidacy Saturday.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A three man fight for the Democratic nomination for United States senator was made certain yesterday through authoritative information that Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney at Chicago, will declare himself a candidate on Saturday.

The entry of Congressman Scott W. Lucas was assured twenty-four hours earlier when he was indorsed at a Horner meeting in Springfield and accepted that support.

The complete lineup of the important contenders was established when Senator William H. Dieterich, in Chicago to make a speech, asserted that he is in the April primary battle to stay.

Report Courtney-Jarecki Alliance.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who has been urged to run, has not given his final answer, but already is considered lined up behind County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki in an independent fight against the organization.

The other remaining angle is that Newton Jenkins, four times a candidate for similar honors under other party labels, now is seeking the Democratic senatorial berth while a law office associate, Robert M. Adams, is out for the Republican nomination for the same office.

Judge Jarecki, who was shelved by the Kelly-Nash organization in favor of Judge John Prystalski, announced that he will be a candidate in the primary. It was also learned, however, that his supporters have discussed favorably a plan for him to run as an independent candidate in the November campaign if he fails to win the nomination from Judge Prystalski.

"I'm not ready to discuss my plans or the nature of my campaign," said Judge Jarecki, "except to say that it will be a continuation of my battle for honest elections and that I shall carry it into every ward in the city and into every suburb in the county. I'm busy now on organization plans."

Igoe Announcement Saturday.

District Attorney Igoe will make his plans known on Saturday, as the downstate committee, which already has gathered 50,000 signatures in his behalf, files his nominating petition in Springfield. That petition must be accompanied by his signature to a statement that he is a candidate.

Mr. Igoe's position has been that he will not permit politics to interfere with his official duties beyond the unavoidable minimum. If it were not for the statutory requirement that his declaration of candidacy accompany his petition, it is said, he would defer any public step concerning his candidacy until after the trial of the Ross kidnaping case.

Under these circumstances it is expected that when Thomas P. Sinnett, chairman, and other members of the downstate committee supporting him, call at the United States courthouse this afternoon to show him the thousands of signatures of voters who want him to run, Igoe will take the subject under consideration. He intends to take time for a formal announcement defining his reasons for running.

Senator Dieterich boosted President Roosevelt's national defense program before the Army and Navy club at the Congress hotel at noon, then talked with reporters on politics.

He said he would not comment on the announcement that Congressman Lucas had been sponsored by the Horner faction, save to say that it would in no way affect his intention to run for renomination.

After a telephone call from the senator saying he wanted to have a talk Mayor Kelly last night called on Dieterich at the Blackstone hotel. Later both said that no agreement of any sort resulted from their meeting.

State's Attorney Courtney, who is an ally of Gov. Horner and, therefore, did not participate in the deliberations of the county committee when it scratched Judge Jarecki, declined to talk about that, but he has said he is deeply aroused by the principle involved in the effort to unseat a judge who has been on the bench for four terms.

Keep Primary Vigil

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Elmer Hoffman, Du Page county deputy sherif who will seek Republican nomination for sherif, giving one of two friends a cup of coffee in the courthouse.

The name of Elmer J. Hoffman of Wheaton will appear at the top of the list of aspirants for the Republican nomination for sherif of Du Page county. Two of his friends are seeing to this by keeping a continuous vigil at the courthouse door in Wheaton to present his petition to County Clerk Clarence V. Wageman precisely at 8 a. m. Saturday.

Wilbur Wassbrock and Merritt Pratt, both of Wheaton began their political marathon last Monday night. Since Clerk Wageman won't permit them to clutter up the corridor outside his office door until tomorrow night, they have had to establish quarters in the wooden storm shelter outside the courthouse door.

CONVICTION OF 14 FOR 20TH WARD FRAUDS UPHELD

Appellate Court Passes on Two Trials.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Lester Krieman, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday upheld the conviction of nine men and five women who received prison sentences or fines for permitting fraud at the polls in the 20th ward during the April primary of 1936. Four were poll watchers and the others officials.

The political workers and a woman Democratic judge were convicted of conspiracy to make false election returns by a jury in the Criminal court May 11, 1937, and sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary. Four other women officials, convicted on a lesser count, were fined $200 each. All served in the 4th precinct.

Five Sentenced by Jarecki.

The other case involved the 31st precinct. There five election officials were sentenced to one year in jail by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who found them guilty of contempt as officers of the County court, which has jurisdiction over elections.

Those sentenced to prison in the Criminal court trial are: Mrs. Dorothy Berger, 38 years old, 1214 South Homan avenue, Democratic judge; Clement Amore, 34, of 1043 South Winchester avenue, Republican precinct captain; Barney Siegal, 37, of 1260 South Spaulding avenue, Democratic precinct captain; John Zittello, 27, of 1911 Taylor street, and Sanders Caravello, 29, of 1132 South Winchester avenue, party workers.

Four Women Fined.

The women officials who were fined are: Mrs. Rose Amore, 29, wife of Clement Amore, a Republican judge; Mrs. Edna Sulli, 34, of 1219 South Damen avenue, Democratic judge; Mrs. Kate Paldo, 25, of 1913 Taylor street, Republican clerk, and Mrs. Nancy Del Monaco, 27, of 1038 South Winchester avenue, Democratic clerk.

In a contempt trial before Judge Jarecki, each of the judges was sentenced to one year in jail, and the clerks to six months each. Their appeal is still pending.

The Appellate court opinion, written by Judge Ross C. Hall, cited the testimony in this case of two watchers for the Chicago Association of Commerce. They told of officials assisting voters to mark ballots, and of arbitrarily assigning votes to each candidate in the count.

Sentenced from 31st Precinct.

Those sentenced in the County court in the 31st precinct are: Fred Savaiano, 28, of 733 Taylor street, and Mike Corso, 29, of 771 De Koven street, Repblican judges; Carmen Bagnola, 35, of 763 De Koven street, Democratic judge; Alex J. Morelli, 28, of 737 De Koven street, Republican clerk, and John Cantore, 23, of 733 Taylor street, Democratic clerk.

Testimony of two impartial poll watchers in the 31st precinct was also cited in the Appellate court opinion, which pointed out that 150 voters were given assistance, that beer and whisky were served in a back room, and that numerous ballot markings were changed.

ASKS HIGH COURT TO TAKE CHARGE OF KARATZ CASE

Attorney General Acts to Balk Judge Wilson.

Attorney General Otto Kerner asked the Illinois Supreme court yesterday to take jurisdiction over Abraham Karatz, convicted of conspiracy to embezzle in Cook county, who was saved from the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Edwin L. Wilson, sitting at Joliet.

The attorney general filed a petition with the high court for a writ of certiorari which would compel Judge Wilson to send his records in the case to Springfield and to surrender any jurisdiction he might have. Mr. Kerner acted at the request of State's Attorney Courtney, who sent Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright to Springfield on the mission.

Replies to Contempt Threats.

Assistant State's Attorney James Cunningham of Courtney's staf and Deputy Sherif Edward Scholler rearrested Karatz after Judge Wilson had released the convict on bail. In reply to threats of contempt made by Judge Wilson when he heard of the action, Prosecutor Cunningham said there was a question as to whether Judge Wilson was not in contempt of the Supreme court for releasing the convict on a writ of habeas corpus.

No action was taken yesterday on Attorney General Kerner's petition to the Supreme court, but it is expected that the writ of certiorari will be granted today. If so, it is understood this will prevent Judge Wilson from proceeding tomorrow on the Karatz case.

Held in Cook County Jail.

The Cook county authorities had said they would defy Judge Wilson and would refuse to produce Karatz when the habeas corpus hearing is resumed in Joliet. Karatz has been held in the Cook county jail since last Friday, when he was seized in Joliet after Judge Wilson continued the hearing a week.

The attorney general termed Judge Wilson's writ illegal interference and said he would not permit any one to prevent the incarceration of a person lawfully sentenced, as Karatz was.

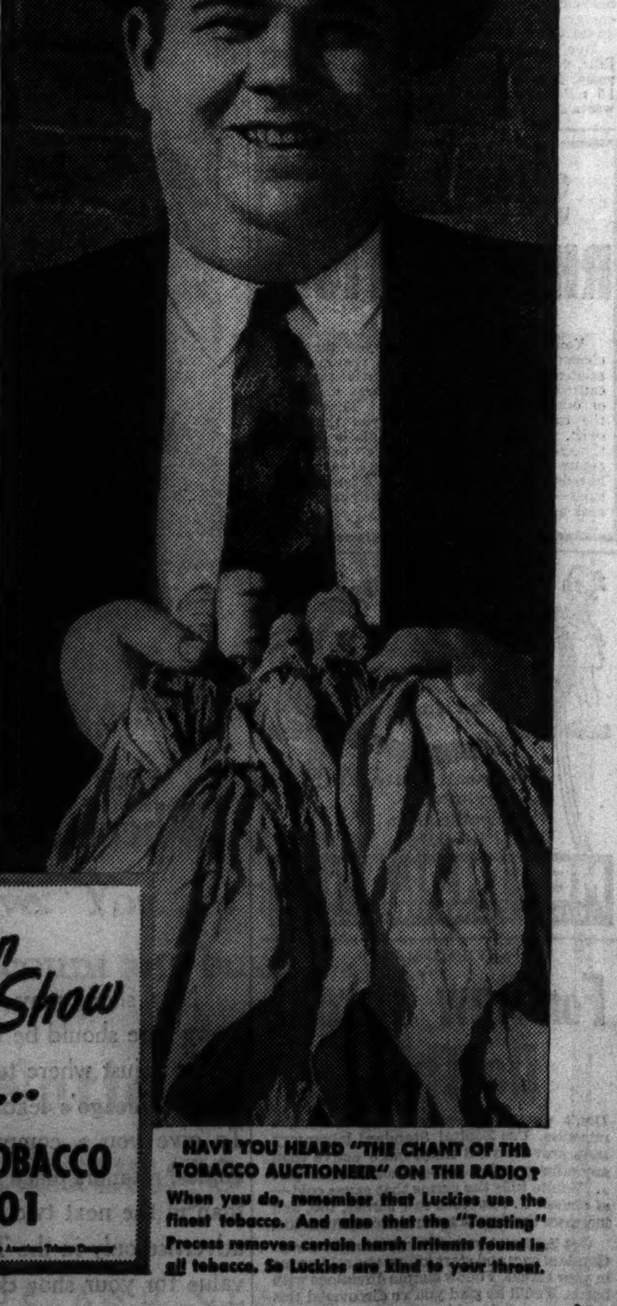
He Stakes $2,500 a Week on His Knowledge of Tobacco...

Robert W. Barnes —Independent Buyer— one of many tobacco experts who smoke Luckies



"I OFTEN invest $2500 a week in tobacco—$2500 of my own hard-earned cash," says Mr. Barnes. "So you can see that the only way I've stayed in business 10 years is to know tobacco.

"Now I know Lucky Strike tobacco and it's top-grade. That's why I've smoked Luckies for eight years now.

"Lots of other independent buyers, auctioneers, and warehousemen I know smoke Luckies for the same reason."

Yes, sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts like Mr. Barnes, Luckies have over twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

PEOPLE WHO PAUSED

No. 2. Contrast

By CALEB

CONTRAST appeals to us all. It is a universal, attention-arresting awakener! It has a little of the stimulating effect of a cold shower. It is bittersweet, captivating, curiosity-provoking. Contrast is the comic relief in the heartache of the drama. It is the aria in the heavy opera or the bachelor button among the marigolds.

Many people comment on the allure of contrast here. Five-cent soap for the economy buyer in the basement and $1 soap for the lover of luxury on our first floor. An etching at $5 and one at $500—both real art. Long knit underwear for some of our dearest and oldest customers, and the last word in silken scant things for some of our newest and youngest customers.

It is not surprising that we, too, get certain titillations from contrast. And there is much of contrast in our Guest Book.

Among the people who have paused here to pay us the compliment of signing their names or making some written comment are General Smedley D. Butler and Cornelia C. Linhardt, whose names appear one after the other. There are probably few common denominators between a retired general of marines and the national cherry pie contest winner. But this store has been an element of interest to them both.

Eleanor Roosevelt has signed our Guest Book. So has Sally Rand.

William Harridge, president of the American League, would hardly find of interest here the things which most interested Alice Wang of Peiping.

Jack Dempsey, who likes our store, hardly likes it for the same reasons as gentle Sister Mary St. Perpetua of Quebec.

Richard Byrd probably could work up but little enthusiasm for the fashion or perfume business, but he and Lucien Lelong have both been appreciative visitors here. Mr. Lelong drives fast automobiles and likes winter sports, but he probably would not care for a season in the Antarctic.

De Beck, creator of "Spark Plug," Rube Goldberg of cockeyed mechanics fame, and Milt Gross—great cartoonists all—have signed our Guest Book with typical samples of their work. Frank Lloyd Wright, artist of another kind, does not so easily sample his work, but he, too, has signed this book.

WOMAN OFFICIAL OF NLRB DENIES AIDING C.I.O. REDS

Doubts Attempts to Wreck Merchant Marine.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, New York regional director of the national labor relations board, pooh-poohed suggestions that subversive influences are seeking to wreck the American merchant marine when she appeared before a joint senate commerce and labor committee today.

Mrs. Herrick had been accused by Paul Scharrenberg, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, of sponsoring the organization of the C. I. O. national maritime union by communist agitators and then acting as the union's business agent. She dismissed these charges as fantastic and said the labor relations board had no responsibility to determine whether union members were Republicans, Democrats, Socialists or communists.

"Aren't there communists who are causing some trouble on our merchant marine?" asked Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.], chairman of the commerce committee.

Denies Knowledge of Reds.

"Not that I know of," replied Mrs. Herrick, a woman of generous proportions and imperious manner.

"I have heard a lot of talk about it, but those people who grouse about subversive influences are usually complaining about legitimate efforts of the men to improve working conditions," said Mrs. Herrick. "If the seamen protest against maggots in meat, why, subversive influences are at work."

Senator Copeland persisted, saying he didn't think the witness had been entirely frank, and demanding to know whether she had any suspicion that subversive influences were causing the maritime labor disturbances.

"Do you mean that a communist, per se would be a subversive influence?" asked Mrs. Herrick in a tone of amazement.

Walsh Suggests Protection.

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] intervened at that point, suggesting that the witness ought to be "protected because of her official position." She went on to say, however, that she supposed there were some communists in the seamen's unions because "there are communists in the body politic."

"But so far as the leadership is concerned, they are interested only in improving the working conditions of the men," she added.

In a prepared statement Mrs. Herrick substantially corroborated Mr. Scharrenberg's charge that the labor relations board set aside contracts between the International Seamen's union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, and the eastern shipowners, after a hearing demanded by outlaw strikers. Scharrenberg had described these outlaw strikers, who were disgruntled members of the International Seamen's union, as "the Red minority." Mrs. Herrick referred to them as "the rank and file committee."

Tells of East Coast Strike.

In March, 1936, she said, "a rank and file group of seamen" rebelled against the leadership of the I. S. U. and struck on the east coast, the strike lasting until May, 1936. Although the strike had been officially terminated in May, 1936, the "rank and file seamen continued their battle for better working conditions on ship after ship," she said. "The harbor was indescribable turmoil."

The condition which Mrs. Herrick described as a battle of the "rank and file seamen" for "better working conditions" was described by Scharrenberg as a series of sitdown strikes, called by the communist agitators just before the ships were scheduled to sail.

In the winter of 1936, Mrs. Herrick said, it became obvious that the merchant marine industry was subject to repeated strikes and the national labor relations board was brought into the picture. The "rank and file committee" petitioned the board to hold elections to determine whether the I. S. U. represented the seamen for collective bargaining, she declared.

Vote for New Union.

On April 15, 1937, Mrs. Herrick testified, the International Mercantile Marine company had a general strike and it petitioned the New York office of the board for an election.

The elections were finally ordered, according to Mrs. Herrick's testimony, and voting had been completed and ballots counted on thirty-six lines as of Jan. 31, 1938. With 13,762 eligible to vote, a total of 12,982 ballots were cast and of these 10,053 voted for the national maritime union, the new C. I. O. affiliate formed by the "rank and file committee," while 1,704 voted for the I. S. U.

Mrs. Herrick denied charges made by Mr. Scharrenberg, which he supported by five affidavits, that the elections were conducted in such a manner as to permit the C. I. O. crews to go from ship to ship, voting again and again.

ACTRESS BREAKS BACK; LIVES 19 YEARS IN BRACE

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Dorothea Antel, who won a wider audience during sickness than in health, died of pneumonia last night.

Nineteen of her thirty-eight years were spent in bed with a shattered spine, braced with a steel corset, so painful that anesthetics had to be administered to her when her bed linen was changed.

Yet she managed to support herself and built up a thriving gift shop to leave as a heritage to her sisters. She acquired some reputation as a columnist and radio script writer.

Miss Antel, a blonde, was just becoming known in the theater when she fell down a flight of steps outside a Hartford, Conn., theater, shattering her spine. She had been an actress since she was eight years old.

She won a $25,000 verdict against that theater after the fall, but medical expenses consumed most of that. The late E. F. Albee, theatrical magnate, arranged for her to have a bright apartment overlooking the Hudson.

Hit on Head by Falling Ore; Skull, Spine Fractured

New York, Feb. 2. — [Special.] — Ralph G. Macy, 50 years old, a mechanical engineer, was hit on his head by a fragment of ore weighing a pound which fell 200 feet from a window of the Equitable building. His skull and spine were fractured. The stone was a piece of silver ore that had been among numerous similar specimens on an office window sill. A building employé struck the ore when he prepared to clean a window.

MINERS HESITATE TO EXPEL GREEN FROM THE FOLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The United Mine Workers of America, foundation of the C. I. O., again deferred action today on their announced intention to oust William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, from the union.

Today the miners' appeals and grievances committee recommended that the matter be referred again to the executive board. The committee's report was substituted for a dozen resolutions demanding Green's expulsion, which at one time would have destroyed his eligibility to hold office. Since the miners started agitation to expel Green, other unions have granted cards to him, making his A. F. of L. position safe.

The convention readopted a motion passed in 1936 to increase the salary of John L. Lewis, U. M. W. president, from $12,500 to $25,000 annually. It also provided the salaries of Philip Murray, vice president, and Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy of Pennsylvania, secretary treasurer of the union, be increased from $9,000 to $18,000 annually. The officers never have accepted the increases.

ILLINOIS' 6 YEAR RELIEF BILL IS $870,000,000

IERC Head Tells Business Men of Problem.

Nearly a billion dollars was spent for relief in Illinois alone by federal, state, and local governments during the six years from 1932 through 1937. State Treasurer John C. Martin, who is also chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, made this statement yesterday at a Chicago Association of Commerce luncheon in the Palmer house.

Commissioner Leo M. Lyons of the Chicago Relief administration, Samuel A. Goldsmith, executive director of the Jewish charities, and Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic Federation and bureau of public efficiency, joined Martin in giving the business men the facts about relief. Walter L. Gregory, chairman of Gov. Horner's council on public assistance and employment, presided over the meeting.

Vast Extent of Costs.

"Few of us, who are not directly associated with the administration of relief, fully realize the vast extent of these costs," Martin said. "But, listen to this:

"From 1932 to 1937, both inclusive, there has been expended in Illinois from the combined purses of federal, state and local governments the aggregate sum of $870,000,000. This is an average annual outlay of $174,000,000.

"Of this six year total $463,000,000 went for direct relief alone, to which the federal government contributed $260,000,000, the state government $163,000,000, and the local government units $39,000,000."

As an example of the amount this takes from each man's pocket Martin said that 4 cents of every dollar in Illinois' 1937 income of $4,900,000,000 went for relief purposes through some form of taxation.

Public Assistance Programs.

"Over and above the allotments for direct relief," Martin continued, "Illinois' participation in public assistance programs required $54,000,000, which came from state, local, and federal funds. This was divided $30,000,000 for old age assistance, $13,000,000 for mothers' pensions, and $11,000,000 for blind assistance.

"The federal government in addition spent $322,000,000 on its works program in Illinois, of which $264,000,000 was used on WPA projects and $57,000,000 on CWA projects, and contributed another $22,000,000 in surplus commodities distribution."

Martin said the total expenditures by years were: $47,000,000 in 1932, $93,000,000 in 1933, $164,000,000 in 1934, $161,000,000 in 1935, $207,000,000 in 1936, and $195,000,000 in 1937.

Need 3½ Million this Month.

Lyons said approximately $3,500,000 will be needed to care for the 100,000 cases expected on the rolls of the CRA during February. He reiterated his statement of Monday that the city will be short of relief money by April.

"I don't believe the citizens appreciate the splendid, faithful work of the CRA employés," Lyons said. "Those people out on the front line have been holding disorders in check despite a shortage of funds."

Reliefers live under a peculiar kind of civilization, Goldsmith asserted. He said that a million people were on relief in Cook county during the years from 1934 to 1937.

"There are only five cities in the country with a larger population than this relief group," Goldsmith said. "In cities of comparable size we find that six, eight, or ten times as much is spent for normal living as is allowed to these people on relief.

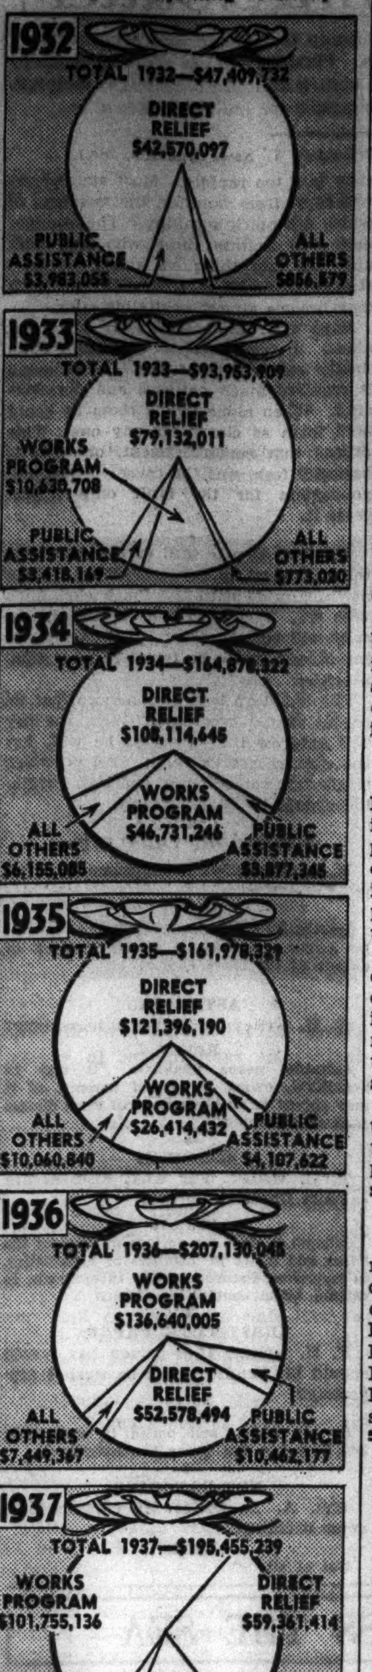
Effect on Future Citizens.

"Relief now is at only 69 per cent of a good standard. Think what this is doing to the children, who are the citizens of tomorrow. What of Chicago in 1940 or 1945?"

Sutherland warned the business men that they are storming against federal taxes, but that the withdrawal of federal money for relief in Illinois would leave the state in an impossible situation as far as the financing of relief is concerned. He said $39,000,000 of the $83,000,000 collected annually by the state in sales taxes is now used for relief and that the balance of the tax would not covere relief costs.

Illinois Relief Costs

(Story in adjoining column.)



This chart shows the amount of money expended for relief in Illinois between 1932 and 1937 and the way in which it was spent. The six year cost totals nearly a billion dollars. Work relief refers to WPA and CWA; public assistance includes various forms of pensions.

COUNCIL TO ASK 60 EXPERTS FOR HOUSING ADVICE

Sixty Chicago business, civic, and political leaders who are experts on aspects of the housing problem are to be invited to act as advisers to the city council committee on housing. The committee is attempting to understand the situation and formulate a broad plan for its solution.

The council committee, headed by Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], yesterday determined to call a conference of these experts for a series of public hearings beginning Feb. 14. This action was taken on the recommendation of Gael Sullivan, associate director of the Federal Housing administration.

At the request of the committee, Sullivan yesterday presented a thirty-three page summary of his views on the city's housing problem, with suggestions about approaching it. He asserted that any plan which includes government or public aid must also provide for attracting private capital housing projects. He also warned that the housing policy must be born of economic sanity.

WPA PREPARES TO DROP 20,000 FROM ITS ROLLS

Kelly Invites Mayors to Protest Meeting.

Howard O. Hunter, regional director of the Works Progress administration, informed Mayor Kelly yesterday that on March 1 20,000 men will be cut from the Chicago WPA rolls. Chicago's quota is now 76,000. Hunter said further slashes will be made in April, May, and June, affecting the entire central western region of 13 states.

The reductions, Hunter said, will be necessary because WPA increased its rolls during January and February to meet unemployment and must decrease them in order to stay within its appropriation.

Mayor Calls Protest Meeting.

Disturbed by the announcement, Mayor Kelly said: "Chicago needs an increase in WPA, not a cut." He promptly asked mayors of eleven other major cities to meet with him in the Palmer House tomorrow to protest against the proposed reductions.

"Our own relief administration couldn't stand an increase that large on its rolls, and if the WPA reduction in the whole region is in proportion none of the other cities will be able to carry the load either," Mayor Kelly said.

Hunter said the present quota for the region is 720,700 workers and that, while a reduction is contemplated for March, no figure has been set.

Mayors Coming to Chicago.

The mayors who will attend tomorrow's conference are Harold Burton of Cleveland; Walter C. Boetcher, Indianapolis; B. F. Dickmann, St. Louis; R. W. Reading, Detroit; D. W. Howan, Milwaukee; M. H. Gehan, St. Paul; Daniel Butler, Omaha; John Edy, Toledo, and H. F. McElroy, Kansas City city manager.

BRITAIN PETITIONED BY 804,000 TO HALT RISING LIVING COSTS

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The "Liberal petition," the plea of 804,000 British subjects against rising costs of living, was borne ceremoniously into the house of commons today by 22 elderly attendants in knee breeches.

Five of the 804,000 signers, chosen as typical, rode triumphantly to parliament in a bus with the huge bulk of the petition. The five were a working mother, a pensioned post-office worker, a 71 year old widow, an unemployed ex-soldier, and a costermonger [street hawker of fruit and vegetables].

The petition, prepared by the Liberal party, attacks the government's policy of artificially restricting trade, thus increasing the costs of food and household necessities. It will go to the committee on petitions and possibly cause a debate on living costs.

WPA FIRES THREE AS RINGLEADERS IN BEATING BOSS

H. K. Seltzer, Chicago director of the Works Progress administration, discharged three WPA laborers yesterday after they were identified by Andrew Jombanis, their foreman, as leaders in the rioting early Tuesday on the lower level of Wacker drive. About 30 other workers were put on probation.

Jombanis, who lives at 829 South Marshfield avenue, was severely beaten when he tried to force loitering laborers, employed to clean and whitewash the concrete pillars, to leave their bonfires and go to work. He charged the three men with assault. Their cases were set for hearing May 2.

Survivors of Tuscania Sinking in 1918 to Meet

Saturday is the twentieth anniversary of the sinking of the S. S. Tuscania, the only American troop transport torpedoed and sunk by Germany during the world war. Two hundred eighty-five soldiers lost their lives, but 1,715 were rescued by British destroyers. The National Tuscania Survivors' association will hold annual reunion and memorial services at the Hotel Sherman.

OFFICIALS CALM CIVIC FEDERATION FEAR OF DEFICITS

Mayor, School, County Heads Pledge Economy.

Heads of three large taxing bodies which were warned by the Civic federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency yesterday that they must practice severe economies during 1938 made calm rejoinders last night and repeated pledges of savings.

Under the signatures of Bertram J. Cahn, president, and Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary, the federation's statement predicted that the taxpayers will have to fight a battle against tax increases in the legislature and public employés may be under the shadow of more payless pay days early in 1939 unless the city, the county and the board of education save all they can in 1938.

Point to Legal Obstacles.

"The city's corporate budget," the release read, "shows a balance of barely $9,000 only by including on the asset side $1,000,000 in revenues from the pari-mutuel brokers' license fees, which were under legal attack when the budget was passed, and over $2,500,000 as accounts receivable in a claim against Cook county, also in litigation, and which the county even under an adverse decision, probably would not pay this year, and might under the law pay in ten annual instalments."

Mayor Kelly made immediate answer.

"I have already stated that city accounts will be balanced this year and that expenditures will be within our income," he said. "Department heads have had specific orders since the first of the year to practice all economies and we expect to come through with a surplus this year as we did last year."

Fear School Estimates.

Concerning the board of education, Cahn and Sutherland said that they were apprehensive lest a straining of estimated surplus as a basis for last minute additions to appropriations might result in a deficit before the end of 1938. They also said it might be impossible to continue 1938 pay restorations into 1939 because of the use of nonrecurring items of revenue to give a substantial part of them effect in 1938.

James B. McCahey, president of the board, replied:

"Mr. Sutherland is worrying prematurely. Chicago's teachers' pay is based on the $45,000,000 pegged levy for the school board's education fund. We expect to sustain the salary levels as long as the pegged levy continues at that amount. The board of education anticipated no deficit at the end of this year nor any necessity for cutting salaries next year."

Points to Shrinkage Dangers.

Taking up the county budget, the federation's statement pointed to the possibility that the abnormally large revenues from delinquent tax collections [about $8,000,000 annually] might soon return to the normal collection of about $500,000 annually and leave the county board with an income far below its present scale of expense.

"I am confident," said Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, in reply, "that there will be a drastic reduction in the 1939 county budget because of a number of nonrecurring items of expense which we are now bearing."

AMERICANS IN CHINA.

The Japanese government has again apologized. This time it is for the Nanking incident in which John M. Allison, third secretary of the United States embassy, in charge there, and Charles Riggs of the Nanking university faculty were slapped by a sentry in the compound of Japanese troop quarters. Our state department has accepted the amende as satisfactory. Another delicate episode is closed as it should be. There is further assurance that the Japanese commanding officer and twenty soldiers have been arrested and will be tried by court martial.

A Chinese woman, an employé of the university, had been taken from the premises, which are American property and protected by agreement, to the barracks and raped. The crime was reported to the Japanese civil officials and two Japanese policemen were sent to investigate. Mr. Riggs and Mr. Allison accompanied the police and the woman to the barracks to seek the assailants and the two Americans made the mistake of entering a military compound. There they encountered the sentry. They were acting under the impulse of natural indignation, but they were indiscreet. A better disciplined sentry would have stopped them and called his commanding officer. Again he might have shot them and made a good case that he was acting in the line of duty. Another incident is closed, but where there are such contacts more will arise.

Reports from Nanking covering the weeks of Japanese occupation of Chiang Kai-shek's former capital uniformly reflect upon the state of Japanese discipline in the city, and, if true, reveal a terror which has been truly Asiatic in its disregard of humanities and decencies. The truth about it isn't to be known now. War produces atrocities and it also produces exaggerations of them. Asiatic wars always have been ferocious and ruthless and the Japanese contempt for the Chinese, plus the Chinese bent for irregular warfare, may easily have made the capture of Nanking and its subsequent occupation a very bloody page in the history of Asia. In that the only inconsistent thing would be the assumption that the Japanese have acquired occidental civilization, which in itself might not mean so much.

Foreigners in the war zones and the devastated areas are in a most precarious position and the old China hands among them seem to be the last to realize it. They have become so accustomed to the immunities and the superiority of the white race in Asia that they are an amazingly independent, carefree, and audacious breed. They expect to do with impunity things which would be suicide for a Chinese, and the way they expose themselves would indicate courage in an extraordinary degree if it were not so close to foolhardiness, and if it didn't constantly strain the relations of their country with the invader.

In the occupied regions, where fighting has been going on all about them, they have as long as possible clung to their homes and their offices. They have had their cocktail parties and their teas and their dinners with bombs dropping about them and Japanese soldiers beating at their doors. They sit in their gardens with Japanese intrenchments dug outside their gates. The old timers have been so accustomed to rumors and alarms that a major war can come down around their ears and find them reluctant to change the routine of their lives, even by obeying the commands of their own embassies.

They still rely upon what has been regarded as the impregnable position of the white man. We can admire their fortitude and still regard it as indiscreet. It is true that the Japanese have not declared war, but the legal fictions flowing from that fact are wholly unreliable. We do not police the stricken areas of Spain. We haven't tried to police India or Ethiopia. We do not even protect our citizens and their property in Mexico. We cannot expect to dominate the Japanese in China, police their soldiers, or do anything effective except diplomatically with the Japanese government in Tokio. Our military forces in China are merely hostages. We should reduce the tension by reducing the number of contacts.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR THINKING.

Dr. Glenn Frank will have made an important contribution to clear thinking on public questions if he succeeds in centering public attention on the imbecility of contemporary political terminology.

"I wish," he said, "that there could be a moratorium on the terms reactionary and radicalism, on liberal and conservatism. Their significance has been taken away from them and they are merely clubs with which competing camps are waging war."

There are other valuable American words similarly abused, but Dr. Frank has chosen these four offenders for his attack. A conservative, whom the dictionary describes as one who upholds the existing order and opposes premature innovation, becomes, under the current custom of nomenclature, a wrecker of human values, an annihilator of progress. A liberal, according to his supporters, is any person who is running for public office. A candidate for governor in a neighboring state defined a liberal as a man who votes for Roosevelt, his sole qualification. Any one is a reactionary who opposes even mildly the antidote being prescribed in the discussion.

The words, as the former Wisconsin university president says, have become mere brickbats. They are used as epithets rather than as definitions. They are a substitute for thought and for thinking.

They would soon die of their own absurdity if whoever used one was made to replace the word with a straightforward definition of what he was trying to say.

A STRONG CANDIDATE.

Congressman Scott W. Lucas has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the United States senate. In opposing Senator Dieterich, Mr. Lucas will have the support of Gov. Horner.

Senator Dieterich's weakness is all too apparent. He comes before the voters with a record of having permitted the Illinois coal industry to be ruined. Tens of thousands of miners downstate are outraged at his failure to protect their jobs. The indignation of the miners is echoed throughout the state and particularly in manufacturing cities like Chicago, Peoria and Rockford, where millions of householders and factory owners find their coal bills needlessly increased. Mr. Dieterich cannot escape his large share of responsibility for depriving Illinois miners of their natural market; and neither can he answer the accusations of consumers of coal throughout the state who find their natural advantage of nearness to the great coal fields of Illinois has been taken from them.

Gov. Horner's move was a clever one. He avoids tying his fortunes to those of a notoriously weak candidate. In Mr. Lucas the voters have a man of much experience and proved capacity. Mr. Lucas would give Illinois the kind of representation in the senate which the state has not enjoyed since Senator Glenn retired from office.

UNDESIRABLES AT THE BAR.

After prolonged and thorough investigation by a committee of the Bar association a report has been filed in the Supreme court with recommendations for the disbarment of two lawyers, Charles A. Williams, not related to Judge Charles A. Williams of the Superior court, and Walter V. Fackler. Censure is recommended for Barratt O'Hara and Charles B. Haffenberg.

The offenses held proven include unprofessional conduct, action denoting lack of moral character, and action tending to bring courts and the legal profession into disrepute and contempt. The investigation was the result of a hearing on the reorganization of the Northwest Building corporation under the federal bankruptcy law by Judge Barnes, who requested the Bar association to inquire into the conduct of thirteen attorneys engaged in reorganization cases. The hearings were held at various times beginning Aug. 26, 1936, and were concluded by Aug. 3, 1937. Complaints against six attorneys were dismissed and against three others placed on file without recommendation.

Proceedings of this character are no doubt unpleasant and irksome for busy members of the bar, but they are of the first importance. Every reputable practitioner must have pride in his profession and must recognize an individual and collective responsibility for its good repute. It is recognized by the best elements of the legal calling that it has suffered disparagement in recent years through the misdoing of lawyers who aid criminals to escape justice and engage in activities to cheat and defraud. The discredit this small minority brings upon a profession which is rightly held by the public to be a guardian of the law is not confined to the guilty, but gives an evil repute to the profession as an institution and therefore cannot be altogether escaped by any member. It is obvious that this minority must be dealt with with more promptness and vigor than has often been shown if the profession is to regain its former influence and the high public regard it ought to hold among citizens.

We congratulate the Bar association and its committee upon its action in this instance and hope that it will be followed up by an alert and energetic weeding out of all undesirables in practice in this jurisdiction.

OPENINGS IN THE ARMY AIR SERVICE.

Owing to the competition of the navy and marine corps air service, the army has 232 unfilled appointments in the aviation cadets, who receive their training in the field army air course at Randolph Field, Texas. The training is strict, about half the attendants are eliminated during the course, but it leads to a commission in the reserve and two years' active service with a chance of two years more. With the army's expanding air program it is probable that the chances of the flying school graduate's winning a regular commission will improve. In any case, the training is excellent and, besides giving the graduate two or perhaps four years' active service in the reserve, will give him a preferred status in case of mobilization or in civil aviation if he wishes to make flying his profession.

The 232 vacancies seem to offer an opportunity not to be scorned by young men of the right quality. The defense services, regular or reserve, are growing in importance and the opportunity of distinction.

Editorial of the Day

LL.G., GOING STRONG.

[Boston Herald.]

David Lloyd George celebrated his 75th birthday by defeating his daughter Megan on the golf links at Antibes. That was in the morning. In the afternoon he played bridge. At intervals he was busy reading letters of congratulation from all sorts of people, including political opponents.

He is an extraordinary little man, as happy in the leadership of a little party of four in parliament as he was when he had the responsibility of a world war. Happier, in fact, for he is no longer on the defensive but in his proper element as critic of governments. His criticisms are valued by those at whom they are directed.

His little place at Antibes, like his little place in Surrey, is a mecca for British political leaders on holiday. Eden, Vansittart, Churchill, and others consult him constantly on the European and Asiatic situation. Would that Presidents of the United States could thus sit down with their predecessors, and, forgetting party and partisanship, discuss the national welfare!

EX-VAUDEVILLIAN.

Hollywood, says our favorite story teller, has become a mecca for fortune tellers, soothsayers, and crystal gazers. Sometimes ex-vaudevillians now in the fortune telling business find their training in ventriloquism extremely helpful. Thus when a perturbed man approached a turbaned seer and said in desperate tones, "My wife died a year ago and I miss her awfully, Mr. Swami. Could I speak to her for $25?" the mystic forgot his rôle in his excitement.

"For $25 you can speak with her and I'll drink a glass of water at the same time," he said.

THE FRED SMITHS OF AMERICA.

Members of the Benevolent and Protective and Completely Universal Order of Fred Smiths of America are meeting again this month. Some two score of the eighty Fred Smiths living in or near Chicago will meet at a dinner Feb. 16 at the Congress Casino. "The March of Fred Smith," portraying the rise of Fred Smiths since the dawn of civilization, will be broadcast from the Hotel New Yorker that evening. Main objectives of the organization:

—Preservation of domestic tranquility by the elimination of mistaken identity.

—Identification by the adoption of middle names classifying Fred Smiths by the sort of work they do (i. e., Fred "Railroad" Smith), thus insuring proper delivery of Christmas packages, telegrams, and mail.

—Concrete expressions of gratitude to the wives who have gallantly submerged their own identities in the name "Mrs. Fred Smith."

Titled officers of the organization are Provost and Scrivener. There was a Beadle, but the position was discarded. None of the Fred Smiths knew what a Beadle's duties were.

OYSTERS SOUND YOUR HORN, reads a road sign the Hugo Picks observed near Corpus Christi, Tex. But it didn't mean that the oysters, like those of the Lewis Carroll poem, were out for a walk. There is a shack near by where oysters are sold—with curb service if motorists toot for it.

FOR AN OLD FRIEND.

There is a time for everything,
For winter's frost, for budding spring,
And joy that summer's hours will bring.

There is a time for sudden tears,

So share my fire and sip my tea,
Youth's days have passed for you and me,
This is our time for memory.

THE SCHUHPLATTLER AND THE CHAUFFEUR.

Remember the Tyrolean restaurant on Clybourn avenue we wrote about one day? Well, on a particularly gay evening there some one started the Schuhplattler—the German peasant dance. One fashionable lady who had learned to do it on visits to the Tyrol got into the fun and insisted that one of the patrons sitting against the wall by himself get up and dance. She taught him how to do the peasant dance. A few evenings later a friend sent her car to bring her to a dinner party at her home. The face of the chauffeur seemed familiar, and she kept puzzling over it all the way to the friend's house. Suddenly she remembered why. He was the fellow she had taught to do the Schuhplattler.

HOW STAMMERING BEGINS.

THE machinery of speech is as intricate as the most complicated bit of mechanical equipment. The muscles of the chest and the diaphragm push air out of the lungs which passes between the vocal cords. Its force and the approximation of the bands themselves influence the tone, which may be steady, tremulous, clear, and bell-like, or husky and "breathy."

We may not realize that the voice strings are not under the control of the will. Let us assume that we desire to utter a sound or to sing. With a mental picture of the required tone, the vocal apparatus then adjusts itself without our aid so that the wanted vibration rate is produced. But the whole business is not determined by the larynx alone—with its muscles, nerves, and regulating devices. Much depends upon the shape, position, and activities of the tongue, the lips, and the jaws.

Suppose there is a loss of balance between breath supply, the vibrating strings, and the behavior of the tongue and the lips. The outcome will be muffled pronunciation or perhaps stammering. In the latter event there will be numerous movements of the facial muscles, especially of the mouth, for there is not enough wind pressure behind the effort. As has been said of stammering, "It is a habit in which there is a heap of pronouncing with a minimum of speaking."

As a rule the stammerer is more at ease in noisy surroundings where trafic is flowing with an incessant clatter and bang. Sometimes he can sing without the slightest impediment. The reason appears to be that whenever the victim tries to exhale a greater volume of air the very loudness of his voice encourages him and he continues to make an increasing effort to be heard. He is thus driving air past the larynx steadily and with great power. Again, in singing, the notes may be long. In consequence there is no sign of the difficulty because a full breath is taken and used to sustain the tone. In conversation, on the contrary, short words and sentences are employed and the struggle made is not sufficient to overcome the defect.

Every time a youngster stumbles over a remark, we must not call it stuttering. We all did this as children and practically every one surmounts the difficulty, although about 1 per cent will become addicted to a type of hesitation which is quite foreign to their natures.

Apprehension may be responsible for many instances and a small percentage of children become affected because they talk too rapidly. Most stammerers will come from families, the members of which are quick speaking. The younger ones will imitate those who are older and, the first thing we know, we have stimulated a sort of jerky delivery which may become almost negligible later.

Many are not bothered at all when alone. I remember a classmate who finally conquered his trouble, although it required much patience and perseverance. When alone in his room he could hold forth as clearly as any one. This proved that embarrassment, or what is basically fear, was the cause. Punishing youngsters for the fault only aggravates it.

The first step toward cure is to oblige the individual to say everything clearly and distinctly with the lungs well filled with air. If the patient is musical, results will come quicker. Speech retraining classes are to be found in most communities.

The handicap is so pronounced that no parent should ever say, "Well, the boy will outgrow it." Perhaps he will, but the chances are he won't. All of which means that some plan of supervised training should be adopted early.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON—Dr. Laurence O'Shaughnessy, pioneer in this country of surgery of the heart, has completed successfully a series of experimental operations which offer new hope to sufferers from the dreaded angina pectoris.

Lord Dawson of Penn and two heart specialists of the Cardiovascular clinic, Lambeth hospital, Dr. Daniel T. Davis and Dr. H. E. Mansell, have helped him.

The Lancet, British medical journal, states: "We see the prospect of added months and years of active life and comfort for a group of people whose bodies usually have been ageing faster than their minds. Such rejuvenation will be a great achievement.

"Familiarity with the marvels of surgery makes most of them seem commonplace, but even for the medical man operations on the beating heart still have dramatic quality.

"This particular form of heart trouble arises from lack of oxygen in the heart muscles. From some causes not yet understood, the blood vessels of the heart become strangled by disease, the steady beat weakens, eventually ceases.

"Why this should happen we have no idea; we often accept it philosophically as part of the process of growing old, and resignedly plan our lives, or our patients' lives, accordingly.

"But now," the Lancet adds, "tell the surgeon the heart lacks blood, and he offers to perform an operation for increasing its blood supply."

Dr. O'Shaughnessy takes muscles and fat from the wall of the chest, grafts them on to the living heart, and slowly the blood vessels in the new muscle begin to feed the heart with blood and life-giving oxygen, gradually taking over from the heart's own strangled blood vessels.

Five sufferers gave their lives while this new knowledge was being sought, while the technique was being perfected. Ten others were alive six months after the operation.

Nine of those ten lost their angina. Seven of them were able to resume work.

ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am one of seven children whose parents have passed away. They left a little real estate. This property has been in probate over one year.

1. What is the cost of handling this property for each additional year?

2. Is it not proper to make out deeds which will show all heirs' names? My brother has been appointed administrator. There still are several debts to be paid.

3. He has borrowed $50 from me and signed a judgment note for it.

4. Must I file this note against estate so I can get my money back when property is sold to settle estate?

5. Can my sister sign her share over to her husband when there are minor children?

6. The administrator is liable for rent he does not collect, isn't he?

7. Can I compel him to render a statement every six months showing moneys taken in and paid out?

8. I think he is not collecting rent regularly from tenants on account of illness of long duration. The tenant is my sister's husband. He owes considerable debts. He tried to pass a note to his debtor which the debtor should apply against the estate to collect when the property is sold.

9. Can he do any such thing? O. H.

1. It is not clear that any additional costs would be involved beyond the bond premium. The premium would depend on the size of the bond. The reason for delay in closing the estate is not clear.

2. The probate proceedings are a matter of record and ordinarily it is not necessary to have a deed in addition.

3. You do not state any relationship between this and the probating of the estate.

4. If he has incurred the debt as administrator, then you should file the claim in the proceedings. If it is a personal obligation and you wish to tie up your brother's distributive share, we advise you to employ an attorney for this purpose.

5. Yes.

6. Not on the bare facts stated.

7. No, his obligation is to account to the court rather than the beneficiaries.

8. The administrator as such does not necessarily have anything to do with the real estate. If he is managing the real estate it is on expressed or implied authority from the other co-owners and his rights and powers would depend on the authority granted.

9. We do not understand the facts.

Ordinarily an attorney should be employed in the probating of such an estate and the attorney employed will be in a better position to advise you than we are.

PROPERTY SETTLEMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife and I separated [I left her] on the first of September. We had been married six and one-half years. When I left I assumed all our outstanding debts and took only my personal things with me [clothes, books, and music]. I left all else for her, valued at about $2,000. Our bills amounted to about $200 and I'm paying them, although one for $100 is on the furniture.

1. Am I responsible and can I be sued for bills she may run up in store and the like, or [2] is there a notice I can post somewhere which would absolve me from all responsibility for her actions and debts?

3. How long must I wait until either she or I can file suit for divorce?

4. Can she get alimony? We have no children and she is working and making more money than I am.

5. She claims to have supported me.

6. Can I demand a copy of my time record from these various places of business where I worked as far back as seven years? J. E.

1. Divorce would be the only way of cutting off your common law responsibility for her necessaries.

2. No.

3. One year's desertion is a ground, but the bill should be filed by the party who was not to blame for the separation.

4. The alimony allowance is largely discretionary to the divorce judge.

5. The decision on such disputes of fact would depend upon which testimony is believed in court.

6. You can request it. After the divorce proceedings are pending you can bring in the records on subpena duces tecum. The attorney whom you employ will be in a better position to advise you than we are.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CORPORATION STOCK.

Berwyn, Ill., Jan. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If I buy no par stock in an Illinois corporation how will I share, as among stockholders, in the distribution of the assets on dissolution of the corporation?

2. Should prospective subscribers to stock of a corporation be better off if the corporation were organized under the laws of Delaware or some other state [I mean as to the matter of the sharing of no par stock in assets]?

3. Where there is no provision in the corporation agreement, what would decide in what proportion holders of no par stock would share?

4. Must they prove how much they paid for the stock? R. S. H.

1. If there is only one kind of stock then presumably the net proceeds of the sale will be divided by the number of outstanding shares and a corresponding fraction allotted to each share. The fact that you ask your questions implies that there are different classifications of stock, and if so we cannot advise you to advantage without having your facts.

2. In general, no.

3. See preceding answers.

4. No, only that the statutory minimum was paid in.

ENGLISH.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Being interested in the discussion of dancing, grammar, etc., in the schools, I wish to applaud M. H. for daring to speak in defense of English grammar.

We give much time and attention to fine arts by which at school we learn the art of fitting a dress or painting a picture, making a bookcase, dancing, furnishing a room, playing a cornet, or doing any other of a long list of interesting things, and I trust we acquire much skill. I have no derogatory word to utter concerning any of these activities.

But there is another fine art—that of the ready use of correct English—which we need because our lives call for its application at any hour of any day as long as we live. I know of no other fine art which we need so constantly, so continuously. And a young person whose goal is a job should know that in securing a desirable job this art counts. I believe that dropping English grammar from our courses of study removes a foundation stone from our power to distinguish between correct and incorrect forms of speech.

Recently, while conversing with a high school girl of more than average mentality, I ventured a hint of my views, and the reply I received, spoken most kindly, was: "But you know, in modern English, grammar is not needed."

A young woman, possessor of two university degrees, looked up from writing a letter concerning a position of high order which she was hoping for. She asked a question about sentence construction and was told the form she mentioned was plural possessive, calling for an apostrophe after the s. She added, "I never can be sure about an apostrophe," but said it with embarrassment, which it was not fair for her to feel. She deserved better than she had received of the schools. Surely, a competent teacher of English grammar in the upper elementary grades or in high school would have saved her from these later embarrassments.

Within a few days these expressions have come to me by mail or have been uttered in my presence: From a university graduate, "The A—— chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution invite you . . ."; from a teacher, who is a high school graduate, "With love, from we three"; from a college graduate, "Of all that family, none are left"; from a graduate of a fashionable girls' school, "Come with Frank and I." These are violations of only the first rules of English grammar, and are readily seen by one who sees as a study of grammar leads him to see.

I am not asking that young teachers be called upon to teach that which they never were given an opportunity to learn. That would not be fair, for several years now have passed since the subject became unfashionable; but I am advocating light, provided by some means, for our boys and girls.

The departments of English in other respects I wish to commend. But when grammar became a distasteful word to some of our people, we were promised that which is just as good as the old-fashioned study and less painful to take; but we are not getting it. H. H.

A PLAGIARISM.

Woodstock, Ill., Jan. 30.—The recent letter in this column, signed by Dick Conklin, was lifted in its entirety from an article entitled "No Third Term for Roosevelt," which appeared first in the American Mercury and was recently republished in the Readers' Digest.

SPECTACLES.

UNEDUCATED FEET.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—From recent letters I learn that the object of teaching tap dancing in the schools is to make the pupils' feet behave. This being so, there are very many ignorant, ill-bred or ill-mannered males in this town who need this course of instruction. On the "L," the street cars and the buses they place their feet so that the rest of us have to wipe their dirty shoes on our clothes.

THE REAL THING IN MONOPOLIES.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The government coal monopoly must be the real thing in monopolies for thousands of people are hollering and revealing exactly what it is doing to them, while only one or two people are exercised about the vague, indefinite wrongs of some unnamed private monopolies.

C.

BASIC CAUSE OF DEPRESSION.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Your editorial of today on "Basic Cause of Depression" is a splendid account of what happens to a sick country when it calls in an old-fashioned doctor and he bleeds the patient again and again instead of attacking the disease germs. But you could hardly say that caused the sickness.

For us ordinary folks, depression came on when people stopped buying what we had for sale—our goods or our labor. It will be over when they've gotten over being so cagy about buying and open up as they did before 1929. That was when it started. Doctor R. wasn't called in till three years later.

Besides, if depression were due to lack of saving and modern capital investment, there could never have been anything but depression up to a hundred years ago. Ever hear of George Washington putting his help on a four day week for lack of buyers for his products. They worked fourteen hours in their days—just what we'll have to do again ultimately, if we keep on squandering our capital as you described.

It won't be a "depression," though because depressions come to an end when brisk buying begins. The germ of depression is the "passion for liquidity"—the fear of buying—which overcame us in 1929. The doctors have bitterly denounced the fear germ but done practically nothing to dispel it and countless things to make it worse.

Let's have another good editorial on the real cause of depression.

HARRIS K. RANDALL.

SWEENEY ON WAR.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Somebody once made an offhand remark that war is hell and ever since, without even bothering to find out whether or not the statement was true, everybody has been trying to end wars.

Personally I think war could be converted into a dignified international business deal if we would stop all the childish enthusiasm which makes it appear so foolish.

When intelligent business men go to work in the morning there's no silly parade, no wild flag waving, no crowds cheering. So when intelligent men go off to war let them go quietly, one by one. Don't waste money on flags; we'll need that cloth for bandages. For heaven's sake, stop yelling like a lot of lunatics; you'll want that energy to produce munitions. Don't go down to the train or boat to see them off; they're not children, they won't get lost. When they return with victory don't greet them cheering madly; they've had enough noise in battle.

If war were conducted in this dignified manner, I'm sure everybody would appreciate its efficient depopulating system and its great boom to industry; so next time let's just try it that way.

JOE SWEENEY.

RELIEF ADMINISTRATION.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—You are to be commended on your recent articles dealing with the gross inefficiency and waste of money in the distribution of relief.

The proposal to place trained office executives in charge of office work should be adopted at once. I worked in a relief office in this city which was operated with a very antiquated system of filing, or not filing, I should say. Instead of keeping the case folders in files they were stacked on chairs, radiators, window sills and desks, and clients calling at the office were obliged to wait as long as six hours because their "case" could not be located. A staf of girls, hired expressly for this purpose, spent all their time searching through the various stacks, day after day, sort of a perpetual merry-go-round, and they are still at it. All their other handlings are outmoded, too. A suggestion from an employé for the improvement of this condition would have been equivalent to handing in a resignation.

H.

WHAT DO YOU SUGGEST?

Chicago, Jan. 31.—After reading of the "unforgettable horror" in Barcelona, where 158 orphan children were killed by an air raid, one wonders what kind of men are they who stoop to such infamous deeds, such cruel and cowardly murder.

It is positively sickening, this sort of thing. Can't something be done by our great Christian nation to stop these "unforgettable horrors"?

COAL CODE PUTS DEPRESSION IN ILLINOIS MINES

Ruins Chicago Market to Benefit Indiana.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Thousands of tons of Illinois coal, all mined and loaded in freight cars, are being held on railroad sidings here because the natural market has been taken away by the latest price fixing device of the federal government.

The minimum price code inaugurated last Dec. 16 under the Guffey-Vinson coal act has resulted in a disastrous discrimination against central Illinois coal producers who depend on a free market in the Chicago industrial area, and benefited Indiana mines, according to operators who rely on a competitive market for their shipments.

Many mines in this part of the state, which ordinarily would be working near peak production at this time of the year, have been forced to curtail operations as much as 50 per cent, because of the new code prices. Elsewhere in the state mines worked only three days in January.

Reduce Output 35 Per Cent.

Panther Creek Mines, Inc., one of the principal producers in Sangamon county, with two shipping mines at Springfield, has cut operations 35 per cent in the last six weeks because fixed prices enable Indiana producers to sell cheaper in important industrial centers in the northern part of Illinois, George Solomon, an official, said today.

Solomon said the company, which employed 1,100 men five days a week from September to Christmas, is producing only 65 per cent as much coal as it did six weeks ago. Not only has production been cut, but the company has 150 cars of coal loaded that it is unable to sell. The price as set in the northern consuming market, Solomon said, is about 20 cents a ton lower for Indiana coal than for coal from central Illinois.

Screenings here are fixed at $1.40 a ton at the mine and the freight is $1.75, making the delivered price in Chicago $3.15 a ton. This is a 20 cents a ton differential in favor of Indiana on a comparable quality of coal. Some Indiana coal is a little better. On the whole, the quality of Indiana coal is as high as that of central Illinois.

Hope for Code Revision.

Operators are hopeful that indignation stirred by discrimination against Illinois, third largest coal producing state, will bring quick modification of code prices. If the situation does not change, they say, many mines will be closed.

A survey is being made at the direction of Gov. Henry Horner to determine the full effect of the coal code on mining in Illinois.

The higher price fixed under the code has increased the state's coal bill by $160,000 a year, according to James McSherry, director of the department of mines and minerals.

The price increase will average 40 cents a ton on 400,000 tons of coal used by the state annually. "We could buy Kentucky coal under the new schedule for less than we buy Illinois coal," McSherry said. Horner said the state will continue to use Illinois coal.

CLEVELAND PLEA FOR COAL PRICE WRIT IS DENIED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The city of Cleveland today was denied a preliminary injunction against the minimum soft coal prices set for the city by the national bituminous coal commission. Judge Oscar Ruhling of the federal district court held that the city had followed improper procedure in bringing its action before him. The coal act establishes the United States Circuit Court of Appeals as the court of original jurisdiction.

Attorneys for the city announced they will bring the suit in the Court of Appeals here immediately. The city charges that delay in suspending the prices fixed by the commission is costing it $500 a day. The city is attacking the commission for failure to hold hearings before fixing prices.

As Judge Ruhling denied the petition Charles S. Rhyne, staf attorney for the Institute of Municipal Law Officers, waited in the court to seek permission to intervene in the case in behalf of the city of Chicago. He will do so when the action is brought in the Circuit Court of Appeals. The Appeals court delayed action on a test of Illinois prices brought by the St. Louis and O'Fallon Coal company of O'Fallon, Ill.

ORDER U. S. COAL PRICE FIXERS TO COURT MONDAY

7 Illinois Companies Ask Injunction.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday ordered the national bituminous coal commission to show cause next Monday why a temporary injunction should not be issued to prevent the enforcement in Illinois of the commission's price fixing scale.

Application for the order was made by Attorney George T. Evans, representative of seven coal companies owning Illinois mines, which have asserted that the coal commission's acts are dicriminatory. Judges Evan A. Evans, Will M. Spark, and J. Earl Major, who heard the attorney, indicated that they would not go at once into the whole question of the legality of the acts of the government body, but would decide only on whether temporary relief was necessary.

Speedy Action Is Sought.

Attorney Evans explained that was what he wanted. The companies, he said, had appealed to the commission for a revision of the scale, but that the body had set a hearing on railroad coal prices for Feb. 14. This hearing might take weeks, he added, and meanwhile his clients would suffer.

"The price scales for Illinois mines were set without findings of fact and without public hearings," he said, "and the evidence on which they were based has never been disclosed to any producer of coal."

The protesting companies are the Southwestern Illinois corporation, United Electric Coal company, Central States Collieries, Inc.; Patoka Coal company, Truax-Traer Coal company, Illinois Pocahontas company, and Pyramid Coal corporation.

Commission to Be Notified.

Mr. Evans said he would serve notice of the hearing immediately on the coal commission. It is expected that the commission will be represented by an attorney at the hearing on Monday.

The city of Chicago, which is fighting the coal board's order on the ground that it increases the municipal fuel bill $150,000 a year, forwarded two legal petitions to an attorney in Washington with the request that they be filed in the federal court there. The attorney, Charles S. Rhyne, represents the Institute of Municipal Officers.

In the petitions the city related that before and since the arbitrary prices were established, interested parties repeatedly had asked for hearings, as required by the Guffey-Vinson act, but that the commission had refused. Therefore, the city asserted, the acts of the commission are null and void.

39 WIN PAROLES FROM 3 ILLINOIS PENITENTIARIES

Paroles were granted yesterday at Springfield to thirty-nine inmates of the three penitentiaries and two youths at the St. Charles School for Boys. Of those released eighteen are Cook county prisoners.

Twenty-four of the convicts whose cases were heard by the parole board committees during January were confined in the Pontiac reformatory. The list includes five to be released from Menard and ten from the Joliet-Stateville institutions.

Among those winning paroles is William F. Potel, a bond salesman, sentenced from Cook county in 1929 for thefts exceeding $300,000. The five consecutive terms to which he was sentenced would not have expired until 1991, but a series of paroles granted while he remained a prisoner on the other charges makes possible his release now.

Montell Payne of Fayette county and Luther Owens of McLean county, prisoners at Pontiac, were ordered turned over to immigration authorities for deportation. George W. Dorr and Saul Taylor, convicted in Chicago, are also to be deported.

PLAN A WEEKLY RADIO REVIEW OF BEST PROGRAMS

Idea Is One That May Spread to Other Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

For the person who thinks he is too busy all week to listen or just can't get to a loudspeaker when his favorites are scheduled, WJJD has a new plan which he may welcome. Station proposes to incorporate into a new Sunday afternoon review highlights from various programs of the week which have been preserved in recordings. A commentator will tie these snatches together with running explanatory remarks.

For example, a typical broadcast might include highlights of an interview with Joe Louis, the climax of a Father Coughlin talk, sentencing of a reckless driver by Judge Braude in Safety court, an interview with a prisoner in the county jail by Sherif Toman, presentation of awards for a prize winning contest, and so on.

Sounds like a good idea, one that we hope may spread to the major broadcasters. There are several magazines that have built an astonishing success on reprinting excerpts from a variety of published matter. Radio might wisely try something similar.

Radio's chief handicap is its evanescent and fleeting quality. And unfortunately too many program men have held to the idea that something once aired is dead and done for—despite the fact that even radio's most popular programs seldom attract as many as one-third of all the listeners tuned in at the time.

If some broadcaster could retrieve on a Saturday or Sunday evening highlights of a dozen or more of radio's favorite shows of the week—even in recorded form—he could certainly achieve a mighty audience.

To reflect on the past week a bit—we heard Fred Allen, missing Lawrence Tibbett, Deems Taylor, Kostelanetz, and Ben Bernie's show, which are on at the same time; caught Rudy Vallee, missed the March of Time, and Kate Smith; heard Toscanini and missed Richard Himber's Hit Parade, lent an ear to Jeanette MacDonald thereby passing up Jack Benny; tuned in on Radio theater's presentation of "The Green Light" and missed Fibber McGee and Hour of Charm; dialed in True or False and passed by the Contented hour; stayed with Public Hero, No. 1 on same station and missed the Henry Weber Concert revue. Attending Kay Kyser's première Monday evening forced Kyser, to forego Horace Heidt, Al Pearce, Charlie Butterworth, Walter O'Keefe and Co.

That's the way it goes every week. Some way ought to be found to conserve the juiciest offerings of the week, so that they may be heard at least in part at some other time.

There are plenty of answers why this can't be done. There's the advertising angle, for instance; the rights to artists and material. But sometime a way around these and other hurdles will be found—and it may be done.

Eddie Cantor is being released by his present gasoline sponsors so he can head a new show for the cigaret concern that now has Jack Oakie and Benny Goodman on CBS Tuesday nights. New Cantor show will be aired at 6:30 Monday nights, starting March 28. Oakie show will go off the air.

Everett Marshall, Opera Baritone, Divorced in Texas

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Everett Marshall, opera and radio baritone, was divorced today from Mrs. Carolina Segrera Marshall, former Cuban singer, who won a separation and $300 monthly allimony fro mhim in New York last December. Today's decree also added to Marshall's obligations, for the court ordered him to pay $60 a month toward the support of their daughter, 6 months old, who is with her mother.

Hospitals Get Rules to Stop Maternity Ward Epidemics

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, announced yesterday that rules for the conduct and operation of maternity wards have been distributed to all hospitals in the city. The rules are planned to eliminate spread of such diseases as epidemic diarrhea, which killed a number of babies two months ago. He said hospitals are also being inspected by the health department to determine whether they are following the rules.

SCHOOL BOARD GETS WINDFALL IN RENT RULING

A windfall for the board of education was seen yesterday in decisions of the Appellate court that boosted the 1925 valuations on three parcels of the board's loop property by more than $460,000. The lessees sought a reduction in rent, attacking the appraisals as having been too high, but according to the court's ruling they now owe the board $484,000 in back rent for the decade from 1925 to 1935.

Annual rental on the property is 6 per cent of the valuation with a new appraisal being made every ten years. Objecting to the 1925 evaluation, the lessees continued paying on the basis of that of 1915, which was considerably lower. Property involved is at 6 South State street, 16-18 South State street, and 20-22 South State street.

Snowless City Makes Ski Fan Want to Travel

BY JUDITH CASS.

SKI enthusiasts, kept at home in a snowless Chicago, listen avidly to tales of whiter fields brought back by fortunate week-end—or longer—skiers such as Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., the Henry Porters, the Robert S. Macdonalds, Dustin Grannis, and Alfred Langlois, who spent last week-end in Phelps, Wis.

Parents and friends of Dartmouth students, and especially the hundreds of young women who are invited to the Dartmouth Outing club's annual carnival, will read with appreciation descriptions of plans the club is making for its twenty-eighth carnival, to be held the week-end of Lincoln's birthday.

From Sun valley, from the Laurentians, even from far away Switzerland, postal cards and letters bring news of happy people sliding over beautiful white slopes. But here in Chicago the newly organized Snow Chase club mourns the lack of snow at its skiing territory in La Crosse, Wis. Its members wistfully wax their skis and oil their boots, and prepare to enjoy skiing thrills vicariously with forty minutes of colored skiing movies at a luncheon at the Palmer house tomorrow.

Dartmouth Plans a Gay Carnival.

The plans for the Dartmouth carnival are colorful and gay, as usual. The carnival will open on Friday night, the 11th, with a dramatic presentation, "Frost Fire," given by a group of skiers and skaters before a modernistic setting of ice and snow. Aerial fireworks and a musical extravaganza will accompany the program.

Every one there will make a point of watching the cross-country, downhill and slalom races between a Bavarian team of skiers and Dartmouth. Other sporting events will be a swimming and basketball meet with Princeton, a hocky game with Harvard, and the New Hampshire open speed skating championships.

Gilbert and Sullivan's "Gondoliers" will be given Friday and Saturday nights, the glee club will give a performance on Saturday, and numerous fraternity dances, tea-dances, and dinners will complete the gay program.

Of the hundreds of pretty young women who will go to Hanover, N. H., for the carnival, one will be crowned queen of the snows at the "Frost Fire" presentation.

James Cooney of Chicago is in charge of all races and competitive sports on the program. Other Chicagoans on the carnival committee include Julian Armstrong Jr., Thomas G. Antrim, William Spinney, Donald Stillman, John Ingersoll, Howard A. Hogg Jr., John F. Mercer, and William C. Chamberlin.

Plan Sports Week-end at Phelps, Wisconsin.

Long Lake lodge at Phelps will be crowded with skiers again this week-end. Mr. and Mrs. William S. Warfield of Winnetka, who have skied there on other occasions, left last night for the resort, accompanied by their five children and some other young people. Elmer F. Wieboldt, Elmer Jr., and about five of his school friends went north at the same time.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Kent Tenney, who live in Madison, Wis., will join tomorrow's train at Milwaukee, bound for a week-end's skiing at Phelps. Among the young people who left with the Warfields were Gordon Pirie, Barbara Ingersoll, and Louis Ware Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ware also traveled with the Warfields, whose children are Bill Jr., Ware, Jim, Dick, and Hildegard.

Mrs. Alf Engen, wife of the famous skier, will comment on the movies to be shown to the Snow Chase club tomorrow. The luncheon will start promptly at 12:30 o'clock, so that the men will not be away long from their business. The movies were taken at Sun valley and in other parts of the Rockies. Providing snow arrives, the club will arrange for a special week-end party at La Crosse later this month.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The fun begins when the bath is over. Then baby enjoys her own beauty set of cream, talcum and cotton each in handsome jars equipped with a mysterious squeaker that makes her forget that bit of soap in her eyes.

The beauty experts are getting baby minded and babies' mothers, awake now to the idea that being beautiful is easy if a girl is groomed to it, should be delighted. We can imagine that the woman of the future will be one who's never known a day of skin trouble since she was born.

One beauty set for the baby, brought out just recently by a specialist, will be the envy of all grown-up women. It's so beautiful, for one thing. And the cream and powder in it are so fine, for another. It's an ideal idea if there's a baby shower on your calendar and if you've a chubby little charmer in your own home you'll never be able to resist the temptation to buy it.

The set consists of a baby cream, a baby talcum and cotton, in perfectly beautiful, feather light plascon jars. The cream is particularly exciting. Very pure, of course, and very efficient in keeping the flower petal skin soothed and lubricated and beautified. It's a rich cream, but so blended that it disappears into the skin immediately, leaving no stickiness. The talc is fine and without perfume.

Talc, cream, and snowy cotton are sealed in their individual containers with cellophane; containers are either pink or blue, for either boys or girls.

We confess to being absolutely crazy about these containers. Their lines are perfect; so are the colors, and so is the composition of which they're made. But what we love best is their toy touch; each has a little button in the back of the jar. Press it and out comes a series of silly bird-like chirps! Babies think this is great fun. So do we!

Low Death Rate Is Reported by Infant Welfare

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The Infant Welfare society of Chicago reports that during 1937 almost all of the deaths among the society's infant charges occurred in the group of artificially fed babies.

In a report by Dr. Heyworth N. Sanford, medical director, at the society's 27th annual meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday, it was pointed out that the death rate among Infant Welfare society babies again reached the low level of 1935, with only 6.4 babies per 1,000. The infant mortality rate for the city was 37.5 per 1,000.

Pneumonia claimed more victims, as usual, than all the other causes of death. It is in the society's few artificially fed babies that the fault in immunity is found which leads to death, he said. He urged building up resistance and keeping babies away from adults with common colds.

Whooping cough caused 70 per cent of the deaths from contagious disease. Arrangements are being made with the board of health to inoculate this disease.

During 1937 the society's 18 stations cared for 1,299 expectant mothers, with 725 live births. Of this number there was only one maternal mortality, whereas the maternal deaths per 1,000 live births in Chicago in 1936 were 3.7.

A total of 9,051 infants, ranging from a few weeks to 2 years old, were cared for during the year, and 3,274 pre-school children. These children and babies consumed 22,306 pints of cod liver oil distributed by nutritionists of the society.

In the absence of the president, Philip D. Armour, who was reëlected with the other officers, Lucius Teter, chairman, gave his report. Mr. Armour is in Passavant hospital following a knee operation.

Good Morning!

We've been having a good many inquiries lately about Jackie Cooper. Where was he? How was he? When would he appear in another picture?

Well, here he is on the Garrick screen—and doing very nicely, thank you!

I can't say much for the story Jackie drew, nor did I care for the work of all the featured adults in the cast nor the girl, Maureen O'Connor, whom the hero is crazy about. But Jackie and the male adolescents who play his pals and enemies are all to the good.

Backgrounds are a city's congested tenement districts. . . . Main object is to show how a kid whose ambition is to grow up to be a ward leader—or some big shot who doesn't have to work—finds himself. . . .

Conditions in his home are sordid. The bickering of a slatternly and discouraged mother and a lazy but good-hearted father is no fireside lure. . . . Chuck and his gang run the streets, fight with rival roughnecks and give all promise of growing up into undesirable citizens.

But the efforts of a kind young district doctor and a Park avenue girl who goes in for settlement work prove not fruitless. Chuck joins the navy and the film ends with a nice, clean boy bidding a nice, clean girl—for "Miss Park Avenue" has put Chuck's Nora in a private school—good-by. . . .

Some of the episodes are sickeningly saccharine. Much of the acting is forced and a lot of it is poor. [A shining exception is the work of Robert Emmett O'Connor as Chuck's patrolman pal.] BUT—

Young Jackie Cooper, thinner, taller, and very sure of himself, is "THERE"—and make no mistake about that!

See you soon.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Take the Stand, Jim Cagney.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.

Q.—You hail from New York, don't you, Jim?

James Cagney talks of career.

A.—Yes. I was born on Avenue D and 8th street, on the lower east side, but the family moved to Yorkville when I was a kid, and I've always considered that as my home section. Paul Berlenbach came from there, as did Joe Judge, who used to play a lot of first base for the Washington Senators.

Q.—How did you get into this business?

A.—I did a little bit of everything. Best acting I ever did was as a kid in Wall street. We had to signal from the street with our fingers to the brokers to give them prices. I worked there six months. But I actually started on the stage in vaudeville.

Q.—A song and dance act?

A.—My first job was in an act in which I had to dress like a girl. When it played Yorkville—Loew's 86th Street theater—I was afraid to walk out on the stage. It's funny the way things hook up—the producer of that vaudeville act was Phil Dunning.

Q.—What was funny about that?

A.—Later he was to produce "Broadway."

Q.—I didn't know you were in that show, Jim.

A.—Nobody did. You see, I was picked to play the lead in the London company. The night we were to sail for London I was notified that I'd been canceled out of the cast. By the terms of the Equity contract Dunning had to pay my salary for the run of the play, but to protect the producer there is a clause that in such an event the actor must do whatever job the producer assigns. As a result, for six months, in New York, I reported at the Broadhurst and did a walk-on bit in one of the crowd scenes.

Q.—But you appeared on Broadway in some musical comedies, didn't you?

A.—I was a chorus boy in "Pitter Pat." Allen Jenkins and I both were chorus boys in that one. After "Broadway" came "Penny Arcade" with Joan Blondell. That was the show which graduated both of us to Hollywood. Bill Grady signed us with Warner's for three weeks at $500 a week.

Q.—That was big dough for you then?

A.—I'll say it was. When I signed I thought to myself, "Even if you flop, this will be enough to live on for a year." After the three weeks they signed me to another three weeker, and I was delighted. That meant I could live comfortably for TWO years.

Q.—Then along came "Public Enemy" and stardom?

A.—If ever there was an accident that picture offered concrete evidence of it. Another actor was supposed to get the part I played, and I was slated for a secondary rôle. In the scramble I got the good part and he got the weaker part. That's how stars are born, Edward—it's sort of a hit or miss proposition. It's always amusing to me to hear actors explain how they became movie stars, because nine chances out of ten it was nothing but a lucky accident. For the same reason I've never believed that movie companies could claim credit for developing a star, but all of them do.

Q.—That was a swell picture.

A.—This will hand you a laugh. On my last trip to New York I was asked to speak at one of those film organizations, you know, the groups that show those old pictures. They showed "Public Enemy," and I've never squirmed so much in all my life. We made that in 1931, only about seven years ago, but the movie technique since then has gained speed and pace. As a result I sat there, my face burning, and watched myself "hamming" up scenes. The camera would prolong each closeup by two or three seconds as it dollied up or dollied back. It was incredible in view of what is done today. I don't often blush, but when the lights went up, I was as red as a beet.

Q.—You've had a lot of thrills in this business?

A.—The greatest I've ever had happened outside the business. In New York, one night, I went up to Dorothy Parker's apartment, near East 86th street. Here on the lots and waterfront where all my gang had played as kids in Yorkville were these magnificent apartment houses. I don't know anything that ever has stirred me so deeply as that, Ed. That's a great city—New York.

Q.—You're Irish, of course, with that name and face?

A.—Faith and I am that. There are Sullivans in the family, on my mother's side. One thing I want to do is to visit Ireland while I'm young enough to enjoy it. That must be an amazing place. Joel Sayre sent me a clipping from a Dublin paper. It was a letter to the editor. One of the subscribers, tongue in cheek, wanted to know what sort of times were these when a law-abiding man couldn't get to sleep, what with the "little people" and the Leprechauns pounding on his doors and dancing on the window sills.

Q.—What did the Dublin editor answer?

A.—He said that the subscriber should know that the "little people" were asking only for a drop of whisky to warm themselves on chill nights. Any country, in this day and age, which has retained that imagination and humor, must be a great place.

Q.—Everything is okay now at Warner's, Jim?

A.—Yes. The tension is out of the air for the first time, and we're one big happy family, to coin a phrase. Today, at 38, I think that I'm finally going to do the things I've always wanted to do.

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Poco St. Vrain arrives in the western town of Christian City, escaping a pursuing troop of cavalry. There Two-Way Hornbeck approaches him with a scheme. Abe McCandless, who framed Poco and made an outlaw of him, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents sent to meet at the mine and bring down the gold are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents, Jake Finger, whose papers he has, and get the gold. At the mountain camp Poco finds Espey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. They dare not give each other away to Shayne, the mine manager, and his lovely daughter, Kate. On their way down the mountain with the gold Cardowan crowds Poco off the cliff and leaves him for dead. Then Cardowan joins forces with Two-Way. They double-cross their own men, murder two of them, and take refuge in an army fort, posing as two prospectors pursued by Poco St. Vrain. Meanwhile Kate helps rescue Poco from the bottom of the cliff. He confesses his real identity. Poco insists he will recover the gold to save her father from blame.

INSTALMENT XVI.

ON TRAIL OF HIS ENEMIES.

It was light enough now so that Poco could pick up the tracks of the cavalcade that preceded him. He traveled fast.

Noon found him at the second camp of Two-Way and Cardowan, and two fresh graves pointed to something he could not immediately understand. But investigation showed him that there had been turmoil here, and that every one did not leave at the same time. But, strangely enough, they all took the same route.

By midafternoon he was atop the rise that looked down on the buildings of the concessionaires, who were not allowed to raise their establishments on military ground. He knew the place, knew Joe Hannagan who ran the saloon. He could see some blue coated troopers down there, and remembering his tangle with the commandant at Fort Benjamin decided it would be wise not to show himself too openly.

The ridge swung around in a crescent, one end of which almost touched the cluster of buildings in back of the Hannigan's frame saloon. Dropping back over the ridge, Poco rode the crescent to its end. When finally it flattened out his horse was in a clump of screening cottonwoods. He dismounted and walked through the back lot.

Joe Hannigan had two rooms built on the rear and one side of his saloon, and it was for there Poco headed. The door was unlocked. Stepping inside he almost bumped into a Mexican woman, who was cleaning up the bedroom.

She looked at him suspiciously.

"Get Joe," he said.

The woman was used to this kind of visit, and she went out through the door that led to the small kitchen and through another that let on the rear of the saloon.

In a moment a man stepped through the door to the bedroom. He was in shirtsleeves, fat, baldheaded, with wary small eyes. He was wiping his hands on a soiled apron, but when he looked around the room and his glance fell on Poco the movement of his hands died. Poco observed his slack jaw, which stayed that way only a second. Then Joe turned around and locked the door.

Poco said dryly, "It's no stickup. Why the locked door?"

"What's the matter, did they lock you out of the fort?" asked Joe.

Poco scowled. "I don't get it."

"You don't know a bunch of troopers are combing the hills for you?"

"Still?" Poco said. "They've got a long memory."

"You expect to bring a bunch of hardcases up and try to take the fort in the middle of the night and have them forget it by morning?"

Poco said, "Slow down and say that again."

Joe repeated himself, adding. "You oughta had more sense than that, Poco. Why did you have to chase those two jaspers that way?"

"What two jaspers?"

"Them prospectors with their gold. You might of known you'd lose it for good if they reached there. Why the hell did you have to shoot up the place? Them soldiers don't forget."

Suddenly Poco understood. Two-Way and Cardowan had stolen the dust from their own men, run for the fort, and then threw the blame on Poco so that the troopers would drive the two gangs back into the hills. He had his mouth open to explain, but he saw it was unnecessary. Instead he said, "Where are they now, these prospectors?"

Joe shook his head. "I oughtn't to tell you. You never used to do things like that, Poco. Leave 'em be."

"You will tell me, though," Poco said quietly.

Joe nodded in resigned agreement. "Yeah. For five years I been tellin' you things that could get me hung higher'n a kite."

"Where are they?"

Joe shrugged. "The captain sent a guard along with them to Rincon this morning."

"A guard?" Poco repeated slowly. If it had been any one else but Two-Way who had done this Poco would not have believed it, but this had the unmistakable mark of Two-Way's brainwork—or Cardowan's.

Poco lounged erect. "Some day, Joe," he said, smiling a little, "the army will buy you drinks to keep you from telling what suckers they are."

He left Hannigan standing there scowling, wondering, too.

After a night and a half day in the saddle, hours which had taken him over the San Jons, skirting the pass, using every shortcut he knew in high country, Poco dismounted by the trough at the livery stable in Rincon.

The Maricopa saloon lay across the way, a big two-story affair that dominated the other buildings along the dusty street. Poco, scanning the single avenue, noted and remembered that the small shack on the cross street ahead was probably the sherif's office, because a long doby building with barred windows abutted it.

He swung under the tie rail, then paused to let a half dozen horsemen ride by him. Poco observed them carelessly, until his attention was yanked up by the figure of Abe McCandless, who was just now swinging into the tie rail in front of the Maricopa.

For one brief moment he contemplated with a kind of sardonic relish what would happen when Two-Way and Cardowan drifted into this. He knew now that Kate Shayne had not reached McCandless, and that McCandless would have no idea of what had happened upon the mountain. In his incessant traveling from ranch to ranch, from one vast holding to another, McCandless would ride the legs off a horse in a week. And because he was always moving, and because Poco was lucky and Kate Shayne generous, this whole thing could come to a head here tonight—only it wouldn't. The gold was to be returned to Kate, not McCandless.

Poco waited until McCandless was dismounted and on the walk, and then he called sharply: "Mac!"

Big Abe turned ponderously as did most of his men. Poco started across the street saying clearly. "Don't go in there. I'm going in. I don't want to look at you."

"Is this it?" Mac asked quietly again.

Poco stopped and confronted them. "Not yet, Mac," Poco said gently. "I won't kill you now."

Mac nodded, much as he might have received any news of his business. Only his eyes betrayed him, his eyes and the sweat that was beading his forehead.

Poco laughed softly, jeeringly at him. "You've caught me with only one gun, Mac. You and your gunnies make your play, why don't you?"

McCandless only shook his head.

Poco looked coolly at the lot of them, then shouldered through the batwing doors.

McCandless watched the door long after he had entered.

The men shifted uneasily, waiting for word from McCandless. Slowly McCandless turned, his eyes dreamy, his face utterly grim.

"Wait for me at the other saloon," he said curtly.

Use Discretion About the Question of Hair Dyeing

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It is interesting to note how, with the common adoption of all the other tricks and lures in the attempt to defeat father time, a great many women approach the hair coloring question with the same old fears and prejudices of generations ago. This is not without a reason, I know, because makeup, madame's funny hats and many other things adopted in the cause of youth extension can be removed promptly if found unsatisfactory, whereas hair coloring remains for a while, at least.

Scarcely a day goes by but the question of whether to dye or leave hair alone is put to us. Our feeling is that of one asked advice about choosing a husband. The responsibility must be sent right back on the questioner. There are good hair coloring jobs, just as there is good husband material floating around, but how can we know what wisdom the interviewer will bring to bear?

Hair coloring can be and is being done with success, but it is work that calls for particular skill, the best of professional training. If one cannot afford the highest type of work [it necessarily calls for some outlay of expense, because the work well done requires time, care and training] we feel that it is better to forego the temptation to dye and concentrate on exquisite grooming of the hair "as is." Once the hair is touched up or colored, it means repeated intervals of treatment every six weeks or two months.

However, as said, it is up to the individual herself to make the fatal decision. If she can afford the luxury, and it is a case of premature fading or of gray hairs becoming a business handicap, go ahead with the idea, but be as careful about whom you trust with the locks as you would be were it your appendix that was being committed to outsiders' hands.

There is this to gray hair today. It never before has been made into the clever, distinguished asset it now is known to be. You can make it a gorgeous asset, but it is going to call for concentration and exquisite grooming always, clever coiffure arrangement and smart dress color schemes to highlight it.

Moody President Urges More Hell in Sermons

More hell in sermons was advocated by Dr. Will H. Houghton, president of Moody Bible institute, at the institute's thirty-second Founders' week conference yesterday. Dr. Houghton said that good old-fashioned brimstone preaching is just the thing to arouse people who are buried in materialism. "Hell is no greater mystery than starving children and wars," said Dr. Houghton. "Some say eternal punishment is far out of proportion for a mere forty or fifty years of earthly living in sin. Certainly it is, but from the angle of time it does not matter how many minutes it takes to commit murder when life imprisonment is the penalty."

Paulette Goddard Signs Contract with Selznick

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Paulette Goddard, variously reported as the fiancée or wife of Charles Chaplin, signed a long term contract today with the David O. Zelznick studio. The salary was not disclosed and the studio said although several stories were being considered for her, none had been selected. Miss Goddard, under contract to Chaplin for two years, appeared in only one Chaplin film, "Modern Times."

U. of C. Reports a Sharp Decline in Available Jobs

The business recession has greatly reduced job opportunities of University of Chicago students and graduates, Robert Woellner, executive secretary of the board of vocational guidance, said yesterday. Only one-quarter of the usual number of jobs are available for graduates and many alumni who were placed last June are back on the waiting list. Part time jobs for students are off 30 per cent.

delegates from the Lake Forest Horse Show association.

Mr. Dick is the newly elected president of the Lake Forest association, succeeding Donald B. Douglas, who resigned after many successful seasons as president and has become a director and a member of the executive committee. John T. Pirie Jr. is the new vice president; Laurance H. Armour is treasurer; William B. McIlvaine Jr. is the secretary, and Mr. Morse is his assistant. William A. P. Pullman and C. Groverman Ellis are serving with Mr. Douglas on the executive committee.

The annual horse show always occasions much entertaining in Lake Forest, so the last week-end in June is certain to be one of the gayest of the summer on the north shore.

Recall Visit of Miss Peggy Sykes.

The Lake Forest friends of Miss Peggy Sykes of New York were interested to learn of her engagement to Walter P. Chrysler Jr. Miss Sykes visited here two years ago. Her hostess at that time, Mrs. William R. Behanna, who then was Mrs. Winthrop Smith, received a telegram Sunday from Miss Sykes telling of the engagement.

Mrs. Behanna also heard form Miss Sykes that she and Mr. Chrysler may visit Chicago in the spring. On Miss Sykes' last visit she and her hostess visited Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Proxmire at their summer home in Desbarats. Miss Sykes and Mrs. Hugh M. Johnston [Deborah Butler] were classmates at the Ethel Walker school. Miss Adele Proxmire is at Sarah Lawrence college.

Nursing Council to Meet Monday.

The Central Council for Nursing Education will give a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock next Monday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Robert E. At the speaker's table with Mr. Neff will be Mrs. A. C. Backmeyer, new chairman of the council; Mrs. Ernest E. Irons, the last chairman; Mrs. David Wilson Graham, the honorary chairman; Dr. Backmeyer, Miss Nellie Hawkinson, Dr. Herman Bundesen, Dr. George Post, Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. John T. Mason, Charles S. Schweppe, Dr. Irwin Abel, and Mrs. Ernest Meyers, among others.

It has become a tradition for members of the Service club to act as ushers at council luncheons. Miss Lucia Dixon, a niece of Mrs. Walker, is in charge of the six or eight young women who will usher on Monday.

Frank Peyraud Has New Show of Landscapes

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of recent landscapes by Frank C. Peyraud has opened in the O'Brien galleries, 820 North Michigan avenue, to continue to March 1. Peyraud has long been famous for his beautiful work in Skokie valley and throughout the northwest. His landscapes are brilliant, fluent, and alive. Summer is a favorite season with him, though autumn runs it a close second.

In the present show there is a particularly lovely painting of summer, rather a large canvas with stunning trees and a friendly blue sky in which the soft feathering of white clouds scarcely breaks the blue, and an exquisite, rich painting of fall. The coral red of the trees in this last is like a flame, soft, warm, and impetuous.

In the Katharine Kuh gallery, Diana Court building, there is at present an interesting exhibit of drawings by Archipenko, with a few pieces of sculpture. The drawings are running sketches for future sculpture groups. Many of them are sensitive in feeling; a few possess charm.

The loveliest thing in the gallery is the slender, idealized figure of a woman, slim lines from feet to headless throat, a beautifully modeled figure. This was purchased almost as soon as it entered the show and will stand on a black base in a large reception hall, where it should be a stunning note in the decor of the room.

In the Chicago Artists' Group gallery, Michigan avenue at Erie street, there is now on view an exhibit of work by Frances Foy, Charles Biesel, and Gustaf Dalstrom, among others. The exhibitions vary here in kind and coloring, but the current show is "safe" and includes several paintings of distinct merit.

Miss Mary Ward is the director of the gallery and is confident that those paintings hanging there now are of the popular variety.

The Richard Bach collection of rugs and carpets that has recently been on exhibit in the Metropolitan museum in New York is being shown in the rug gallery at Marshall Field & Co. It will remain on view through February.

Slender Silhouette for Daytime Marks Chanel's Spring Styles

PARIS, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Skirts reaching just to the calf of the leg and a daytime silhouette that was slender and fitted at the waist were featured today by Chanel in a spring fashion opening.

A series of tailored suits with nipped in waists was presented.

Long coats of wool and silk were shown with contrasting printed dresses and afternoon ensembles with unlined, matching jackets.

The evening mode was strongly Victorian, with fitted bone princess bodices and off-the-shoulders decolletage.

Skirts in the main were puffed out from the hips or knees. Some evening gowns were slender with a soft front fullness.

Daytime colors were black, navy, black and white, navy and white, brown, beige, wine, green, and orange.

Evening colors were black, white, brown, jade, flesh, flame, gladiola, pink, bright red, light blue, lavender, and yellow.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Surprisingly enough, some of the worst errors seen at the bridge table occur when there are only three or four cards left in each hand. At this stage the defenders and the declarer should have a pretty good idea of suit distributions and, in many cases, the position of key cards. Yet time and again in the dummy's seat I have been getting ready to deliver glowing compliments to my partner, the declarer, for his masterful technique, only to have the speech frozen on my lips by some outlandish play at the tenth or eleventh trick. That was my experience on the following hand, which occurred in a recent duplicate game.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

South, it will be noted, opened with the prepared bid of one spade so that he would have a comfortable two diamond rebid if I should embarrass him by a response of two clubs or one no trump. As the responding hand, however, I was able to make a bid that would express my holding without involving me in further bidding. My hand was not quite worth two clubs, yet was too strong for one no trump, hence my in-between single raise.

West, for reasons best known to himself, opened the club ace. Probably taken aback at dummy's unexpected club strength, he then made the good shift to the heart king, following this with a second heart lead. East won, cashed a third heart trick, and led a fourth round, which placed declarer in a highly embarrassing position. After long study he made what should have turned out to be a very happy guess. He ruffed with the spade jack. West, who had discarded one club on the third heart, overruffed and returned a club. Declarer won with the jack and cashed the king, discarding a diamond, and then took the diamond finesse to the queen. It held and the ace was cashed, East's king falling.

Now declarer was in a position to bring home his two spade contract [which would have given us a good match-point score], but his foot slipped. Obviously, on the hope that he would find the spade ten underneath the queen-9, he led his remaining diamond and, when West covered, ruffed with dummy's nine spot. It held, but this did us little good, since East still had to be given a trump for the setting trick.

Since declarer's play was predicated on West's holding the spade ten and since, obviously, the rest of the tricks could not be taken if East had four trumps at this stage, it should have been the simplest thing in the world for declarer to lay down the spade ace and then play a low spade to the queen. If it developed that declarer's hope regarding the ten spot was fulfilled the nine would draw East's last trump and the club queen would account for the eighth and fulfilling trick.

Proper Rest Helps Child Resist Colds

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Now come the sunless months. Yes, I know the sun comes out, but it hasn't the health virtue that it has in summer. And besides, if you live in a city the smoke and fumes in the air block much of the sunlight. So in this series of articles, written to help you find out why your child's school work is poor, I want to put in a word right here on the subject of colds, and of the child who may not be chronically tired but seems to be having a "tired spell."

Yesterday was devoted to replanning the day of the school child whose work is suffering because he is always fatigued. Today I want to suggest that during these next two or three months you guard against occasional fatigue. Or rather, that when you notice your child showing signs of more than normal end-of-the-day tiredness you see that he or she gets in a big whack of extra rest and even some extra food. This builds up resistance to colds, and, of course, makes him more fit mentally, and more poised in behavior.

The other suggestion I want to offer is not only for health but for your child's school efficiency, since that is our point this week.

Bend over backward in the matter of colds. Never mind individual attendance records. Never mind class attendance records, which sometimes very wrongly cause pressure to be brought to bear on children.

If your child gets up some morning looking wan and listless; if he goes to bed at night with a sniffle and a scratch in his throat, keep him home and even in bed the next day. It may check a cold completely, or else make it lighter than it would otherwise be.

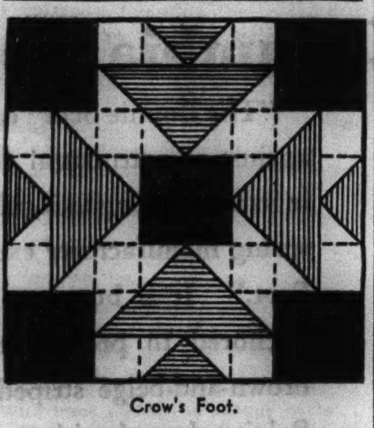
Or suppose he comes down hard and suddenly with a cold. Don't let him go back to school until he is well over it. This prevents a relapse, or one of those long drawn out coughs or dragged down spells. After an illness school work often suffers for weeks because a child in low physical condition is allowed to go back too soon.

Another cause of poor school work will be discussed tomorrow.

A new booklet called "Talks to Teachers" or "The Child in School," is in preparation. The postage for it is 6 cents with your large, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

"Crow's Foot" Is Early American Quilt Pattern



Crow's Foot.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Crow's Foot" is one of the oldest of quaint early American quilt creations, and still enjoys wide popularity. Gifted with vivid imaginations, the clever colonial women could readily see footprints of a crow in this intriguing pieced design. When it first was pieced the design offered a special appeal because each block could be done in a different color, thereby utilizing all surplus pieces in the scrap bag, a pleasure to thrifty housewives. This "Crow's Foot" design is large, measuring 16 inches square. The entire coverlet is composed of pieced blocks, forming an all-over design. Surrounded by a five inch border and a one-half inch bias binding, the quilt has over-all dimensions of 90 by 106 inches.

Red, Chapped Rough Hands Healed Overnight

There is one sure way that has never failed to heal rough red chapped hands. The way Doctors, Dentists and Nurses do—and every one knows how important it is for them to keep their hands in good condition.

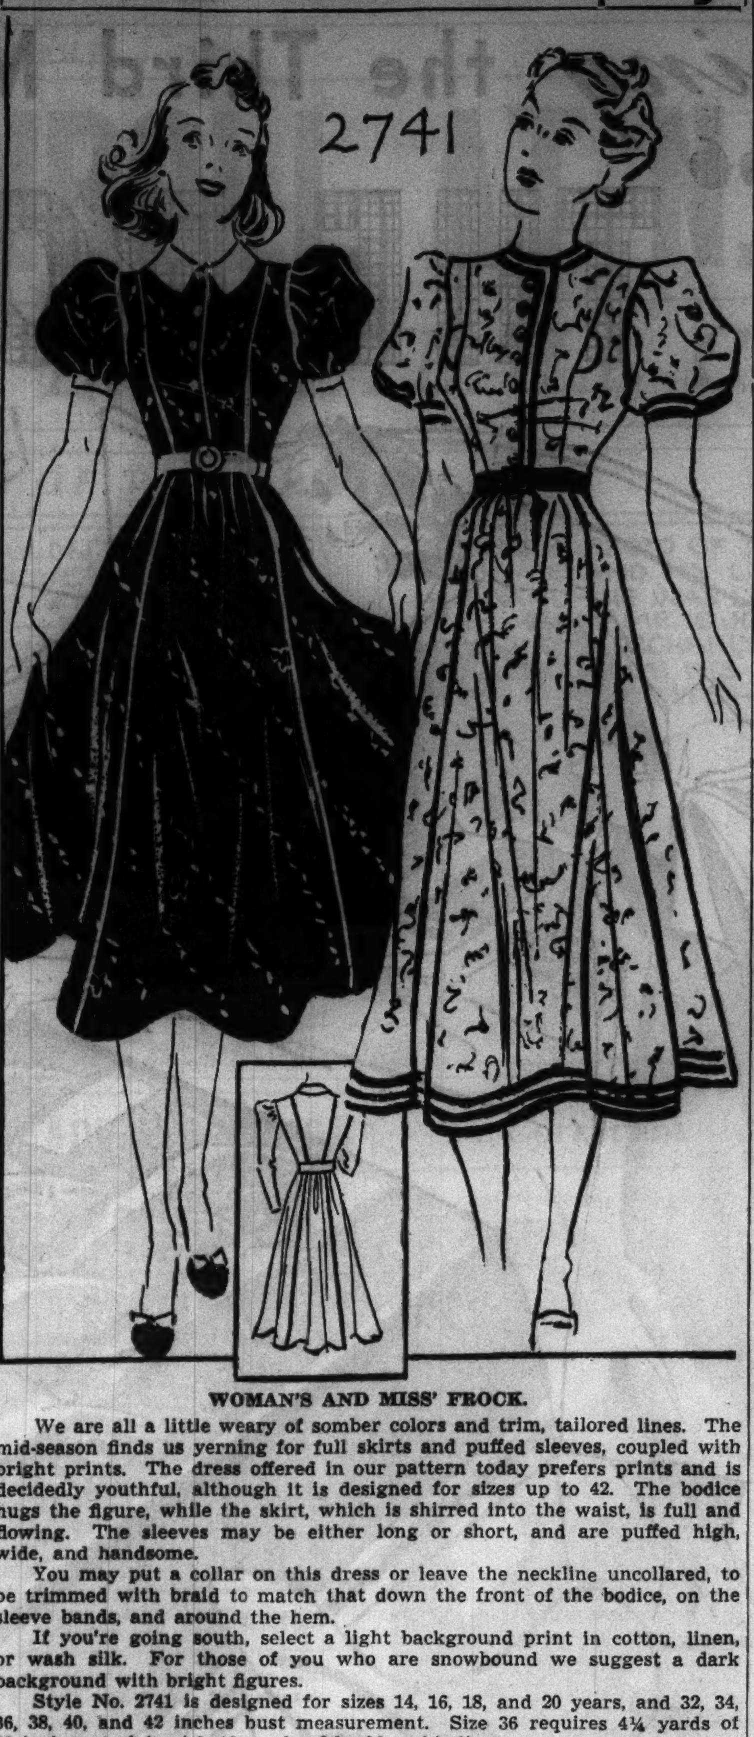
Hands get chapped, rough and red when essential skin elements are destroyed by harsh treatment and bad weather. The way, then, to heal them and to make them soft and white, is to replace these essential skin elements. To do this, get Mystic cream from any druggist or department store. Mystic cream supplies everything your skin needs to make it soft, smooth and white.

Apply Mystic cream at night before retiring. It is absorbed almost instantly. Mystic cream is not the least bit sticky or greasy, and it won't stain. Results are quick and sure. In most cases, hands are healed overnight.

No work will be too harsh. Bad weather won't bother you. You will always have soft, smooth, lovely hands if you get the habit of using Mystic cream.

This simple treatment never fails.

Frivolous Model for Spring



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

We are all a little weary of somber colors and trim, tailored lines. The mid-season finds us yearning for full skirts and puffed sleeves, coupled with bright prints. The dress offered in our pattern today prefers prints and is decidedly youthful, although it is designed for sizes up to 42. The bodice hugs the figure, while the skirt, which is shirred into the waist, is full and flowing. The sleeves may be either long or short, and are puffed high, wide, and handsome.

You may put a collar on this dress or leave the neckline uncollared, to be trimmed with braid to match that down the front of the bodice, on the sleeve bands, and around the hem.

If you're going south, select a light background print in cotton, linen, or wash silk. For those of you who are snowbound we suggest a dark background with bright figures.

Style No. 2741 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 12 yards of braid or binding.

Smart Designs Take Inches Off the New Shoes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The snappiest new footgear in town! Gleaming black patent lether, short vamped finds ready for rain, shine, or winter weather; smart streamlines that slice inches from the foot even though you wear sevens and eights. High heels, low cut outlines over the instep and the short toes or vamps make them beguilingly feminine and young. Perky bows, also of the shiny lether, make them even shorter.

Perforated patent lether keeps them air conditioned and adds a bit to their smartness. Bags to match complete the ensemble idea. Such patent lether loot is ideal for early spring and sloppy weather wear. You can keep immaculate with the least possible exertion with such easy to clean footnotes.

Worn with the new, brightly colored hosiery and with new hats trimmed with the same lether, the dullest suit or coat assumes a new and festive manner, a cure for a limp morale.

Also new and with the same amount of gayety and youth are the short vamped models in light weight suede, with dull black as spotlight fashion. These come with open toes, but the openings are under control and exposure is limited. Straps are crossed and the straps are wider than before. Heels are high and the vamps are short and then trimmed with bows.

Some of the new arrivals combine the dull suede with contrast of patent lether or fabric. If you have a yen for short vamps this is the time to go shopping.

Well, here it is almost lunch time and you've been so busy washing the woodwork and putting up fresh curtains that you've forgotten the hungry ones soon to burst through yonder doorway fairly howling for hot food.

This needn't cause concern if you are one who keeps canned vegetables and soups at hand for just such forgetful hours. In a few minutes, with almost no effort at all, a steaming soup can be prepared. Combinations of canned soups are growing in popularity. Almost any two or three canned soups will combine well, making possible dozens of varieties of hot luncheon dishes. These are only a few suggestions of what may be done with canned vegetables and canned soups, plus milk, of course.

Cream of Pea and Chicken Soup.

[Serves Five.]

1 No. 2 can peas
1 chicken bouillon cube
3½ cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon sugar

Heat peas in their liquid for five minutes. Drain, saving liquid. Dissolve chicken bouillon cube in liquid and put peas through ricer or coarse strainer. Add purée and bouillon to heated milk. Add butter, salt, and sugar, and heat thoroughly before serving.

Crabmeat Bisque.

[Serves Five.]

1 10½ ounce can tomato soup
1 10½ ounce can pea soup
1½ cups milk and cream
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup flaked crabmeat

Combine all ingredients and heat thoroughly.

New Orleans Bisque.

[Serves Six.]

1 can condensed clam chowder
1 can condensed chicken gumbo soup
2 cans milk [measured in soup can]

Heat the combination to the boiling point and serve.

Cream of Asparagus Soup.

[Serves Six.]

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
2 cups asparagus purée
Salt, pepper, celery salt

Melt butter and add flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thickened. Add puréed canned or fresh cooked asparagus and season with salt, pepper, and a little celery salt. Serve hot.

Canned Soup Chowder.

[Serves Three.]

1 can condensed vegetable soup
1 can condensed pea soup
1 can milk

Measure milk in one of the emptied soup cans. Combine the soups and milk and heat thoroughly.

Cheese and Celery Soup.

[Serves Three.]

1 10½ ounce can celery soup
1 can milk [measure with soup can]
½ cup sliced pimiento cheese
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon grated onion [optional]

Heat ingredients in the top of a double boiler until cheese is melted, stirring to blend. Serve hot.

Last April we introduced "The Royal Scot," last August "The Queen o' Scots"—and both mattresses have been proved superior by use in thousands of homes. Now we round out our "royal family" with "The Bonnie Scot," made to our very particular specifications by the Columbia Feather Company, the same manufacturer who gave you "The Royal Scot" and "The Queen o' Scots." We've watched this mattress being made. It has been constructed to meet highest quality and comfort standards and is a worthy addition to our "royal family."

"The Bonnie Scot" carries a five year guarantee against any structural defects—such is our faith in its innerspring unit, which was made by a famous spring manufacturer exclusively for "The Bonnie Scot." It is buoyant, easy to handle, securely anchored to prevent noise or sagging and its brown-and-beige striped ticking is of top-quality Belgian damask with a rayon figure. PRO BASEBALL AGREEMENT IS CAUSE OF BAN

Dehner Is Reported Out on Grade.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Western conference faculty committee today declared Louis Boudreau, captain of the University of Illinois basketball team and third baseman on the baseball team, ineligible for athletic competition. The action was taken because the Cleveland Indian baseball team had been remitting money monthly to Boudreau's mother in return for the athlete's verbal agreement that he would join the club after graduation.

The faculty committee's ruling provided that Boudreau might be reinstated for competition during the next school year if he sever connections with professional athletics.

In response to the promise of reinstatement next fall Boudreau directed the Cleveland club to stop remittance to his mother, who lives in Harvey, Ill. Being a junior, he has another year of competition.

Dehner Reported Out, Too.

News of Boudreau's ineligibility stunned the campus. The students and coaches were further perturbed by a report that Pick Dehner, Illini center, who is leading all conference basketball players in scoring, has been declared ineligible because of scholastic difficulties. It was reported that he failed to pass one course in the semester which has just ended.

Meeting with Coach Mills and his teammates this afternoon, Boudreau expressed regret that he had become involved with the professional club and offered to help the team in any way possible. It is probable that he will play with the freshmen against the varsity in scrimmages.

Preparing the Illini to resume competition against Purdue at Lafayette next Monday, Coach Mills cast about to find a substitute for Boudreau.

A Star at Thornton.

Boudreau first gained fame on the Thornton Township High school basketball team at Harvey, Ill. Thornton was state champion in 1933 and runner-up in 1934 and 1935.

As a sophomore forward Boudreau was an efficient member of the Illinois team that tied Minnesota for the championship last year, winning ten and losing two Big Ten games.

Boudreau ranked ninth in Big Ten scoring last year with 93 points. He is tied for ninth with 44 points this season.

On the baseball diamond Boudreau made good as a third baseman and was a factor in the winning of the Big Ten championship. He was one of the leading batters and made only three errors in the conference season.

GRIFFITH RAPS CLUBS

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics in the Western conference, yesterday said the major leagues had no agreement with the colleges of America not to entice or sign prospective stars before their graduation. The National Professional Football league does have such an agreement in regard to football stars.

"I wish the major leaguers could see their way clear to quit tampering with college players until their college careers are finished," he said.

"We have figured it out that it costs the colleges of America a quarter of a million dollars to support college baseball, which usually is a losing venture. Yet the major leagues are trying to take our players away, and doing other things that disqualify the boy to participate in his favorite athletics at college. It is a very bad situation.

No Signed Agreement.

"The major league clubs do not enter into any signed agreement with the boys because they are under age, but usually deal with their parents, as was the reported case of the Cleveland club and Boudreau, the Illinois basketball player."

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, said he had no knowledge of the situation, because no contracts had been filed with his office.

William Harridge, president of the American league said: "I don't know anything about it. Any comments would need to come from the Cleveland club."

IOWA LOSES FOUR

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Announcement of the ineligibility of four basketball players because of scholastic difficulty dealt University of Iowa basketball hopes a heavy blow today.

Athletic Director E. G. Schroeder said those who will be lost for the remainder of the semester are Dick Evans, Floyd Deheer, and Kenneth Bastian, all centers. Lawrence Beneltone, sophomore guard, will be ineligible until he makes up incompletes in two courses, Schroeder said.

BULLETIN.

The American team of Walthour and Crossley stole two laps early this morning to take the lead in the six day bike race at the Coliseum. The German team of Kilian and Vopel was in second place a lap ahead of Audy and Buhler and Ottevaere and Huertgen, who were tied for third.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Last night was German night in the six day bicycle race at the Coliseum and, however amazing the coincidence may seem, those two sterling Teuton athletes, Gustave Kilian and Heinz Vopel came out of the frenzied pre-midnight wheeling in first place.

The burghers of Chicago's Little Germany came out in such force to honor Gustave and Heinz that the largest crowd of the week—nearly 7,500—stayed well into the morning hours. Mutter and vater and all the kinder were there from Clybourn avenue, from Lincoln avenue, and from North avenue. A picnic spirit prevailed and Kilian and Vopel showed their appreciation by their fanciest riding of the race.

Pressure Is On.

As it was, the pressure on Gus and Heinz, who are out for their tenth successive victory and a world record, was such that they probably would have had to spin their spokes just as rapidly if it had been Hindu night.

They entered the evening's riding two laps back of Cecil Yates of Chicago and Piet Van Kempen of Holland. Along about 9:30, by dint of extending themselves, they created a five-way mileage tie with the Yates-Van Kempen, Walthour-Crossley, Audy-Buhler, and Ottevaere-Huertgen duets, but were still trailing Cecil and Piet in sprint points.

Just before the 10:30 sprints local German officials presented the two German riders with a hamper of posies. These had such a tonic effect on the young men that they dashed out and arranged a two way tie for themselves with Van Kempen and Yates. Ten minutes later they were off in front all alone, a lap in front of the four teams with which they had been deadlocked an hour before.

And Then the Climax.

The climax of the evening was reached in the second of the 10:30 sprints, when a case of beer imported from Dortmund, Germany, home town of Kilian and Vopel, was offered to the winner. From the early jockeying for position it seemed that Al Crossley or Henri Le Page would run off with the lager. Then Vopel came out of nowhere and won so easily that he could have disposed of two flagons of the brew before the field caught him.

A new team, composed of Freddie Zach of Switzerland and Reggie Fielding of England, was formed at midnight. Willie Vroomen, Zach's original partner, withdrew from the race early in the evening, and later Fielding's mate, Harold McNauwens, dropped out.

Results of 2:00 a. m. sprints:

1—Vopel, Saetta, Van Kempen, Buhler.
2—Crossley, Yates, Huertgen, Audy.
3—Van Kempen, Walthour, Vopel, Buhler.
4—Gruber, Crossley, Spencer, Rodak.
5—Zach, Walthour, Vopel, Van Kempen.

BLACKHAWKS, ON PLAYOFF TRAIL, MEET MAROONS

Boston to Visit Stadium Again on Sunday.

Tonight's Games

Montreal Canadiens at Toronto.
Detroit at New York Americans.
Chicago at Montreal Maroons.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Chicago's Blackhawks and the Montreal Maroons will meet here tomorrow night in a National Hocky league game that will have important bearing on the chances of both clubs to qualify for the Stanley Cup playoffs. The Blackhawks, in third place, two and a half games ahead of the Detroit Red Wings in the American division, have held a slim advantage over the Wings for several weeks. The Maroons, anchored since early season in fourth place in the Canadian division, have been winning recently and are becoming a menace to the New York Americans' hold on third place.

Since the Red Wings are meeting the Americans tomorrow night, each of the four teams fighting for third place in the two divisions of the league will be in action against a rival for that spot in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Team in Good Shape.

The Blackhawks came here in good physical condition after their 6 to 1 defeat at the hands of the New York Rangers in Madison Square Garden last night. They have been a jinx to the Rangers all season, having lost only once in five starts to Lester Patrick's great team until last night.

Manager Bill Stewart will stick to his revamped lineup for tomorrow's game, with Earl Seibert back at his old defense post and Bill McKenzie on the front line, where he played in his earliest major league competition.

There is hot rivalry on the Blackhawk team for the honor of being the leading goal scorer for the season and up to now four men are almost tied. In the latest scoring figures Romnes, Thompson, and March are tied with nine goals and Gottselig has eight.

Meet Bruins Sunday.

Following their game here the Hawks will return home. Their next game will be at the Chicago Stadium on Sunday night when they meet the Boston Bruins, present pace setters in the American division, whom they surprised with a 3 to 2 upset on the same rink ten days ago. Lineup for tomorrow:

De Correvont Meets New Coach

20 Heavyweights, Count 'Em, Survive Omaha Golden Gloves

BY FRENCH LANE.

The fighters come in outsizes out there on the Nebraska plains and in western Iowa, where the Omaha World-Herald is picking its team for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, which opens in the Stadium on Feb. 28.

Besides being big boys, there are more of them than ever have entered a sectional Golden Gloves competition. Twenty are left in the scrap for the heavyweight title in the Omaha meet. Thirty-two light heavyweights also are striving for honors in their division.

They approach the Omaha final on Feb. 17 much in the manner of a lot of lumbering Cinderellas. Which one's dainty foot is going to fit into the number 12's left empty by Paul Hartnek and Carl Vinciquerra of the Omaha team who have dominated the heavyweight and light heavyweight divisions of the Tournament of Champions for the last three years?

Winners Turn Pro.

Both Hartnek and Vinciquerra have entered the professional ranks. Their departure from the amateurs stirred the other big fellows in the Omaha territory to renewed activity. Just about every well muscled, hefty fellow in that part of the country went into training.

The 20 heavyweights and the 32 light heavyweights remaining in the Omaha fighting do not by any means represent all the Omaha starting field because elimination tournaments already have been held in Norfolk, Freemont, Alliance, Kearney, Superior, Lincoln, and Grand Island in Nebraska, and in Council Bluffs, Ia.

Knockout No Longer Is News.

There have been knockouts of every description in these elimination struggles. The hardest hitters among the heavyweights appear to be Leonard Arps of North Bend, Neb., Alex Fuchs of Stanton, Neb., Frank Gelecki of Omaha, and Francis Toline of Alliance. They have won more than 90 per cent of their preliminary bouts with knockout punches.

Victims of these sleep producing wallops are convinced that neither Hartnek nor Vinciquerra could slug in the manner of these newcomers.

If the big guns of their team can be properly manned, Omaha can vision a team title in the Tournament of Champions. Four members of last year's team—Martin Helzer, bantamweight; Paul Gaughenbaugh, featherweight; Victor Marker, welterweight, and Jack Taylor, 175 pounder, are leading contenders for places on the team again this year.

Martin Looks Very Good.

Helzer, who last year was a semifinalist in the National A. A. U. meet in Boston, has, in the early Omaha fighting, been one of the standouts in the big western tournament.

More than 800 boxers started fighting several weeks ago for the eight places on the Omaha team. The field already has been sliced down to 336.

FOLLOWS FOUR TEAMMATES TO BIG 10 SCHOOL

Decides to Continue Career at Home.

Bill De Correvont, the nation's most widely publicized high school football player last season, will enroll at Northwestern university next fall. The Austin High school half back, whose 35 touchdowns in ten games brought the west side team the Public School league championship and the city title, made the announcement yesterday.

De Correvont, who was graduated last Friday, said an ambition to play in the Western conference and the fact that several other members of the Austin squad will matriculate at Northwestern next September led to his decision. He had written to more than 20 colleges in the United States regarding scholastic requirements.

He Issues Statement.

In a statement issued in his home on the west side De Correvont praised his teammates for their coöperation throughout the season. Jack Riley, former Northwestern football player, a cousin of De Correvont's was present when the statement was issued. It read:

"I have decided to enroll at Northwestern university next September. The newspapers in Chicago have been grand to me. My folks have always lived in Chicago and I wanted to go to school near home. I was very fortunate to play on a great high school team. Some of the boys on the team are going to Northwestern. I know I can get a good education at Northwestern and I always wanted to play in the Big Ten."

In addition to Riley, another cousin of De Correvont, George Wilson, played at Northwestern in 1934. Wilson now plays end for the Chicago Bears.

De Correvont's teammates who will join him at Northwestern are Alfie Bauman, giant tackle; Donald Johnson, 200 pound center; Chuck Feingarten, guard, and Sonny Skor, quarter back. Feingarten and Skor also were graduated last Friday. Bauman, Johnson, and five other regular members of the squad will be graduated next June.

No Plans for Summer.

De Correvont ended his high school career last December, against Jackson, Tenn., in a charity game at Memphis. He scored a touchdown in the first quarter on a 37 yard run and shortly afterward he suffered a fractured collar bone. The game followed Austin's 26 to 0 victory over Leo, Catholic league champion, at Soldiers' field before 115,000.

De Correvont said he had not made definite plans for the spring and summer. He may decide to accept a position in a loop bank. The half back, who also starred on the Austin baseball squad for three seasons, will work out with the Mills semi-pro club, which has scheduled several college nines for spring contests.

Visits Coast, Ohio State.

De Correvont led many to believe he might be interested in a Pacific coast school last December when he accepted an invitation to be the guest of Warner Brothers' studio at the Rose Bowl game between Alabama and California. He also had written the registrar's office at the University of Southern California.

The first report that he was interested in the Big Ten school was heard following an airplane trip to Columbus, O., last fall, where he watched the game between Northwestern and Ohio State. He occupied a seat on the Ohio State bench during the game.

De Correvont and his teammates were honored last night at a banquet at the Midwest Athletic club. Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern football coach, was one of the speakers. Waldorf met De Correvont and other members of the team for the first time.

Waldorf, when informed of De Correvont's decision to enroll at Northwestern, said:

"Any school would be very glad to have De Correvont enroll and we feel the same way about it."

Named Most Valuable.

De Correvont was named the team's most valuable player at the dinner. Casey Piefer, tall end, the only junior on the squad last season, was named captain for 1938. President Peter Grachini of the Austin Alumni association, presented a gold watch to William C. Helland, Austin coach. More than two hundred attended the banquet. Mayor Edward J. Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the school board; Waldorf, De Correvont, Red Grange, Chicago Bears' assistant coach; A. H. Pritzlaff, physical education director of the Public School league; Rudy Schmidt, Austin athletic director, and Tony Lawless, Fenwick High school football coach, were among the speakers. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, was toastmaster.

SOX MEET TIGERS, INDIANS IN 8 OF FIRST 11 GAMES

Dykes' Team at Home on Two Holidays.

Eight of the first eleven games which will engage the attention of the White Sox when American league pennant competition is inaugurated for 1938 will be with the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers, two clubs which helped the Sox make up the 1937 first division bracket after the thundering Yankees had staked out their customary claim on the pennant.

On April 19, when the race really gets under way, although a pair of games will be played in the east the previous day, the Sox will trot out on the Comiskey park diamond for a duel with the Tigers, who took second honors last year after a long spell in which it looked as if Dykes' team might land the berth. After three games with Mickey Cochrane's men, the Sox make the overnight hop to St. Louis for a similar series with the Browns.

Open in East May 3.

On April 25 they return to the south side for three games with the Indians, who, with a brand new manager in the person of Oscar Vitt and a new right arm for Bob Feller, feel they are the logical challengers to the Yankees' supremacy. Games with the Tigers in Detroit on the 28th and 29th follow, then the boys make a two day stand at Comiskey park against the Browns before starting their first extended train ride of the new season.

Allowing a day for travel, the Sox open in Philadelphia on May 3, with stops in Washington, New York, Boston, and Cleveland. Their next subsequent home engagement will be with Boston on May 17.

Two of the season's three holidays will be celebrated at Comiskey park. The Sox will meet the Browns on July 4 and the Indians on Sept. 5, Labor day, playing double-headers, of course, on both dates.

REDS ARRANGE NIGHT GAMES.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Cincinnati Reds today revised the newly released National league schedule to agree with their plans for seven night games at Crosley field. Two of the after-dark engagements will be with the Cubs—on July 1 and Aug. 10. The Giants are the only one of the seven rival teams which does not play a night date, Manager Bill Terry being opposed to such competition.

The first of the seven games will be with the Cardinals on May 27. Others in addition to those with the Cubs are with the Phillies on June 8; the Bees, July 30; the Dodgers, Aug. 31, and the Pirates, Sept. 8.

Games scheduled on days succeeding the night dates have been reset as parts of double-headers.

PIOTTER, NELSON WIN IN STATE HANDBALL MEET

Two of the matches in the Central A. A. U. state singles handball meet went to three sets in the Madison A. C. last night. National Champion Joe Platak won by default from Fred Dillon, Illinois Athletic club representative.

Bob Nelson of the I. A. C. was extended to beat Eddie Piotter of the Oak Park Y. M. C. A., 21-12, 19-21, 21-12, and Paddy Cannon of the Madison A. C. defeated George Corsen of the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., 21-9, 19-21, 21-18. The summaries:

FIRST ROUND—Steve Panke, Joliet Y. M. C. A., defeated John Stenson, Madison A. C., 21-18, 21-10; Chuck Ravas, Postl H. C., defeated Tony Alberti, Skyline A. C., 21-12, 21-12.

SECOND ROUND—Bob Nelson, I. A. C., defeated Eddie Piotter, Oak Park Y. M. C. A., 21-12, 19-21, 21-12; Paddy Cannon, Madison A. C., defeated George Corson, Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., 21-9, 19-21, 21-18; Joe Platak, Lake Shore A. C., won by default from Fred Dillon, I. A. C.; Bill McCarthy, I. A. C., defeated Bob Kendlar, Lake Shore A. C., 21-18, 21-6.

Stockins, Jawgiel Triumph in Artillery Amateur Bouts

Stanley Stockins, lightweight member of the 124th Field Artillery boxing team, and Joe Jawgiel, Northwest gymnasium, triumphed in the two feature amateur bouts at the 124th Field Artillery armory last night. Stockins won a five round decision over Wally Zale, Gary, Ind., while Jawgiel knocked out Vito Savoldi, Gary, in the second round.

BRADLEY FIVE TESTS PURPLE SATURDAY NIGHT

Northwestern's basketball team will conclude a two weeks' lay-off for examinations by meeting the undefeated Bradley Tech five at Patten gymnasium Saturday night.

The Peoria Braves, victorious in ten straight games this season and undefeated since the Wildcats beat them a year ago, will invade Evanston with strong hopes of victory. Bradley has whipped, among others, Indiana, Nebraska, Utah, and St. Louis university.

A capacity crowd will witness the game. Included will be 2,000 Bradley fans many of whom will accompany the team from Peoria on a special train. Others will make the trip by bus and auto. The size of the delegation was limited by the number of seats available in Patten gymnasium. A Peoria radio station will broadcast the game.

Harvey Star Paces Bradley.

Paced by Dar Hutchins, 6 foot 4 inch center from Harvey, Ill., Bradley has turned loose an offense which rolled up a 50 to 39 victory over Indiana, overpowered Nebraska, 50 to 30, and reached its peak last Saturday by scoring a 68 to 46 victory over Knox. Hutchins, who was a member of Thornton township's state high school championship team of three years ago is high scorer of the team.

Whether the Wildcats will be able to pick up where they left off at the conclusion of the first half of their Big Ten schedule is a question. Their last appearance was two weeks ago when they defeated Michigan, 30 to 29, for their fifth victory in six games. The lone defeat was at the hands of Purdue.

Wildcats Have Tight Defense.

This consists of two senior forwards, Fred Trenkle and Jean Smith, Jake Nagode, the team's high scorer, at center, and Ad Vance and Bernard Davis, guards. EXAMINATION OF GOLDEN GLOVERS ENDS TOMORROW

Sectionals to Start Next Week on West Side.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The final Golden Gloves examination tomorrow night at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, is the last chance to enter this year's sectional tournament in Chicago. All boxers who have received letters to report tomorrow night and any other boys who previously have received parental consent cards from The Tribune Charities, Inc., may appear for physical examinations.

More than two thousand letters have been received this year from boxers. Only those who have reported for and passed their physical examinations will be eligible to fight in the sectional tournaments which start next week.

Five Veterans at Loyola.

Among the Open division boxers seeking a championship and a place on this year's intercity Golden Gloves squad which fights New York in Madison Square Garden March 21 is Earl Watson. This is Watson's fifth tournament and while he is only 25 years of age, he made his first appearance in Golden Gloves in 1930 when he reached the finals of the lightweight class and was defeated by Chauncey Crain.

The Open division at the north sectional tournament which starts at Loyola university gymnasium Feb. 21 promises to be one of the strongest of the four in Chicago. Five veteran boxers of the Catholic Youth organization were assigned to that center at the examination Monday night. They are Savior Canadeo, welterweight; John Anderson, lightweight; Cornelius Young, middleweight; Al Scarlata, featherweight, and Albert Urlich, light heavyweight.

Fight in West Section Next Week.

While the west side tournament starts Feb. 9 at the Madison Athletic club, this will be the only section in operation next week. The west side boxers will go through to the semifinals on Wednesday and Thursday and the tournament will be concluded on Feb. 17 and 18 at the Park Casino. The south side tournament opens Feb. 15 at White City and on the following night the northwest tournament starts at the Marigold Gardens.

General admission at all four of the sectional tournaments is 75 cents. There are no reserved seats. Tickets now may be ordered for the Tournament of Champions, Feb. 28, March 1 and 2, and for the championships, March 11. These bouts will be held at the Chicago Stadium. Address ticket applications to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

TOW AND BURMAN FIGHT DRAW IN TEN ROUND BOUT

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Young Bob Tow of Washington, D. C., latest addition to Joe Gould's fistic stable, fought a ten round draw with Red Burman of Baltimore, protégé of Jack Dempsey, before 2,000 fans in the New York Hippodrome tonight. Tow weighed 206, Burman 185.

It was a dull, uninteresting bout between two inexperienced youngsters who showed potentialities but still have plenty to learn. The only knockdown came in the fourth round, when Burman dropped Tow to the floor with a crushing right to the head. Tow regained his feet before a count was started.

NOTRE DAME'S EX-CAPTAIN TO MAKE TRIP WEST

New Castle, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Alec Shellogg, who made good as a football player at Notre Dame, only to be suspended a few days after being elected to the 1938 captaincy, returned home today declining to comment on the situation.

Shellogg said he had been visiting friends in the midwest since he disappeared from the campus early this week.

"My position does not permit me to comment," Alec said. "It would be detrimental to both sides. Both Fred and I plan to go to the west coast within the near future and work until next fall, when we both hope to return to school. We worked out there last summer."

Shellogg referred to his brother and teammate, Fred, who preceded the ex-captain home by several weeks.

YALE POLOISTS' RECORD SHOWS ONLY ONE DEFEAT

124th Artillery to Face Old Eli Saturday.

The Yale university polo team, which will meet the 124th Artillery trio at the 124th armory Saturday night, has scored victories over Princeton university and the Governor's Horse Guard, and has lost only to the United States military academy.

Yale Arrives Saturday.

A change in plans for their western departure calls for the Yale players to leave New Haven, Conn., tomorrow afternoon. The team will arrive over the New York Central Lines at 7:35 a. m. Saturday.

Yale will put a six goal team on the field Saturday night. Selected for the starting lineup are Alan L. Corey, Jr., three goals; Mott Woolley, team captain, two goals, and Ken Schiffer, one goal.

Artillery Rates Ten Goals.

Against this combination, the 124th Field Artillery will pit a team rated at ten goals in indoor play, with Lieut. Bill Fergus, captain, at four goals; Capt. Romeo E. Mura and Lieut. Don Rice at three apiece. Yale accordingly will be awarded four points by handicap.

STANDARD OIL (CAL.) DECLARES EXTRA 10 CENTS

Carpet Company Omits Common Payment.

The Standard Oil company of California yesterday ordered payment of an extra dividend of 10 cents a share along with the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents on March 15. A year ago the company paid an extra of 5 cents. Extras totaled $1 in 1937, with 20 cents paid in June and September, and 55 cents in December.

Bigelow-Sanford Carpet company omitted its common stock dividend and Compressed Industrial Gases, Inc., reduced its March payment to 25 cents. Storkline Furniture corporation designated its 12½ cent dividend a regular quarterly disbursement, although 25 cents was paid last November.

Payments Hinge on Earnings.

Compressed Industrial Gases made four 50 cent payments in 1937, three of them before a 25 per cent stock dividend in October. H. B. Pearson, president, said he hopes 1938 dividend will total $2 but said quarterly payments will depend entirely on earnings.

Sheaffer Pen company will pay $1 on Feb. 26, the same as last Oct. 15. An extra of 25 cents, as well as a $1 dividend, was paid last February. The 1937 total was $2.25.

Edward J. Cornish, chairman of the National Lead company, told stockholders that the company has maintained its dividend rate continuously for many years—12½ cents quarterly since a 10 for 1 split in 1936—and if directors should change it they would "violate everything that is held dear to the president and the board. I am sure nothing but the direst necessity would cause them to reduce the dividend rate."

Consider Extra Distribution.

Directors of Remington-Rand, Inc., at their meeting Feb. 18 will consider an extra dividend payable in preferred stock now in the treasury in order to cut down or avoid payment of the tax on undistributed profits. The company has paid 85 cents cash since its fiscal year began last April 1. Earnings were equal to $2.02 a share in the nine months ended Dec. 31, and business has been reported holding up well so far this quarter.

Wayne Pump.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on Wayne Pump.—J. B.

Answer: The Wayne Pump company is one of the leading manufacturers of pumps used by gasoline filling stations, garages, airports, and other enterprises dispensing petroleum products. Between 30 and 40 per cent of all the gasoline pumps manufactured in the United States are said to be produced by this company. Self-measuring gasoline pumps account for about 80 per cent of the company's sales.

Other products include accessories for pumping devices, other gasoline and oil dispensing equipment, air compressors, automobile hoists, automobile washers, automatic tire inflators, gear flushers, and other automobile servicing equipment.

One of the important pumps developed by the company is a gasoline meter pump which computes and records total gallonage and total price of each purchase and keeps a cumulative record of total sales in gallonage and in dollars and cents. This pump was put on the market in 1933.

The principal plant of the company is at Fort Wayne, Ind. A leased plant also is operated at Los Angeles, Cal., and warehouses are maintained in many American cities. Assembly plants and warehouses are maintained in Canada, England, and Brazil.

In 1936 the company retired its entire issue of 5 per cent convertible debentures issued in connection with reorganization proceedings completed late in 1934. The retirement left the company without funded debt. Plans were abandoned, at least temporarily, late in 1937, to replace working capital paid out in dividends by increasing authorized capitalization and selling new stock to present shareholders.

The company earned $1,637,073, or $5.65 a common share, in the year ended Nov. 30, 1937, compared with $1,325,279, or $4.58 a share, in the preceding year, and $496,525, or $2.38 a share, on a smaller number of outstanding shares in the year ended Nov. 30, 1935. Prior to reorganization the company had losses from 1931 through 1934.

Current assets on Nov. 30, 1937, were $4,761,918, against current liabilities of $1,423,332. On July 31, 1937, current assets were $5,573,406, against current liabilities of $1,904,249.

The company at present has 289,659 shares of $1 par common stock outstanding. In addition to $2 a share in regular payments, the company paid $1 extra in 1937. The regular 50 cent quarterly payment was disbursed Jan. 3, 1938.

Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey
BOTTLED BY WALTER P. POWERS CHICAGO, ILL.

Smooth

Wood-Stock is a top-flight bourbon that rates mighty high in the opinion of men who really know good whiskey. But, high as it is in quality, it is by no means high in price.

Wood-Stock has climbed right up into the "stratosphere" of popular favor. Every day more and more men show good judgment by asking for Wood-Stock by name at the better bars and taverns.

Smooth, mellow as the moonlight, Wood-Stock Whiskey is as fine a bourbon as ever came up from Old Kentucky . . . as rich and delicious a bourbon as choice sun-ripened grain and master distillers can produce.

UTILITY GROWTH 'STYMIED,' SAYS SEC CHAIRMAN

Blames Small Group Within Industry.

The utility industry as a potential major force working for the recovery of the nation is stymied by a small group within the industry intent on preserving intangible interests regardless of the cost, William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, said yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the Commonwealth club in the University club.

Douglas explained that heads of utilities have asserted that the industry should spend millions of dollars on improvements, but has held back for a number of reasons, including fear of what the government may do to them.

Says Leadership Slumbers.

"I do not want to chide or criticize," Douglas said, "but there are grave disappointments. There are also tragic episodes. While the nation awaits restoration of its capital markets, financial leadership slumbers. An industry which, its leaders tell me, could use millions of dollars in capital for the next few years, does not quicken to the possibilities which have been and are in store for it.

"An industry which has the opportunity to make a major contribution toward recovery is stymied by a small group who stand squarely in its path intent on preserving its own intangible interests regardless of the costs. In Washington we can supply, I believe, the action which is needed from government. We have long been prepared. But this is a cooperative undertaking."

Warns on Law Violation.

Declaring that those companies whose methods and operations are above board have nothing to fear, Douglas warned those who attempt to operate outside the law will find the government a stern taskmaster. On the whole he described the federal government as having a conciliatory attitude on utility affairs. He said that the problems of the utility industry are not too difficult for the ingenuity of American business and finance.

"These are not problems involving the transformation of our capitalistic system into a socialistic state, with government serving in the rôle which, traditionally, private initiative and enterprise have played," he said. "Only carriers of false hopes can find such philosophy in Washington. These are not problems which pertain to abolition of the profit motive. Washington knows that the profit motive, as the thing which makes our system tick, must be zealously guarded. In other words, there is realism in the Washington workshop."

Tells SEC Policy.

Douglas said the SEC is administering the utilities act for the benefit of about a third the utilities industry and that it is not attempting to enforce compliance on the balance of the industry pending decision as to the constitutionality of the act. He declared that congress in passing the act desired to preserve the real values in the utility systems as part of the capitalistic system for the common good of investors, consumers, and management, and not to destroy them.

"Preservation means harmonious relationship between finance and business, between management and stockholders, and between industry and government," he explained. "That is no formula for sweet sentimentality, nor is it the formula for inaction or drifting.

"The nation calls for action, direct, forceful, and intelligent action in dealing with the utility system, not by government alone but by industry. Such action means constructive work of the highest order, with the industry given freedom and the opportunity to take the initiative, but with government pointing the way and taking the lead if it falters or delays. A fusillade of words will not suffice."

STEEL BUYING IS CURTAILED BY PRICE SITUATION

The recent proposal of President Roosevelt for reducing prices and keeping wages up have intensified caution among steel buyers to the extent that practically none is willing to add to his steel inventories until the question of prices and wages is determined, Iron Age said yesterday.

Production is figured by the publication at 31 per cent of capacity, a decline of 1½ points from last week after a steady rise during January.

The Iron Age composite scrap steel price, an average of Pittsburgh, Chicago, and Philadelphia, is unchanged at $14 a ton.

Chicago Sees W. O. Douglas as Evangelist

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, yesterday concluded three days of visiting with Chicagoans and departed for Washington, D. C. According to the opinions of many of the persons with whom he conversed, his visit was an attempt to cultivate better feeling toward the Roosevelt administration among Chicago business and financial men.

William O. Douglas.

The tenor of most of his formal talks was that business should go along more willingly with the various activities of the Roosevelt administration. But in a few words in each of his two principal addresses, Douglas left no misunderstanding—those who do not conform will be forced to it.

Direct in Statements.

Most of those who talked with this new administration pro-counsul said they found him to be of pleasing personality and direct in his statements.

Douglas did a great deal of talking in the two and a half days he spent in Chicago. Monday noon he lunched at the Attic club. Among those present were Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co.; Paul Shields of the New York investment house of Shields & Co.; Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Solomon Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, and Charles Freeman, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company.

Monday night, Douglas dined at the Racquet club, Wood and Avery were there; also Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the City National Bank and Trust company, and others.

Addresses Many Others.

Tuesday noon, Douglas met a group of members and officials of the Chicago Stock exchange at the Chicago club, and on Tuesday evening he addressed the Economic Club of Chicago, including many persons prominent in Chicago business and industry. His last talk was given before the Commonwealth club, composed largely of junior executives of large Chicago enterprises.

According to many of those with whom he talked, Douglas' rôle appeared to be that of evangelist to sell Chicago business the idea that the Roosevelt administration is not nearly so bad as described. But in his conversations Douglas declared that this was not true.

"I am not out here trying to be an evangelist or trying to sell the New Deal to those who are absolutely against it," he said. "I know that would be impossible. But I do want to try to convince business men that it will be better for the whole country if they will try to get along with the Washington government.

"Congress has put certain laws on the books and they have to be enforced. I think we all should recognize realities and try to work together."

Bounced Off Train.

Douglas interested his listeners on several occasions with a story contrasting his first arrival in Chicago with that on Monday. His first arrival was fifteen years ago when he was "bounced off a freight car in the Chicago yards." At that time he was on his way from his home in Washington state to make his fortune in New York City.

The "bouncing" in the Chicago yards ended a freight train ride from the west which had consumed about 13 days. He borrowed sufficient money from a brother to enable him to complete the trip to New York in a day coach, he said.

Opening of New York Auto Show Is Changed to Nov. 11

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Automobile Manufacturers' association announced tonight that the 1938 New York auto show will open Nov. 11, as it did in 1936. It opened Oct. 27 last year. The association said the directors voted for the change back to November "after a careful review of the sales and labor factors involved." The date was advanced to the fall at the request of President Roosevelt, the association said.

BOARD OF TRADE CUTS ALL PAY ABOVE $1,800 IN ECONOMY DRIVE

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade have ordered a reduction of 10 per cent in the salaries of all employés earning more than $1,800 a year, it was learned yesterday. The salary of Fred H. Clutton, secretary, was said to have been cut from $15,000 to $13,500 annually.

The wage reduction, which will save $25,000 a year, was recommended to directors by a special committee named to find ways to cut expenses. The mortgage on the Board of Trade building was refunded late in 1937, effecting a saving in interest. At the same time a special assessment of $150 a year for three years was levied on the members.

Drastic economy measures have been adopted recently by La Salle street commission houses. Some firms have discontinued special wire service to New York, and others have combined wire facilities. Both commodity and security brokers have been forced to economize because of slack market activity.

RETAILERS TOLD NEWSPAPERS ARE BEST SELLING AID

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Newspaper advertising is the greatest single selling instrument at the disposal of the retail merchandising field, W. S. Townsend, of Townsend & Townsend, Inc., declared today in an address to the sales promotion group of the 27th annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

Townsend criticized advertising methods, declaring advertisers fail to obtain the full benefit of the space they buy, due to faulty preparation of copy.

"The trouble with much advertising," he said, "is that it is written on the assumption that the reader already wants the merchandise advertised."

He described as "false economy" the curtailment of advertising in the face of a business slump. "When you cut off advertising you cut off sales," he said.

U. S. TO POUR OUT 147 MILLIONS IN POWER PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The government will start pouring out millions of dollars next week on its long delayed municipal power program.

Administrator Ickes announced today the first $1,000,000 of PWA grants would go forward in a single voucher to Memphis, Tenn., on Wednesday as an initial federal contribution to the city's big electrical distribution system.

Thereafter, in rapid succession, he said, PWA loans and grants on sixty-one public power projects in twenty-one states would put a total of $146,917,808 to work producing one man-hour of labor for each dollar spent.

Mr. Albright Objects to Tax 'Out of Hide'

L. M. Albright, who runs a small typewriter supply house at 300 West Adams street, was not one of the "little business men" summoned to Washington to tell President Roosevelt what's the matter with things. But Mr. Albright had a load to get off his chest, so he took one of his typewriters in hand yesterday and told his grievances to the President in a letter.

"All this talk about helping the 'little business man' becomes most confusing to the little business man himself," he wrote. "It seems to be the sort of help you get when the sherif puts you out on the street and hangs a sign on your front door."

Here's Albright's Story.

Here is Mr. Albright's story as told by himself in the letter:

"I am paying two state and two federal taxes today under the new Illinois unemployment compensation act. We have a couple of very small corporations that have no surpluses and only enough working capital to just get by. The tax we are paying, therefore is being paid with money that we needed and expected to use for pay roll purposes.

"My two little corporations are so small that between them we never had more than ten or eleven people employed and much of the time we don't have more than eight. Four of us, including myself as president, have had to derive part of our salary from one company and part from the other. Up until a month ago we did not believe that we came under the provisions of the unemployment compensation act. We have recently been informed, however, that we do on two separate and distinct counts.

Unpaid Officers Are Employés.

"In the first place, we are told that if the officers of the corporation are included, each company has eight persons. We have two officers in each company who are represented by signatures on the corporate forms only. They receive no pay of any kind from either corporation. These officers, we are told, are now considered as employés.

"Second, under the state law, we are told, if two or more small corporations fall under a single ownership the combined number of people in the two companies, if they add up to more than eight, throw each company under the act. So, under the construction of the law, we are liable on each count, and yet in each case we feel as though we were being padded into a bracket."

Mr. Albright told the President that he had nursed one of his companies along for seven years hoping that some day it could be built into a modestly profitable enterprise. During this time he carried his own salary as president on the books at $50 per week, but earnings in the last seven years have been so slim that the company actually owes him $8,200 in unpaid salary—on which, by the way, he has paid his full individual income tax.

His average salary actually received, he said, has been $125 monthly. The company has paid no dividends or bonuses.

"My protest," he wrote, "is over the fact that this tax of $144.87 comes out of the hide and not out of profits. It seems to result in my having to decide whether I am willing to take still less or whether I am going to take it out of the salaries of my employés. In cases like ours the very money that we would use for wages is being taken from us in taxes and the innoculation causes the infection it is supposed to prevent.

"There is something rotten when vicious circles like these begin devouring their own tails."

KENNEDY URGES U. S. BUILD 500 MERCHANT SHIPS IN TEN YEARS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—High administration officials favor the construction of 500 speedy merchant ships in the next ten years at a cost of $1,250,000,000. This became known tonight when the senate commerce committee published testimony by Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, who recently was appointed ambassador to England.

Kennedy, who has been trying to rebuild the merchant marine under a subsidy program, said these new ships would be needed as an auxiliary to the larger navy program already announced. In peace time they would be merchant vessels, but in an emergency they would become part of the navy.

"It is ridiculous to have a big navy and not have the essential merchant ships to serve as auxiliaries," Kennedy told the senate committee behind closed doors. He and navy officials said most of the merchant marine vessels now are antiquated.

Kennedy said the navy "has a pressing demand for sixty-five ships" at present and said the 500 needed in the next ten years probably "would cost $1,250,000,000."

U. S. DEFICIT FOR 7 MONTHS IS $877,720,529

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The treasury reported today its deficit in the first seven months of the fiscal year totaled $877,720,529. President Roosevelt has estimated the excess of expenditures over income will reach $1,294,345,300 by June 30. The seven month deficit was about half the shortage in the similar period of the preceding year, which was $1,745,758,978.

It has been narrowed by larger tax receipts despite an increase in expenditures. In the seven months ended Jan. 31, expenditures totaled $4,388,643,312 compared with $4,187,890,871 a year ago. Tax collections increased from $2,442,131,892 to $3,510,922,783.

About $470,000,000 of the gain in taxes was due to social security and railroad retirement levies.

U. S. PLANS NEW COURT FIGHT ON OIL COMPANIES

Accuses 24 Firms of Fixing Profits.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The justice department, successful in recent anti-trust prosecution of sixteen major oil companies at Madison, Wis., announced today it would press charges next fall against 24 oil companies and 46 individuals.

Attorney General Cummings said they would be brought to trial on an indictment returned by a federal grand jury at Madison in December, 1936. The indictment charges the oil companies with fixing uniform margins of profit for gasoline jobbers throughout the middle west.

Those indicted, Cummings said, include the 16 companies and 25 of the individuals convicted Jan. 22 at Madison on charges of conspiring to fix the wholesale price of gasoline.

Call Arnott a Leader.

One of the accusations is that representatives of the oil companies held conferences over a period of years, usually at a hotel in Chicago, at which they agreed upon uniform practices in dealing with gasoline jobbers. The indictment said the meetings usually were presided over by Charles E. Arnott, vice president of Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc.

Arnott was one of the 30 individuals found guilty in January of price fixing.

The indictment estimated that about 4,000 jobbers were engaged in the gasoline business in the affected area.

At a press conference, Cummings sharply criticized recent published attacks against the justice department's handling of the Madison cases. He said critics had only repeated arguments used during the trial and had failed to produce any evidence not weighed by the Madison jury.

Discusses Ickes' Letter.

Cummings referred to two letters written by Secretary of Interior Ickes in 1934 to Arnott. Defendants in the Madison trial had contended the letters virtually sanctioned, under the National Recovery act, practices for which they later were indicted. The attorney general said some had charged the letters were suppressed at the trial.

"The letters actually were admitted in evidence," Cummings asserted. "They were introduced by the government."

Plans Hearing in March.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone will hear arguments here after March 15 on motions to set aside a jury's verdict Jan. 22 convicting sixteen major oil companies and thirty individuals of violating the Sherman anti-trust act by fixing gasoline prices.

Judge Stone has withheld sentence until he rules on these motions as well as motions for a new trial.

A second indictment against some of the same and additional defendants, which Attorney General Cummings said in Washington today probably would go to trial next fall, also will be tried before Judge Stone.

CHICAGO CURB WILL VOTE TODAY ON DISSOLUTION

A recommendation of directors of the Chicago Curb exchange to liquidate the organization will be voted on at a special meeting of members today. The meeting will be held at 3 p. m., in room 400, at 332 South La Salle street.

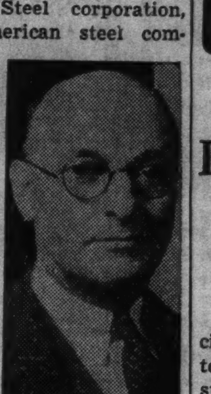
If the proposal is ratified the exchange will apply to the Securities and Exchange commission for withdrawal of its registration as a national security exchange and the assets will be prorated among the members.

The exchange's business has dwindled steadily in recent years. Only 40,256 shares were traded on the exchange in December.

T. E. Murchison, partner of Paul H. Davis & Co., has been president of the exchange for the last two years.

Republic Steel Profit Lower in Last Year

The Republic Steel corporation, third largest American steel company, yesterday reported a small decline in 1937 net income. Commercial Credit company, National Lead company, United Gas Improvement company, and a number of others also issued earnings statements.



Tom M. Girdler.

Republic Steel had net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1937, totaling $9,044,147, equal after all charges and taxes to $1.14 a share on 5,832,028 common shares outstanding. Net income in 1936 was $9,586,922, equal to $1.74 a share on 4,127,264 shares.

"The strike which occurred in the middle of the year and the severe decline of business in the fourth quarter resulted in substantially decreased earnings," Tom Girdler, chairman of the board, said. "Despite these facts, the year's net profit was only slightly short of that of 1936."

Commercial Credit Gains.

Commercial Credit company, installment finance company, had 1937 net income of $13,593,119, equal after preferred dividends to $7.09 a common share, against $12,005,779, or $6.07 a common share, in 1936. Earnings in both years were after surtax on undistributed profits.

A. E. Duncan, chairman of the board, said there had been some increase in repossessions, during the closing months of the year, of merchandise sold on payments, and that credit losses had risen somewhat. He said, however, that the increases were not serious so far and that the company did not expect it to become so.

National Lead company reported a slump in 1937 profit to $4,886,951, or 94 cents a common share, from $7,232,530, or $1.71 a share, in 1936. Edward J. Cornish, chairman, said that preliminary estimates of January, 1938, business indicated no reversal of the downward trend which developed in the latter half of 1937.

Utility Reports Rise.

The preliminary report of United Gas Improvement company, big utility company, for 1937 showed net income of $28,150,549, an increase of $196,794 over 1936 earnings. Surplus for 1937 amounted to $1,072,709 after payment of common and preferred dividends.

DISPUTE EFFECT OF HOUSING BILL ON WAGE RATES

Legislators, Labor Leaders Disagree.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—With the administration's bill to insure mortgages on privately constructed housing finally passed by congress and awaiting President Roosevelt's signature, legislators and labor leaders still are disputing the effect it will have on wage scales in the residential building industry. The dispute arises from the defeat of the Lodge prevailing wage amendment, which was opposed by the administration.

The defeated amendment of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.], provided "that the rates of pay for persons employed upon the construction of property covered by a mortgage insured under this title shall be not less than prevailing rates of pay for work of a similar nature in the same locality, as determined by the department of labor with the approval of the President."

Often Means Union Scale.

In communities where labor is organized, the prevailing rate of pay ordinarily means the union scale. In communities where nonunion labor is preponderant, however, the prevailing wage would be the standard rate for work of a similar character, and might be lower than the union scale. Whether the Lodge amendment would have required payment of the union scale for carpenters, brick layers, lathers, plasterers, etc., would have depended upon the community and the type of labor [union or nonunion] generally employed on residential construction work.

The Davis-Bacon act, approved March 3, 1931, requires that in the construction or repair of all public buildings of the United States, the rate of wage "for all laborers and mechanics employed . . . on the public buildings covered by the contract, shall not be less than the prevailing rate of wages for work of a similar nature in the city . . . in which the public buildings are located."

Fight Goes Back to 1935.

The Roosevelt administration had its first fight over the prevailing wage principle in 1935, when the senate adopted the McCarran amendment to the $4,880,000,000 work relief act. The amendment simply applied the provisions of the Davis-Bacon act to all construction proposed by the work relief appropriation.

President Roosevelt said this amendment would wreck the entire work relief program and his leaders in the senate, after a prolonged battle and reconsideration of the bill by the appropriations committee, finally succeeded in eliminating the provision.

Thereafter, however, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins decided that the fight was all in vain and that prevailing wages ought to be paid on relief projects. By executive order, he fixed the hourly pay of relief workers at the rates prevailing in the various communities—high in the north, where the union scale prevails,

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Selling which developed in the closing stages of trading on the stock market today shook the list out of its lethargy and caused losses ranging from fractions to 2 points.

Trading was light most of the time, volume for the day being 583,910 shares. The ticker was idle several times.

At the outset the market encountered some offerings and prices eased from previous finals. Then selective buying of metal and housing stocks communicated a better feeling to the entire industrial section and prices firmed, but later, in the absence of continued support, the rally played out and gave way to weakness.

Steels, motors, and metals took leading rôles in the late reaction. The steel group was on the heavy side throughout the session. United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, in the order named, were the hardest hit in the group, dropping 1⅛, 2⅛, and 3⅛ points, respectively. Other favorites declined major fractions.

The remarks of William O. Douglas of the Securities and Exchange commission in Chicago last night on financing and the public utility situation had little visible effect on prices, brokers reported.

In the motors, Chrysler showed the way both in volume and price decline. The stock dropped 1⅝ points and was the most actively traded issue of the day. General Motors lost ⅝ while Yellow Truck kept its loss to a minor fraction.

International Nickel and Anaconda lost 1⅜ and 1 point, respectively, in the coppers.

Continuing under the stimulation of the proposed housing drive, building shares came in for good inquiry, with U. S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, and American Radiator working modestly higher.

Public utility and railroad shares gave up fractions for most part.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Another spirited recovery in rail loans helped bring good support to corporate bonds today. A long list of carrier issues rose fractions to 4 points.

Trading sentiment was stimulated by reports of broad investment interest in the $67,000,000 of bonds and debentures of Appalachian Electric Power company, formally offered today. Some utility loans were bid up sharply.

Among the larger gainers were M. K. & T. first 4s, 2½; Pennsylvania 4½s, 2⅞; Wabash first 5s, 4; Illinois Central 5s, 3¼; Morris & Essex 3½s, 3; Detroit Edison 4½s, 1; American and Foreign Power 5s, 1.

Trading was slow in United States governments, with final prices 5/32ds lower to 2/32ds higher.

Chicago Stocks.

After displaying quiet strength throughout the morning, Chicago stocks reacted in the afternoon and closed at small losses yesterday.

Of the 75 issues traded, 31 closed lower, 17 ended with gains, and 27 were unchanged. Trading was 18,000 shares, against 12,000 shares Tuesday. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed 0.09 lower at 9.44.

Commonwealth Edison, mostly active issues, declined ⅛ to 23½, and Cities Service common, also actively traded, eased ⅛ to 1⅜. Zenith Radio retreated ⅜ to 13½ and Marshall Field closed unchanged at 8⅜.

Bank Stocks.

Quotations on Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company stock declined $2 a share yesterday, and First National bank shares eased $1. Northern Trust company shares were bid up $5. Other Chicago bank stocks were unchanged from Tuesday.

Commodities

The price of nearly every major commodity declined yesterday. Curtailed industrial and speculative buying was said to be the basis of the general weakness in the markets.

The composite price index of 35 basic commodities compiled by the Associated Press fell to 72.05 [1926 equals 100], the lowest level since the summer of 1936. The index stood at 72.33. Tuesday the Dow-Jones index of commodity future prices fell 0.19 to 52.73.

Cocoa futures in the New York market dropped 0.17 to 0.20 cent a pound. Cocoa for delivery in March closed at 5.26 cents.

Hides were quoted for future delivery 0.31 to 0.35 cent a pound under Tuesday's prices, the March contract closing at 8.60 cents. It was reported that 10,000 to 15,000 Pacific coast hides were sold in the cash market late Tuesday at the equivalent of 8⅝ cents a pound, Chicago basis.

Crude rubber futures slipped 0.03 to 0.06 cent a pound in New York. Contracts calling for delivery in March closed at 14.52 cents.

Business transacted in the metal markets was small. Copper was unchanged at 10 cents a pound on the domestic market. Sales in the export market were reported at 9.95 cents a pound, delivered at European ports. Lead futures closed 0.04 to 0.08 cent a pound lower.

SENATE, HOUSE GROUP APPROVES CROP RULE PLAN

Scheme Gives Farmers Bonus for Compliance.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—A senate-house committee agreed late today on details of the "ever normal granary" bill, providing a vast system for controling production and marketing of cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, and rice in an effort to stabilize prices.

Senator Smith.

Conferees said general provisions for corn, wheat, rice, and tobacco were not altered during final sessions of the conference committee, which has been busy since Jan. 3 drafting a single bill from the separate measures passed by house and senate. They said they expected the plan to be subject to some criticism when the measure goes back to senate and house for final approval.

Approves Bonus Plan.

Chairman Smith [D., S. C.] of the senate agriculture committee, said the joint congressional group had approved his suggestion that bonus payments on the 1937 cotton crop be hastened. Under this arrangement growers can turn over to the government some 5,000,000 bales of cotton on which loans are already made. Congress already has voted $130,000,000 extra payments on the 1937 cotton crop in addition to loans ranging down from 9 cents a pound. Legislators from corn and wheat sections may protest the new provision.

The program establishes definite supply levels for the five crops and attempts to control production and marketing through a system of benefit payments, loans on stored supplies, and penalties for excess sales when supplies are large.

How Scheme Works.

The secretary of agriculture will estimate the production of corn, wheat, or other crops needed in any season, convert this figure to acreage, and then split the acreage up among states, counties, and individual farms. Farmers who stay within these limits will receive benefit payments and loans on stored crops. When supplies become excessive a vote of two-thirds of the producers taking part in a referendum can clamp controls on all farmers.

Conferees said these marketing controls or quotas would operate this year for corn, wheat, cotton, and tobacco, if approved by growers.

1937 Air Express Shipments Show Increase of 35 Pct.

Cargill Lashes Chicago Pit's Charge as Bid for Prestige

Weston B. Grimes, attorney for Cargill, Inc., said yesterday that the charge of market manipulation against the firm's subsidiary, Cargill Grain company of Illinois, and its officers is an attempt by the Chicago Board of Trade to bolster its prestige.

The Illinois company and three of its officers were accused Tuesday by a special investigating committee of the exchange of wilful manipulation of corn prices during the market "squeeze" last September.

"It is not surprising," Grimes said, "that a committee of our competitors should find our purchases of September corn to be offensive."

Lashes Exchange Policy.

The charge, he asserted, is typical of the "closed social club style" in which the affairs of the exchange have been administered for many years.

Grimes said the exchange was unable to sustain earlier charges against the company and brought up the new accusation of manipulation to bolster its position.

He referred to the previous citation against the company for its refusal to obey an order issued last September by the exchange to liquidate nearly 2,000,000 bushels of its corn holdings. The company contended that compliance with the order would force it to sacrifice its holdings and would play into the hands of the short sellers who were trying to cover their commitments.

"It is well known in grain circles that the directors of the Board of Trade recognized the hopelessness of sustaining the order directing Cargill to sell its grain regardless of price and hence postponed its hearings on the charges until another red herring could be located and dragged across the trail," Grimes said.

The findings of the investigating committee which was headed by William H. McDonald, indicated, Grimes charged, that "it is improper to expect deliveries on future contracts" on the Board of Trade.

Grimes suggested that the department of justice investigate the Board of Trade's rule governing prices which members may bid on grain for future shipment to Chicago.

Charges Restraint of Trade.

"Restrictions on the bidding imposed by the exchange," he asserted, are "obviously in restraint of trade and have the effect of reducing the price which the farmer can obtain for his grain."

John H. MacMillan Jr., president of Cargill, Inc., is in the West Indies on a vacation, Grimes disclosed. The Board of Trade's charges, he said, were timed so that they were made public during MacMillan's absence.

CIGARET TAX POURS $487,903,000 INTO TREASURY IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The cigaret continued as a rising source of federal revenue in 1937, bringing $487,903,000 into the federal treasury during the year, the internal revenue bureau reported today. This was a $28,000,000 increase over 1936 collections, which totaled $459,520,000.

Tax collections on all forms of tobacco jumped from $536,102,000 in 1936 to $563,183,000 in 1937, a $27,000,000 gain. Receipts from manufactured tobacco such as chewing, smoking, and snuff tobacco dropped from $62,588,000 in 1936 to $60,816,000 last year.

RESUME TRUCK INQUIRY TODAY AT SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—An Illinois legislative commission will meet here tomorrow and Friday to resume its inquiry into the intrastate operation of 250,000 trucks registered in this state. The commission will report to the next session of the general assembly recommendations for the regulation of this highway freight transportation.

The chairman, Senator Louis J. Menges [D., East St. Louis], this evening reviewed testimony received to date in thirty-four hearings in twelve cities. The record indicates that the prices of meat, eggs, butter, coal, fruit, and other commodities are involved in the inquiry and that it is more than a problem involving the truck owners and operators, because retail prices must include transportation costs.

The legislators, six from each chamber, have learned also that much of the hauling on the roads today is in violation of the public utilities act of 1921.

DISPUTE EFFECT OF HOUSING BILL ON WAGE SCALES

Legislators and Labor Leaders Disagree.

and low in the south, where labor generally is unorganized.

The relief application act of 1937 contained a prevailing wage provision, and Senator Lodge used it as the model for his amendment to the housing bill.

The administration opposed the Lodge amendment on the ground that it would nullify the housing program and make it unworkable. A memorandum prepared at the direction of Secretary of Labor Perkins, on which senate administration leaders relied, said:

"It would mean that a prevailing wage rate would have to be determined in virtually every community, no matter how small, in the United States.

"The administrative difficulties involved would be very great and the delay that would be incurred would be a deterrent to the active construction so much needed in the near future."

McDonald's Letter Cited.

A letter from A. Stewart McDonald, housing administrator, also relied upon by senate administration leaders, said:

"The Lodge amendment . . . would impose upon the lending institution the penalty for failure on the part of a builder, contractor or subcontractor to comply with the conditions of the amendment. In other words, noncompliance on the part of the builder . . . at the time a property was built, would deprive the lending institution of the right to collect the insurance if at any time thereafter the owner of the property should default on the mortgage."

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], said this fear of losing the government mortgage insurance would result in a refusal on the part of banks and other lending institutions to take mortgages on housing projects.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and other supporters of the Lodge amendment said it was needed to safeguard labor from a drive to reduce wages.

CARNEGIE STEEL DENIES PLAN TO ABANDON PLANTS

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation yesterday denied reports originating in Pittsburgh that it planned permanently to abandon operations in five plants and transfer operations to the new $60,000,000 Irvin Works at Clairton, Pa.

The five plants are at New Castle, Farrell, and Monessen, Pa.; Elwood, Ind., and Cambridge, O. Operations at all five were suspended several weeks ago.

At the Chicago office of the corporation it was said that operations had been suspended at the plants because of lack of orders and that the corporation expected to reopen them when business improved.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Ginkgo Trees

February 2, 1938.

GINKGO trees will be grown from seed in a test being started at the Tribune's Wheaton Experimental farm. The test will be made on a small scale by the farm's head gardener.

In starting the experiment, about a quart of the ginkgo seed is being stratified. The seed is put in sand and buried outdoors, imitating natural conditions as near as possible, so the coats will crack in freezing. In the spring the seeds will be allowed to sprout and the young seedlings will be set in nursery beds where they can be carefully protected while they are establishing a root system.

There has been a ginkgo tree on the farm for thirty years. Last year the upper part of the tree died. The gardener found it necessary to cut down the tree, leaving a stump from which a sprout developed last summer. While the ginkgo is used chiefly along streets and in city parks, it has been found interesting at the farm, where its growth and habits can be compared with the native trees.

Common in Washington, D. C.

The ginkgo is grown quite commonly along the streets in Washington, D. C. It produces a seed with a sweet, resinous flavored kernel that is gathered and eaten as a food in China and Japan.

There are both male and female ginkgo trees. The fruit is produced on the female tree. Some object to the tree because the fruit has a foul odor. The fruit also is slippery and dangerous when it drops on sidewalks or pavements. To some persons the fruit is somewhat poisonous to the touch.

Some authorities recommend growing only the male trees to avoid the objectionable odor of the fruit.

If the trees can be raised successfully from seed, they will be used at the farm for landscape purposes.

Native of the Orient.

Tree experts have found that the ginkgo is a native of China and Japan. It is believed by some authorities that the tree really is a native of China only, but was introduced from there to Japan long ago. It is claimed that the ginkgo tree is the only species and only genus left of a family that formerly was widely distributed and that went back to the carboniferous age. It is well represented in the fossil state. Until recently it was found only around Chinese temples, but some wild species have been discovered recently.

Horticulturists regard the ginkgo as one of the most distinct of the conifers. Unlike most conifers, its attractive dull green foliage is deciduous, assuming a clear yellow tone before falling in the autumn.

Growers find it extremely erratic in its behavior. Sometimes it grows well, but at other times makes practically no growth. Where it happens to thrive, it is disease resistant and withstands severe windstorms. It is known to thrive in a cold climate or a hot, moist climate. For this reason it is grown in practically all parts of the country.

GRAIN CO-OP'S BIG SHORT SALES STIR INTEREST

Recall Farm Opposition to Practice.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Disclosure that the Farmers' National Grain corporation, government financed coöperative, was the largest short seller in the corn market last September stirred much interest yesterday in La Salle street.

The coöperative's big short position in the market was brought to light by the report of the special committee of the Chicago Board of Trade investigating the causes of the squeeze in the corn market last September.

On Sept. 18, the report showed, the coöp was short 2,460,000 bushels of corn, against which it was carrying only 643,148 bushels of cash corn with which to make delivery against the future contracts. This meant that the coöp had a net speculative short position in corn of 1,816,852 bushels.

Big Loss Is Reported.

It is reported that the corporation took a big loss on its short operations. This is said to have been one of the contributing factors in the recent decision of directors and stockholders to liquidate the organization.

The coöperative, organized with government money for the ostensible purpose of bringing the farmers a better return for their products, occupied a peculiar position in being the biggest short seller in the market. The short sales of professional market operators have long been criticized by farm organization as depressing market values and cheating the farmer of the full value of his products.

The short sales of the coöperative were in effect financed by funds from the federal treasury. The organization has operated since its inception largely with federal funds, although in theory its capital was provided by regional coöperative associations which were the nominal stockholders.

Rescued by Government.

Farmers' National was rescued from bankruptcy two years ago when the federal Farm Credit administration, forsaking hope of recovery on its loans, wiped off $14,000,000 that it had advanced over a period of years to encourage the coöperative enterprise. At that time it advanced new credits which permitted the coöp to continue operations. Subsequent unprofitable operations and the prospect that no new federal subsidies would be granted led to the decision of directors late last year to dissolve the 8 year old organization. This recommendation was ratified by stockholders at a meeting in Chicago last week.

Properties Taken Over.

Most of the physical properties of the coöperative have been surrendered to the federal government in partial satisfaction of debts. The government is now trying to liquidate these assets. It is estimated the proceeds of the liquidation will cover only a small fraction of 15 to 20 millions that the government poured into the venture.

The findings of the Board of Trade committee raised the question of how extensive had been the earlier short operations of the corporation. It has been one of the biggest operators in the Chicago grain market for several years and was known at times to have been on the short side.

The committee's report, however, was the first definite figures that have been brought to light concerning its speculative short sales.

COTTON

Speculative interest in the cotton market is at a minimum, brokers said yesterday, and price changes in the market are largely a reflection of hedging sales on one hand and trade buying on the other, with minor fluctuations at times based on the action of foreign markets.

Closing trades in cotton futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were unchanged to .02 cent higher. Other American markets were .01 to .03 cent a pound higher.

Demand for cotton goods was reported as relatively inactive although prices showed little change.

Spot cotton closed unchanged with New Orleans 8.65c; New York, 8.50c, and Galveston and Houston at 8.40c a pound. Prices follow:

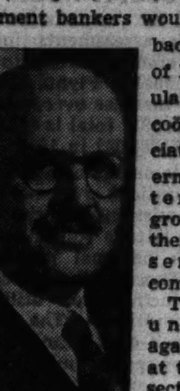
URGE NRA TYPE OF OVER-COUNTER TRADING CONTROL

Senate Witnesses Oppose Giving SEC a Club.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Investment bankers would like to turn back to the days of NRA code regulations and form coöperative associations to govern over-the-counter trading, a group of eight of them told the senate banking committee today.



Ralph T. Crane—"What is reasonable profit?"

They protested unanimously against adoption, at this time, of a section of the Maloney bill which would increase the Security and Exchange commission's powers over such transactions.

The bankers argued that congress would be employing the wrong psychology if it gave the SEC a policeman's club and told it to make sure that "voluntary" associations were formed.

Indorse Part of Bill.

All, however, indorsed the portion of the Maloney bill which would permit the establishment of associations, under the supervision of the SEC. The associations would be charged with promulgating and enforcing codes of ethics to protect the investing public.

Joseph C. Hostetler, counsel for the investment bankers conference, declared that the threat of drastic regulations by the commission might hamper formation of the associations.

"I think it is wrong to say to these dealers: 'Now if you don't do this, the bogey man's going to get you.' It is sounder to let this business organize itself," the Cleveland, O., attorney testified.

Profit Definition Difficult.

Senator Adams [D., Colo.] said he was "surprised" that none of the witnesses had objected specifically to a portion of the regulatory section which would permit the SEC to "provide safeguards against unreasonable profits or unreasonable rates of commission."

Ralph T. Crane, vice president of Brown, Harriman & Co., New York City, said it would be difficult to define a "reasonable" profit at times.

Senator Maloney [D., Conn.] said the SEC already regulates over-the-counter dealers whose sales of stocks are made outside of the exchanges.

WHEAT PRICES SAG ON RAINS IN CROP BELT

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices on the May delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday were:

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$0.93½	$0.94⅜	$1.31⅝
Corn	.58¼	.59¼	1.07⅝
Oats	.31	.31¼	.50⅝
Rye	.74⅛	.74¼	1.13
Soy beans	1.05½	1.05⅝	1.57¼

Reports of light rains at a few points in parts of eastern Kansas and Nebraska and the weakness in the stock market resulted in a lower range of prices for wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Wheat closed at net losses of ⅛ to ⅞ cent a bushel. Corn declined ¾ to 1 cent with May touching 58¼ cents, a new low since December 8. Oats, rye, and soy beans closed unchanged to a fraction of a cent lower.

There was no evidence of an increase in outside speculative interest and the uncertainty regarding the trend of general business was said to have checked professional operations.

No hope of a breaking of drouth conditions in the southwestern part of the winter wheat belt was held out by the official weather forecast, and reports of dust storms were received from the driest areas in the Texas panhandle and in western Kansas.

Weakness in the corn market was said to be due to liquidation by longs because of the failure of export demand to develop. Yesterday's decline failed to stimulate foreign purchases.

CAPITAL STOCK VALUATIONS UP 12% IN COUNTY

State Commission Figure 53 Million for 1937.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The state tax commission's 1937 capital stock assessments in Cook county, delivered yesterday to County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, showed a 12.2 per cent increase over valuations for 1936. The 1937 total is $53,040,650, as against $47,286,083 in 1936.

Assessments on the capital stock of Illinois corporations are made by both the tax commission and the county assessor, the latter's valuations being merged with personal property assessments. Those of the tax commission are principally on utility and service corporations. The assessor appraises stock of mercantile, manufacturing, newspaper publishing and coal mining corporations and live stock improvement and building and loan associations.

Cover Intangible Assets.

Capital stock valuations apply to the intangible assets of a corporation, or its total value less real estate and tangible property already assessed for tax purposes. The appraisals are sometimes spoken of as representing the going value of a concern.

Virtually all of the Cook county assessments are within the city of Chicago. The 1937 total in the country towns was $1,062,119.

The Holding Company.

"Kindly explain just what a holding company is, and how it operates. I have heard a number of people ask this question, and I am sure TRIBUNE readers would appreciate the answers." We shall try to answer this postal card inquiry, typical of many questions to Everyday Economics, in this and subsequent articles on the setup, function, and history of the holding company.

Broadly and briefly defined, a holding company is any corporation which owns [holds] stock in another company. Generally speaking, a corporation is not thought of as a holding company unless it owns enough stock in another company or companies to have practical control of that company or companies.

Most corporations generally classified as holding companies own substantial amounts of the stock of one or more companies engaged in the same general type of business that they do.

The "parent" or holding company usually formulates operating, sales, and financial policies for itself and its controlled companies. Incidentally, a holding company may have practical control of another through ownership of as little as 10 or 20 per cent of stock, but the controlled company is not classed, technically, as a subsidiary unless the parent owns more than 50 per cent of its voting stock.
